REALTY DEALERS.

Opening of the Second Congress of the Real Estate Men at Buffalo.

Governor Flower Delivered an Address of Welcome and Made Reference to Duluth.

No Wonder Duluth Made Such Astonishing Strides to Its Present Leading Place.

Fertile Western Lands and Their Products Seeking an Eastern Market the Cause.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Oct. 4.—The second annual congress of real estate dealers was called to order by President Weil, of Milwaukee. After prayer by Rev.
Dr. Hubbell and an address of welcome by Mayor Bishop, Governor Flower was introduced.

Governor Flower said: "Of all lines of business yours would seem to be the safest, in one respect at least. There can be no over issue. In railroad and other corporate investments the stock may be watered; in manufacturing there is the menace of possible over production; but in real estate there is just so much, no more, no less. In Arizona, Montana, Indian Territory and so on it is measurable only by miles; in Washington, Nebraska, Kansas and the Dakotas it comes by sections and quarter sections; in Wisconsin, Michigan, Ohio and Georgia by the acre; in Denver, Kansas City and Atlanta by city lots; in Chicago by the foot and in New York by the inch. But in every case it is a certain quantity, and if you are careful enough not to get caught by buying property that lies below the water mark you can see it all as often as you please."

The governor said that while it was necessary for the real estate dealer to possess all the abilities essential to success in business, he must have the faculty of far-sightedness developed to its fullest degree. Continuing, he said:
"Was it any wonder that Chicago became the great metropolis of the West, when the development of the prairies must bring the cereals to the lakes on their way to a market? Was it any wonder that St. Louis and Kansas City were built upon the banks of those great highways of commerce—the Mississippi and the Missouri?"

"Was it any wonder that Duluth, with its 3,000 miles of fertile lands behind it and their products seeking an Eastern market, made such astonishing strides to its place among the great cities? After the discovery of coal, limestone and iron was it a wonder that Birmingham was built in a day? What wonder that in this, the third city in population in our great state, situated at the foot of the greatest chain of deep water inland navigation in the world on the lakes, which furnish the cheapest freight route from all the West with the Erie canal and numerous railroads to transport it to the ocean, the long-visioned real estate dealers invited you from all over this union to this great lake city to see for yourselves its many and peculiar advantages."

The governor concluded as follows:
"It is well for business men, not only in real estate but in other vocations, to organize for their own business advancement, and to meet together to learn better modes. Men who are so alert and so energetic in their business pursuits are the ones whose influence needed and should be constantly exerted in the affairs of government. Time devoted to such efforts will be well spent,
and the reward will be the knowledge edge that the continued performance of such duty by patriotic business men will insure the perpetuity of our beneficent systems for all time, and continue the leader for ever among the nations of the earth."

Col. Henry L. Turner, of Chicago, responded in a neat speech and the congress was declared formally opened.
President Weil then delivered his annual address. Mr. Weil thanked the many faithful workers in all parts of the country who had co-operated with him so effectively in building up the interests of the association. He reviewed the work done since the last meeting. In regard to the movement to secure from the legislatures of the different states a uniform law to be in force and effect throughout the United States, governing the execution and acknowledgement of transfers in realty, he said that the association would not ask for the passage of a law that would return to the interests of real estate and to the detriment of any person or class, and he suggested that a special committee be appointed to investigate the subject and formulate the proper measure.
He spoke of the need of real estate men considering the great annual fire waste in this country, with a view of adopting measures to decrease it, and urged the formation of a board of control and the appointment of a committee to revise the constitution of the association. After appointing the usual committees the convention took a recess until 2 p. m.

Tennyson is Weaker.
LONDON, Oct. 4.—A bulletin issued at 11 o'clock says that Tennyson is weaker.
His temperature has risen slightly.
Since noon Lord Tennyson has been sinking rapidly. The gravest fears are felt. Although no opinion can be obtained from his physicians, it is believed that he may die before midnight.

Pat Egan Returned.
NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—Hon. Patrick
Egan, minister to Chile, arrived today from Colon, on the steamer Newport.

HIT AN OLD MAN.

Charley Mitchell Held For Assault
Which May Become Murder.

LONDON, Oct. 4.—Charley Mitchell, the pugilist, was in the prisoner's dock in the Bow street court this morning to answer to a charge of assault. At midnight Mitchell had a row with an old man named Salvage in a street off the strand. Both had been drinking.
How the trouble started has not yet been ascertained, but after a few words Mitchell suddenly struck the old man a savage blow on the ear. The blow laid open the old man's scalp and he fell stunned to the ground. A crowd gathered, shouting "Shame, shame," etc.
A policeman arrested Mitchell and locked him up. Salvage's wound bled profusely. He lost about a pint of blood before he could be got to the hospital. It is feared his skull is fractured. Mitchell was removed to the Bow street station and remanded to await the result of closer inquiries as to the old man's condition.

THREW ROTTEN EGGS.

The Governor of Tennessee Victim of a Disgraceful Assault.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Oct. 4.—A disgraceful occurrence took place at Blountville yesterday, where Governor Buchanan was speaking in behalf of the People's party.
Several roughs were among his hearers and they suddenly threw a lot of rotten eggs, tomatoes, etc., at the governor.
The meeting broke up in disorder. The toughs would have assaulted the chief executive had it not been for the interference of the officers.

NOT FEELING SO WELL.

Mrs. Harrison's Nervous Condition Disturbed Her Rest.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—Mrs. Harrison's nervous condition has disturbed her rest during the past three nights and as a natural consequence she is not feeling so well this morning as last week.
No new or alarming symptoms have developed in her case and her condition is just about the same as for a week past.

Fire Chiefs Meet.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 4.—The annual session of the National Association of Fire Chiefs was opened in this city this morning. There were 250 chiefs from all parts of the country in attendance and the display of fire appliances was very interesting. Mayor Tyler made the address of welcome, tendering the visitors the freedom of the city. Very little was done at the morning meeting beyond the appointment of committees.
The session will continue four days.

Fusion in North Dakota.

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 4.—A special to the Journal from Grand Forks says:
The Populists and the Democrats of this state have completed their fusion. The Democratic presidential electors have withdrawn, and the People's party electors are endorsed. The Democrats have now but one strait out candidate in the field—O'Brien for congress.

Shot in the Head.

WINNIPEG, Man., Oct. 4.—H. Stanley Pihorn, manager of the Oxley ranch and nephew of Sir Stanley Hill, of London, was found dead in bed yesterday with a bullet wound in his head. Particulars not yet obtainable. He was highly connected in England.

Jumped Overboard.

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—Capt. Randle, of the steamship Friesland from Antwerp, which arrived this morning, reports that Sept. 29, Lar Duchateau, a saloon passenger, of Green Bay, Wis., was found missing and is supposed to have jumped overboard.

In Parnell's Memory.

DUBLIN, Oct. 4.—One year ago next Thursday, Charles Stewart Parnell died at Brighton, Eng. Services in his memory will be held in this city next Sunday, and the corporation of Dublin has decided to attend the services in state.

An Old Merchant Dead.

PITTSBURG, Oct. 4.—Charles Arbutnot, for fifty years a successful merchant in this city, died at his residence on Fifth avenue at 5 o'clock this morning. Mr.
Arbutnot was 77 years of age and very wealthy.

THE TOMLIN CASE.

The Girl's Father Identified Her by a Gold Watch.

There have been no new developments in the case of Eliza Tomlin since her mother left yesterday afternoon to go to Jordan and identify the body. Word was received here that her father had identified it. Breggin the St. Paul & Duluth railroad man who saw her on the train has not been in the city since, and nothing can be learned from that source.
A dispatch in the Minneapolis Journal last evening says that the father only identified her by a gold watch. The dispatch is as follows being dated yesterday.

"Late yesterday afternoon parties walking near the mill pond at Jordan discovered the body of the missing young lady, Eliza Tomlin, who mysteriously disappeared a week ago from Duluth. She arrived in Jordan last Monday and applied at several places for work as a domestic but failed to obtain any, and in a fit of despondency drowned herself. The marshal telegraphed to her father at Janesville, Minn., and the relatives forwarded it to Minneapolis and he arrived on this morning's train.
The body was bloated and discolored.
He only identified it by a gold watch.
The coroner will hold an inquest this afternoon."

A BRUTE LYNCHED.

The Fiendish Assault of a Woman in North Carolina Hanged
by a Mob.

Before Being Strung Up He Was Mutilated and Afterwards Riddled With Bullets.

The Crime, of Which He Confessed Being Guilty, Was of Atrocious Character.

RALEIGH, N. C., Oct. 4.— has been received here of a lyn-Camden Court House in Camden near Edenton. Judge Lynch's victim, Joe Barco, who on September 13 was raged and then murdered Mrs. Frank Sanderlin at her home near Shiloh, Mrs.
Sanderlin, who had but recently married, was highly respected and well connected. The crime was committed in daylight near the village.

Mrs. Sanderlin's body was literally cut to pieces with a hoe after the assault.
She had gone to her garden to gather vegetables. The body remained there until Friday night, her husband being from home. He left her alone with an infant child.
Evidence connecting Barco with the crime left no doubt of his guilt.
Locks of hair torn from his head in the desperate struggle were found in the desolate woods, and the hoe with which he had gone into the field to work was found broken and bloody near by.
His bloody garments were also found secreted near the place of the assault.
He confessed his guilt after a coroner's jury had found a verdict against him.
He was taken to jail by some 500 men, and after being emasculated and otherwise mutilated he was hung up and riddled with bullets.

VERY HEAVY TRADING.

The Wheat Market Was Strong and Very Active Today.

This was a busy day on the Duluth board.
Trading was very large and the transactions ran up into the millions of bushels. It was a strong market throughout and prices closed at the highest figures of the season. Business was heavy in both cash and futures. There was some remarkably large trading in December and small receipts at Northwestern points. Several swaps were made of December to May at a premium of 1/8c on the latter. The close was 1/4c to 3/4c higher than yesterday, as follows:
No. 1 hard, cash, 72 1/2c; October, 72 1/2c; December, 73c; May, 73 1/2c. No. 1 northern, cash,

No. 2 northern, cash, 69 1/2c; October, 69 1/2c; December, 70c; May, 70 1/2c. Rejected, 5c.
No. 1 track, 71c; No. 1 hard, 71c; No. 1 northern, 72c; Rye 52c.
Car inspection today, $9. Receipts—Wheat, 42,225 bus; barley, 10,400 bus; rye, 1250 bus; flax, 481 bus. Shipments—Wheat, 16,200 bus; rye, 695 bus. Cars on track, 194; last year, 227.
Four statements for the week ended Saturday last shows: Production by local mills, 8,500
bbls; receipts by rail, 128,070 bbls; shipments, 141,225 bbls; flour now in store, 215,825 bbls.

Outside Markets.

PARSONS ANSWERS

People's Party Candidate Makes a Reply to Some of Wesenberg's Charges.

Says that He Never Had Any Dealings Whatever With Anton Ringsred.

Also that Wesenberg Wanted the People's Party to Buy Out His Paper.

A Herald reporter interviewed A. C. Parsons, the People's party candidate for congress in this district, last evening on the bolt of the Duluth Skandinav, Wesenberg's paper, against Parsons' candidacy, and the demand for his withdrawal from the ticket, the basis of the demand being some charges made by one Anton Ringsred against his business integrity. Mr. Parsons was quite indignant at the reflections made and spoke emphatically, saying:

"The whole thing is an absolute lie from first to last, and the only thing which prevents me from hiring Bill Erwin to commence an action against these parties is that they have no property. I never had any dealings with Ringsred as charged. The only business connection I ever had with him was to write out a contract for his request for a deal between himself and my brother. He had come up to my office to see my brother, but he was out. The contract, I believe, was made between them, and my brother gave him a $500 note, but Ringsred afterward backed out of the contract. I was not interested in it in any way. No lawyer would give such a charge any consideration for a moment.

"Now, as for Wesenberg. He took these charges down to the state committee of the People's party and submitted them. I was at the meeting when they were presented and Wesenberg was there too. The committee informed him that this was no evidence against me, and was entirely irrelevant to the case. Later on the whole thing was laid on the table and the secretary told me that he himself made the motion. The same thing was presented to the district committee and like the state committee it refused to consider it. I have Mr. Donnelly as authority for all this if you need it.

"The man who denounces Wesenberg the strongest is one of his own countrymen, the state secretary of the People's party. I could name another man who has more influence than any of us here who denounces him vigorously. He tried to come the same trick on a number of the People's party candidates, on Donnelly and on some of the congressional candidates, and even advertised the statement that Donnelly would withdraw. He is regarded by the Populists as a boodler and has no influence whatever. He made a bad impression on the state committee and at the county convention last summer did all he could to bring on a fight particularly against A. McLean. It was said at the time that McLean had some boodler charges against him.

"Some light may be thrown on the true inwardness of Wesenberg's bolt by a little history. This summer, after my nomination, he urged upon the representatives of the People's party here, the organization of a stock company with a capital of $10,000 to buy out his paper and make it a People's party organ, to be published in Sweden, Norwegian and English. He was to be made manager and was to go out making speeches for the People's party this fall. He came into my office several times and insisted that I should subscribe $1000 stock, yes he not only insisted but demanded it. The People's party did not do it as he wanted.

"I am in this fight to stay and will not withdraw. I am making an honest and honorable campaign, one of principle. I have nothing to say against my opponents, Judge Scobie and Maj. Baldwin. I believe they are both honorable gentlemen."

Wesenberg's Reply.

The Herald reporter also visited Mr. Wesenberg to see what answer he would make to Mr. Parsons. He said he will make a reply later but in regard to the statement that the state committee has refused to consider the charges he said that being a member himself he ought to know what was done. The state committee took no action because it did not consider that it had any jurisdiction. When he saw that no action would be taken Mr. Wesenberg said that he withdrew the charges and the letter.

LAST NIGHT'S PRIMARIES.

No Contests of Any Note and Everything Harmonious.

The Republican primaries passed off without much noise and a ticket favorable to J. B. Cotton, J. H. Boggs and Lon Merritt was, or is, at least, supposed to have been elected. S. H. Moer is probably the choice of the majority for the judgeship, if not of all. In the First ward there was no contest. In the First precinct of the Second ward J. B. Sutphin received 66 votes and Frank Burke's 23.

In the Second precinct of the Second ward Thomas Clark and A. H. Holgate were candidates, the former receiving 38 votes to the latter's 13. In the Second precinct of the Third ward the contest was close, P. S. Anneke and George F. Ash being the candidates. The former received 39 votes and the latter 38. In the Second precinct of the Fourth ward "Sammy" Phillips and Berry Lewis, the colored orator, were pitted against John Williams and William McRae. The Phillips ticket went under, getting about 40 votes to the others' 125. The following is a list of delegates elected from the city and from West Duluth:

First ward—First precinct, Stephen Pierce; Second precinct, Napoleon Grignon; Third precinct, S. L. Pierce. Second ward—First precinct, Harvey Wing; Second precinct, Tom Clark. Third ward—First precinct, John Sutphin; Second precinct, P. S. Anneke; Third precinct, J. E. Meyers; Fourth precinct, C. A. Towne.

Fourth ward—First precinct, John

McKinley; Second precinct, John Williams and W. McRae; Third precinct, Bert Johnson; Fourth precinct, Bert Johnson.

Fifth ward—First precinct, J. W. Nelson; Second precinct, Andrew Sordling; Third precinct, J. O. Milne. Sixth ward—First precinct, N. O. Nelson; Second precinct, Samuel Meniee.

West Duluth—First ward, C. H. Martz; Second, G. J. Mallory, G. F. Davis, A. Johnson and A. D. Grant. Third, C. F. Lamb. Fourth ward, no caucuses.

A WILD, WEIRD TALE.

Strange Story About the Man Who Stole Mr. Pearson's Telescope.

A weird place is Powderhorn lake, near Minneapolis, surrounded as it is with a heavy growth of timber and an ideal spot for the dime novel author to locate a fierce desperado's rendezvous. This is the spot where Simon Neil, a grotesque appearing individual, resides all alone in a little red cottage down near the water's edge. He has always been a mysterious man, not being seen by his neighbors for long intervals at a time, and there are many rumors afloat among them about his being able to communicate with the spirits of the lower land.

Mr. Pearson, of Duluth, says the Minneapolis Times, in telling the story, came down one morning to his place of business a couple of months ago and found his store had been burglarized. An inventory of the stock showed a $2000 loss. One of the articles which was valued very highly was a large telescope. The chief of police of Duluth sent notices to the various large cities, asking them to watch out for the goods. Inspectors Hankinson and Hoy were detailed on the case and by means of a strange coincidence their attention was attracted to the mysterious little red cottage at Powderhorn lake and its more mysterious owner.

A visit was made to the place by the inspectors, who were received very coldly. When they declared themselves and attempted to arrest their man he jumped into the house and snatched a revolver from the bed, exclaiming, "You will never take me from this place alive." Before he could raise his revolver the two shining "bull dogs" of the inspectors were covering him. It is a hard matter to look into the muzzle of a 44-caliber revolver, and the pair of them were too great a strain for Simon Neil, so he bravely tossed his deadly weapon back on the bed, as the officers requested him to do.

A search was made of the cottage, which was as spic and span as though kept by an old maid, and there, hidden away under a pile of story papers on the shelf was the long-missing telescope. Under the bed was found a striped suit of convict's clothing. Neil refused to explain how he got them, and it was thought that he at one time perhaps served a term in the penitentiary, and escaped before his term had expired, and kept his suit as a remembrance of his flight.

Further search revealed a sight that made the cold chills chase up and down the inspectors' backs. A large oven in the kitchen was opened, which was filled with human bones. Six skulls, highly polished, which had the color of a nicely browned mutton chop, were lying on the floor. The head had probably turned them to their present tinge. A femur bone, which looked like that of a woman's, was found.

The prisoner positively refused to say a word about how he got them, or to whom they formerly belonged. The skulls were not disturbed, but the "striped suit" which was under the bed was wrapped up in one of the story papers from the shelf and brought down to the central station, where it still remains. Neil was taken to Duluth, where he was convicted as an accessory to the theft of the goods from the Duluth store, and sentenced to fifteen months in the state prison at Stillwater.

The man was as mute after being sentenced about the clothes and human bones as when the officers arrested him. Among some decayed leaves and weeds near the cottage door was found an old envelope on which were the words, "Clara Neil Neil, Air Line Junction, Toledo, O." The ink had so faded that the address was indistinct.

DUE TO PERITONITIS.

A Probable Crime Discovered by Examining a Body.

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—Mrs. Nellie F. Sharp, aged 26 years, wife of John Sharp, who is said to be a son of Jacob Sharp, of Broadway railroad fame, died a week ago at Woodside. She was buried in Evergreen cemetery on a death certificate, which set forth the cause of death as peritonitis, probably the result of a criminal operation.

Mr. Bland, the girl's father, grew suspicious and had the body exhumed and examined. The examination reveals that death was caused by peritonitis, probably the result of a criminal operation. It is claimed that the death certificate was forged, and the police are after the perpetrators.

The Gang Wiped Out.

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Oct. 4.—Charles David, another notorious member of the Cooley gang, was captured yesterday. This last capture practically wipes out the gang of robbers and ruffians. A long list of murders and other charges has been filed against him and he is likely to go to jail for a long term.

Fifty-Eight Horses Cremated.

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—Early this morning fire broke out in the stables occupied by Christopher Ronan, a truckman, at 506 East Seventy-first street. It spread so rapidly that an adjoining stable, No. 508, occupied by Mr. Creedon, also took fire. Ronan lost forty-five horses and Creedon thirteen. The total damage is about $12,000.

It Was Unsatisfactory.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 4.—The decision of the California Athletic club in the fight between Smith, of Los Angeles, and Siddons, of New York, for a purse of $2000, awards each man $500 and declares the contest an unsatisfactory affair.

Sick of the Ring.

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—John L. Sullivan, who arrived here yesterday, denied that he intends to challenge Corbett to fight again. He says he is heartily sick of the ring.

A MERRY RATE WAR.

The Great Northern Slashes the Lake and Rail Tariff.

The action of the Soo road a week ago in cutting about 33 1/2 per cent off the prevailing freight tariff between New York and St. Paul has been met by the Great Northern. Tomorrow a freight tariff will be put in from New York to St. Paul on the basis of 54 cents per 100 pounds, being a cut of 50 per cent on that now in force.

This tariff is a combination rail and lake, and the route over which it will be operative will be the New York, Lake Erie & Western railroad from New York city to Buffalo, thence via Northern Steamship company to Duluth, and over the Eastern Minnesota to St. Paul. These rates will remain in force until navigation is closed, which will be about six weeks.

Cullum, Fergusson block, is the original painless dentist.

Perhaps some of our readers would like to know in what respect Chamberlain's cough remedy is better than any other. We will tell you. When this remedy is taken as soon as a cold has been contracted, and before it has been settled in the system, it will counteract the effect of the cold and greatly lessen its severity, and it is the only remedy that will do this. It acts in perfect harmony with nature and aids nature in relieving the lungs, opening the secretions, liquefying the mucus and causing its expulsion from the air cells of the lungs and restoring the system to a strong and healthy condition. No other remedy in the market possesses these remarkable properties. No other will cure a cold so quickly. For sale by druggists.

COUNTY SEAT WAR.

The People of Hitchcock County in Nebraska Engaged in a Fierce Fight.

Effort Made to Remove the County Seat from the Town of Culbertson.

An Attempt to Remove the Records Frustrated—People of Two Towns Armed.

CULBERTSON, Neb., Oct. 4.—A fierce county seat war is raging in Hitchcock county. An injunction was issued by the supreme court to restrain the county officials from removing the county records from Culbertson. The county treasurer and clerk disregarded the order and proceeded to remove the records from their offices, but were stopped by the citizens before many records were taken.

Culbertson is now virtually in a state of siege. Every citizen in the city is armed with whatever weapon he can find, and the town is encircled by sentinels. No one can enter without a challenge from the guards. When the Trenton people appeared yesterday it was to the number of 100. They appeared to approach the town with a view of carrying off the records with a rush. They were not armed, and a shot from the sheriff's rifle sent them on the run for Trenton.

There is no communication between the two places, but it is known that Trenton people are armed and excited. Troops are expected here hourly. If they do not arrive soon another fight may occur.

NOBLE VERY CONFIDENT.

Sure of Republican Success in Wisconsin, Minnesota and the Dakotas.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—Secretary of the Interior Noble is just at present in pretty close touch with Missouri politics and said yesterday there was no doubt but that Warner, the Republican candidate for governor of Missouri, would be elected.

"From what I can hear from Wisconsin," added Mr. Noble, "there is no reason to doubt that Spooner will be elected governor. No matter what the Democrats say, that state is sure to give its electoral vote to Harrison. The reports that I have from Minnesota prove conclusively to me that that state will give the Republican national ticket at least 20,000 plurality. Reports come to me also from North and South Dakota that lead me to believe that both of those states are safe for Harrison."

DESTROYED BY FIRE.

Lantern Globe Works Burned at an Early Hour Today.

BELLAIRE, Ohio, Oct. 4.—At 2 o'clock this morning the Lantern Globe works of this city were destroyed by fire. It started in the box shop and soon spread to the packing room, where the fire department was powerless to stop the progress of the flames.

This factory was the pioneer of the Ohio valley in the glass business and the only factory making lantern globes in the valley. The loss will be $40,000 and insurance $20,000.

Took His Own Life.

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—J. B. Moorehead, a young actor and manager for Garland Gaden, author and star of the Young American Theatrical company, was found dead in his room at 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon. There was a bullet in his left breast and on the bed beside him lay a revolver. He belonged to a suicide club in New York, and the hour for his suicide having arrived he carried out the agreement.

Eleven Prisoners Escaped.

ALARMINGLY FREQUENT.

Are Women Slaves of Weakness?

For eight years I have been constantly under the care of doctors, but found no relief, nor, from what the doctors told me, did I expect to get any better. I was convinced that they did not understand my case, so I thought I would try Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, and the result has been truly wonderful. I now feel in better health than for the last twenty years. During all this time I have been suffering with malaria, heart disease, kidney and liver complaints, nervous prostration and sleeplessness. For the three months before taking this wonderful remedy I had been confined to my room, and most of the time to the bed. I feel, with the blessing of God, Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy has given me a new lease of life and health, and that I am cured of all my troubles. I have a great desire that others may be benefited as I have been, and take every opportunity to recommend Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy to the sick. Mrs. E. S. Bogart, Baptist Home, Sixty-eighth street, New York city.

If you feel faint, nervous, dull, tired, languid, low-spirited, lifeless and miserable, experience a faintness, sense of fullness or bloating after eating, have irregular appetite, constipated bowels, frequent headaches, wakeful or disturbed and unrefreshing sleep, with weak back, backache, dragging down pains, irregularities, falling, etc., go instantly to the drug store and get for $1.00 a bottle of Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy which is the greatest boon to women ever discovered, and by its use be restored to sound, healthy and vigorous womanhood. Take this wonderful remedy now.

You need not fear to use it, for it is purely vegetable and perfectly harmless, and it will bring back strength to your nerves, freshness to your complexion, brightness to your eyes and the bloom of health to your cheeks.

The discoverer of this great remedy, Dr. Greene, the most successful specialist in curing all forms of nervous and chronic diseases, 35 West Fourteenth street, New York, can be consulted free, personally or by letter. Call or write him about your case or send for symptom blank to fill out, and a letter fully explaining your disease, giving advice, etc., will be returned free.

The Weather.

U. S. WEATHER BUREAU, DULUTH, MINN., Oct. 4.—Generally fair weather still prevails in all parts of the country and with the exception of some light showers along the lower lakes there has been no rainfall during the past twenty-four hours.The temperature is rising steadily, but it is still cool over the West and Southwest in spite of the fact that it is below freezing in the north part of Minnesota and the Northwest.All of the country is covered by an area of high barometer except over the New England states where a storm of slight energy is central.
The highest temperature here yesterday was 70°; the lowest last night 49°.DULUTH, Oct. 4.—Continued fair weather; slight change in temperature; light easterly
wind.R. H. BOSSON, followed by rising temperature. For Wisconsin:

Generally fair; northerly winds; colder Wednesday morning, followed by rising temperature in Upper Wisconsin.

GLADSTONE'S LATEST TROUBLE.

Mr. Gladstone's foreign policy is again giving him trouble. The average Britisher is earnest in his desire that his country shall extend its dominions throughout the world. He is anxious that British rule shall be felt in all portions of the globe. He wants the British empire to remain a nation "upon which the sun never sets." Consequently England has always taken the lead in the establishment of colonies. It has likewise resented, by force if necessary, the encroachment of other nations upon what it deemed its own by right of occupation or conquest. A British protectorate has been regarded as British ownership.Mr. Gladstone, during the various periods that he has been premier, has been virtually opposed to this feeling.
His proposal to evacuate Egypt raised a storm of popular disapproval, and in forming his present cabinet he recognized that fact by selecting as his foreign minister Lord Roseberry who is opposed to the relinquishment of British control in the land of Pharaohs. But both Mr. Gladstone and Lord Roseberry have made an unpopular move by deciding to abandon Uganda.
A dispatch the other day represented that the Tories were boiling over with rage at this decision, but a cable dispatch to The Herald yesterday showed that this feeling extends outside the ranks of the Tory politicians. The freedom of the city of Swansea in Wales has been conferred upon Henry M. Stanley as a recognition of his denunciation of any move looking toward the abandonment of Uganda. Uganda is considered the most desirable region in Central Africa, and Stanley says that at Victoria Nyanza there are many thousands of people ready to trade with the British merchants.It is known that both the French government and the Congo Free State are anxious to seize Uganda as soon as the British withdraw from it, and the French missionaries are expected to raise a cry for French interference in their behalf whenever Capt.
Lugard and his force depart from the country. The London Times terms the Uganda decision "a cowardly and disgraceful scuttling in order to save £40,000 a year." It says: "Who can guarantee that our missions will not be swept away in the flood of aggressive barbarism that will roll back over the land, or save the nascent civilization round our settlement from the threatened destruction and from the horrors that have already been witnessed in the equatorial province?"
If the Gladstone government shall persist in its decision to abandon Uganda, there will undoubtedly be a lively fight when parliament meets that will put the Irish question in the shade and may result in the defeat of the ministry before it has an opportunity to pass any of the measures to which it is committed by election pledges.

RAILROAD MEN'S WAGES.

The Herald publishes today a communication from a railroad employe in reply to a recent article by The Railway Age, which was quoted in a Herald editorial on Saturday, in which it was asserted that before the wages of any railroad employes can be raised the earnings of the roads must be increased.
The Age offered figures to show that any material increase would bankrupt many of the roads.The answer is from a practical railroad man's point of view and it appears to riddle the Age's argument very effectually. There is much in what this correspondent says about the net earnings of many roads being kept down by poor management and the presence of barnacles drawing fat salaries and doing nothing.That the News was in a very excited condition this morning is evident from the following remark: "There is now acrisis in the commercial development of our country, such as there was in the life struggle of the country in 1863 and 1864, and like Chase in war times, Gresham in the present campaign goes over to the enemy." A sedative is badly needed for the News' nerves.

J. MENAN'S DEATH.

Joseph Ernest Menan, the distinguished French author and philologist, who died Sunday at the age of 69, was a man of rare intellectual ability. He was a voluminous writer, and all his works are marked by originality of thought and remarkable reasoning power. His religious views were generally misunderstood.
He was not an atheist, as many supposed, but a deist. His great history of Israel before the birth of Christ is a work that will preserve his name.

THE FACTS STAND.

The News blustered a little this morning, but it failed to deny the facts and figures produced in last evening's issue, showing that The Herald leads all newspapers in this section in size, amount of advertising, number of columns of reading matter and in circulation, in the latter respect exceeding both the morning papers combined. The facts and figures stand uncontroverted.Realism on the stage is advancing to perfection. A London actor recently fell dead while engaged in a death struggle scene. The audience thought it was a clever bit of realistic acting and applauded vigorously. He was not the only man, however, whose death has been applauded.The St. Paul Globe calls him "Traitor Peck." A traitor is usually a man who gives away facts to the enemy. Mr.
Peck's report contains facts that knock out the Democratic claim that wages have not increased in the last two years, and that is why they shout "traitor!"It is said that Col. C. A. Lounsbury is again a candidate in North Dakota for the United States senate. The colonel is a perennial candidate for something and if he is wise he will cling tightly to the position of special land agent which he now holds.An alderman last night introduced a resolution to publish in a St. Paul paper a list of the voting places, clerks and judges. This would be a waste of money.
The St. Paul papers have a very limited circulation in Duluth.Hon. John R. Lynch, of Mississippi, will address the Republicans at the Howard building this evening. Mr.
Lynch is one of the finest colored orators in the South, and no one who admires good speaking should fail to hear him tonight.It is to be regretted that Mr. Horr, the Michigan orator, has lost his voice.
There are other political spell-binders,
the loss of whose voices would not create much regret.The two decisions by the Wisconsin supreme court in the apportionment cases have knocked the wind out of Senator Vilas' reputation as a constitutional lawyer.The Minneapolis girls must be decidedly tough. One fell out of a third story window the other day and arose uninjured and walked into the house.When Mr. Hill mentioned Mr. Cleveland's name in his Brooklyn speech he promptly swallowed a glass of water, to take the bad taste out of his mouth.The Briggs heresy case is like the poor—it is always with us.

RUNNING CHANCES

of the baby breaking your watch may not result in any damage to your time-piece and loss to your pocket, but there are risks and risks. Some risks you can run without much danger; others you cannot. Missing an early inspection of our stock of Domestic and Imported Novelties is one of the chances you can't run without incurring a loss. In this case two things are certain: This stock is superior to anything we ever offered before, and it is most assuredly superior to anything else now shown in this city. It is sometimes a loss of money not to spend it and it is certainly losing money to miss securing some of these specialties.ANDREW JACKSON,

THE HOUCK TRIAL.

Tim Haley Was on the Stand Nearly All of Yesterday Afternoon.John Phalen, a Traveling Salesman Who Witnessed the Crime,
On This Morning.Dr. Charest, the Attending Physician, Chief Briggs and Others Also Examined.The Houck murder case can now be said to be fairly under way. Promptly at 2:30 o'clock yesterday, Judge Stearns called court. The jurors answered to the roll call after which County Attorney Tear quickly stepped before them and read the indictment charging Frank Houck with murder in the first degree as the result of snuffing out the life of John Hagerty in a saloon row at West
Duluth on Monday evening, Sept. 6 last.
That was followed by the statement of the facts in the case and the explanation from a diagram of the saloon premises where the bloody work was done.Timothy Haley was the first witness called by the prosecution. He is a carpenter 24 years of age and lives in West Duluth. He entered the saloon in company with Murphy and Hagerty and was with them when they were killed.
On the direct examination he said:"I went into the saloon between 5:30 and 6 o'clock p. m., with Murphy and Hagerty following. I advanced to about the center of the bar and then looked around to see the whereabouts of my companions. Saw Murphy talking to Houck. Murphy laid his right hand on Houck's left arm and said: 'Hello, Frank, are you as good a man as you were last night?' Houck made no answer. Murphy then raised his right hand and struck Houck a side blow somewhere on the head. It did not knock him down. I then heard Houck and Murphy staggered toward the front of the saloon. He said: 'I'm shot,' Murphy fell down on his hands and knees on the floor. Hagerty and I helped him up, but he could not stand. Houck retreated down the center, toward the rear of the saloon.
Hagerty called Houck some vile name and said, would you shoot down a man like that? and at the same time called him a coward. He covered Houck with his revolver. I saw Houck raise his right hand and say to me, 'I will shoot you if you come near me.' Hagerty then rushed toward Houck. I warned him that he would get shot as also did Cogan, the saloon-keeper. I seized Hagerty and pulled him back but he broke away and seized Houck by the collar at the throat. The two men then tussled around between the chairs around the tables in the saloon. Houck fired one shot and then back further three more followed in quick succession.
The two men then struggled across to the south side of the saloon. Houck struck Hagerty with the muzzle of his revolver. I tried to grab Houck's arm but Cogan pushed me away. Hagerty then fell to the floor and rushed behind the bar with Cogan. Hagerty had no weapon and struck no blows. No words were spoken by either him or Houck. Saw the two last shots fired.
Left the saloon after Hagerty fell to the floor and Houck went behind the bar."On the cross examination the testimony of the prisoner was not materially shaken and some minor points and particulars were brought out. The defense attempted to establish the fact that the three men were drunk when they entered the saloon, but met with poor success. They also followed out a line of questioning that would indicate that to establish the fact that the three men went into the saloon for the purpose of "cleaning it out" as the result of a row between Murphy and Houck the night before.

THE MORNING SESSION.

A Traveling Man and the Attending Physician Are Witnesses.In behalf of the blind goddess, promptly at nine o'clock this morning Judge Stearns adjusted the scales of justice preparatory to receiving and weighing another day's grist of evidence which eventually means either life or a hangman's rope for Frank Houck.
The roll call showed all the jurors present save Epling and Jobeau. The prisoner, defense, prosecution and officers of the court occupied about the same positions and presented about the same appearance as yesterday. On the east side of the court room, not over twenty feet from the prisoner, heavily dressed in mourning, with her children at her knee sat the wife of the murdered Murphy. The audience of spectators was not so large as yesterday afternoon but before the morning session closed the attendance was almost up to high water mark. Within a few minutes the tardy jurors dropped into their seats and the day's proceedings commenced.Timothy Haley, the witness who occupied the witness stand yesterday, was recalled by the defense and questioned on a few points but no new facts were brought out. He was soon dismissed and John Phalen called. He lives in St. Paul and is connected with a drug house as a traveling salesman. The testimony was substantially as follows:
"I was in West Duluth and in the saloon at the time this shooting occurred—nearly 6 o'clock. I stood facing the bar.
Cogan was behind the bar and there was a second bartender with him. About this time three or four men walked in. I recognized John Murphy as one of the number. They walked toward the further end of the saloon. The next thing I remember seeing was Houck step out around the end of the bar and advance toward the men. There were four or five men present aside from the bartenders. I remember hearing a shot fired. Cannot remember hearing any conversation between the parties concerned. Was paying but little attention. Remember saying, 'For God's sake, stop shooting.' There was scuffling over the chairs and tables, after which several shots were fired. Thought it time then to get out. Noticed Houck with a revolver in his hand. Went out rear door. Saw a man on the floor, withblood on his face. Remember seeing no blows."On cross examination the witness stated that he was in West Duluth to sell a drug stock. He had been drinking a good deal and because of that was unable to remember more of the affair.
The event was a good deal of a blur but some things stood out very clearly in his mind. Was not sure one way or another whether or not he stood by Houck when the men came in and that he tipped him with his foot. Phalen saw no blows struck and only heard the first shot. The defense then started to ask some questions as to the fuss the night before but the prosecution made objections which were sustained by the judge.Dr. Remi Charest, being sworn, testified that he was in West Duluth at the time of the shooting and that he was called in to attend the victims soon after the deed.
Hagerty was four or five feet from the back door, and bleeding from wounds in the head. Asked him where he was wounded and he said, "in the abdomen."
Hagerty removed to a house in the rear of the saloon. No examination was made as Hagerty had his clothing on. Saw that he was in a dying condition. He was complaining of pain.
Then went out to attend Murphy.
Saw Hagerty again about 7 o'clock the same evening. He was then dead. Went to the morgue and performed the autopsy. There were three wounds, one in the abdomen, one in the left hip and a third in the right thigh. In that wound the ball lodged near the skin on the back of the thigh. The ball in the hip did not penetrate far and took a downward direction.
Death resulted from hemorrhage from the bullet entering the abdomen. The bullet making that wound cut the bowels in four places and was not found, lodging in the back somewhere.On cross examination, the witness explained all the details as to the nature of the wounds and the direction the balls took. It was also stated that there were three wounds in the head, in a space not over one and a half inches, that they were produced by some sharp instrument and that they were about one-twelfth of an inch in length and reached to the bones of the skull.
Thought they were made with a revolver trigger but admitted that they could have been made by a large sight on the barrel of a weapon.Mr. English, a West Duluth carpenter, who was engaged in moving the building at the rear of the saloon the day of the tragedy, was the next witness sworn.
He testified as follows:"I stood at the gate to the yard at the rear of the saloon almost or quite opposite the back door. It was just quieting time and I was just picking up my coat when I heard a shot. I stepped to the gate and directly heard a lot of shots.
The last were very rapid and were possibly a minute after the first. I thought that some one was shooting at the moose which was kept at the rear of the saloon on the inside. I went up to the back door and met a man coming out. When I got on the inside the room was full of smoke and seemed quite dark. I saw a man staggering across the room. I took him by the shoulders and laid him on the floor as he sank down. No words were spoken.
I walked up through the saloon and saw another man laid out on the floor. There were three men behind the bar. Recognized King and Cogan.
Think I saw Houck, but cannot swear to his identity. No words were exchanged.
The man I met going out was yelling loudly 'Stop the fight!'Cross examination—"One man behind the bar was taking money out of the till.
I went right through the saloon to the front street and looked for a policeman.
Came back a minute and then went to the chief of police. King was handling the money. The other bartender was the one I was accustomed to see. Mr. English again admitted he could not swear to the identity of Houck. He was requested to stand up, whereupon the witness said he corresponded in size and appearance to the man he saw behind the bar with King and Cogan.Gey, Fenhale, one of the house movers, testified about as English. He saw the fellow who ran out at the rear, saw Cogan and Houck behind the bar, met the moose keeper, and after he went inside told Cogan he would go for a doctor, I which offer a reply of "all right" was made.Arthur Briggs, the chief of police, gave testimony which contained nothing startling or not already known. He also stated that when he asked Cogan who did the deed, he replied that he did not know. The chief and Mr. Phelps, of the defense, made two or three sickly attempts to be pert and witty, which made the laffers giggle and the judge look weary.The last witness of the morning was
M. Roach, a member of the West Duluth police force, who narrated the circumstances of finding Houck concealed in the closet at St. Charles Hotel. Roach also stated that the murderer told him he had slept in the woods and that he came home at 4 o'clock that morning.
Before the defense took the witness, the judge proclaimed a recess until 2 p. m.

THE HIGH SCHOOL CLOCK

Will be Quarter Chiming and of Sweet Tone.The specifications of the big clock for Central High school tower, which F. D. Day is now putting in, will be of general interest. The clock will be one of the E. Howard company's quarter chiming tower clocks with four illuminated glass dials, each eleven feet in diameter. It will be of the Westminster variety and the bells will play four tones at the first quarter, eight at the second quarter, twelve at the third quarter and the entire Westminster chime at the hour, followed by the strike of the hour on the large bell. The bells will be of very sweet sonorous tone and will weigh respectively 3500, 1500, 1000 and 700 pounds each.The clock is fixed with a new silencing device, so that in case of sickness or any other objection the bells will not sound. The pendulum is fourteen feet long and will be set in motion by a three-legged double gravity escapement.
The clock is guaranteed to run inside of ten seconds variation per month, but the actual variation will probably be only three or four seconds. Mr. Day will have the clock in position very soon.BEECHAM'S PILLS cures bilious and nervous ills.Things
Ladies Know
Better Than Men!A Seal Skin Cloak is a Seal Skin Cloak to a man, and that generally rounds up about all his knowledge on the subject. A woman knows much more. There is "Shoddy" in Seal Skins as much as there is in cloth, relatively speaking. In the city of Duluth there are hundreds of ladies who are connoisseurs in Seal Garments. They know intuitively almost the DRY GOODS STORE Seal Skin Garment from that which comes from the experienced furriers. There is nearly as much difference in Seal skins as there is between the glittering rhinestone and the pure diamond. Even dry goods men themselves are deceived in the qualities of Seal Garments which no reputable furrier would touch at all. And they will sell them with every honest intent for as much money as the very finest Fur Garments are worth. Some times they really get MORE than perfectly regal skins could be purchased for. I have been in the Fur business for many years. I know to a hair the value of a real pelt. When I buy I get select skins, none others
The rejected supplies goes to the big factories which supply the DRY GOODS TRADE, and they bring about as big prices as the very choicest stock. These facts most ladies are posted on. They buy no Seal Skin Garments therefore, without knowing where and by whom made. When you buy a Fur Garment from me it is from first hands and you pay not one cent more for it than do dry goods dealers who buy them in lump lots from Eastern factories.No dry goods store, therefore, can compete with me in prices, and certainly not in high qualities. The moral is obvious. I allude to these points, believing that they will interest you, and because they are simple truths about our business.R. KROJANKER,

THE WAGES OF EMPLOYEES.

The Question Considered From a Practical Railroad Man's View.

To the Editor of The Herald:

In reply to the article in the Railway Age, which you quote in your editorial columns, of Saturday last, permit me to present this question from a practical railroad man's point of view. Assuming that the basis of the Railway Age article is correct, that there are 860,000 employees in the service of the railways of the United States, it cannot be claimed that all, half or even a third of them are demanding an increase in their pay of even 10 cents per day. The truth is that there are but two or three classes of railroad employes today who think they are under paid, and they do not form a third of the 860,000.Unskilled labor wherever employed has, and always will, have its pay regulated by the law of supply and demand, and this class of labor employed by railroads as track laborers, freight handlers, etc., have never caused them any great trouble or loss, and while they form a large proportion of the employes of a railroad, I do not think they should be included at the present day in such a calculation, except for the purpose used by the author of that article. With one or two exceptions, all railroads in the country have recognized the Federation of Railway employes, including locomotive engineers, firemen, conductors, brakemen and switchmen, and these classes of employees are well paid for their services, and are now generally contented throughout the country. I do not think this entire class should be included in his calculations either.The classes of employes 'that are causing railroad companies trouble now are telegraph operators, agents and clerks, and there is no one familiar with the business but will admit that this class has been underpaid in the past, as well as at present.
Railroad managers will meet their demands as promptly as possible in future, as was done last spring by the Southern Pacific and Santa Fe systems, and neither of these roads appear to be any worse off for having done so, but probably their able managers knew where economy in other places would meet the increase in wages.The editor of the Railway Age will not deny that there is another class of railway employes still, that are not demanding an increase of 30 cents per day in wages, and with whom he now more often comes in contact with than he did four years ago when in St. Paul; they are presidents, general managers, traffic managers, counselors, general passenger and freight agents, purchasing agents and so on "ad infinitum," most of whom are paid better than a judge of the supreme court of the United States, and some even better than the president of this great and free country. Does he also include this class in his wonderful calculation?In conclusion let me say that there is no such general demand for an increase of wages among railway employes, as the Railway Age would have us believe. If a railway manager can demonstrate to any class of employes who wait upon him with a request for an increase, that the road is not in a position to grant it, and at the same time, that it is being handled in a strictly business and honest manner, you can rest assured that no strike will result.However, when a road is managed, as many employes know to their sorrow, with incompetent men at the head and a host of barnacles clinging to it, and the management grinding down wages tomeet dividends instead of shaking off the barnacles and stopping the leaks, the public will continue to be bothered by strikes and continue to read such articles in the Railway Age as an excuse for poor management.

AT THE MUNICIPAL COURT.

Nineteen Prisoners Before the Court
This Morning.There were nineteen prisoners before Judge Powell this morning. Andrew Holtz, James Magraw, John Peterson, John Brown, Charles Keaven, Alfred
Roberts, Patsey Carey, H. M. Clark, Ernie Hart and Matt Hill got the regulation prescription of $10 or ten days for being drunk.James Miller, Charles Miller and S.
Daugherty were also drunk but promised to do better and would lose their winter jobs if sent to jail, so the judge suspended sentence in their cases. G. Paul Bollweaver pleaded not guilty to the charge of drunkenness and will be tried this afternoon. James Cullen, for being drunk and disorderly, went up on the hill for twelve days in default of a $12 fine.Nestor Anderson, for obstructing Maple avenue with his house, and Mary Lynch, on two charges of obstructing Cedar avenue with two houses, pleaded not guilty and will be tried tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock. John Christenson, for obstructing Ash avenue with his dwelling, pleaded guilty, but as he was taking legal measures to oust a tenant so he could move the house, the judge fined him $5 and cost and then remitted the fine. Christ Anderson, for obstructing Elm avenue with his house, was fined $10 and costs.Yesterday afternoon the case of Mrs.
Wright, charged with being drunk, re-

LACKED A SECOND.

Alderman Thomas Introduced a Resolution Demanding Frank Burke's Resignation.

He Moved its Adoption, but There was no Second and it was Referred.

A Long Meeting Occupied Almost Entirely by Purely Routine Matters.

The dearth in councilmanic quorums seems to be broken; anyway, at last night's meeting of that body there was no lack in that respect. Aldermen T. W. Hugo, Sorenson, Thomas, Wilson, Weiss, Cox, Nelson, Helm and Kennedy were on hand and in the course of the evening, disposed of a batch of routine business that fairly covered Clerk Burke's desk.

Alderman Thomas proved to be the councilmanic mountain to echo back the unique and classic report given the light of day by the grand jury last week. A resolution was introduced by him setting forth the allegations that City Clerk Frank Burke is dishonest, not fit to hold his office and that he should be suspended. Whereas that gentleman has been guilty of improper practices so the tune ran, the document both requested and demanded that he resign his office. Mr. Thomas moved the adoption of the resolution, but there being no second, Alderman Weiss caused it to be referred to the committee on public officers and officers—all voting in favor of that except the originator of the resolution.

The mayor's appointment of James Smith as assessor to succeed the one resigned was approved by the council. The ordinance authorizing the issue of $100,000 bonds in denominations of $1000 each, unanimously passed.

The increase of the police matron's salary from $35 to $50 per month was opposed by Alderman Thomas. "Not so much because he did not favor the increase as because he was opposed to going to Minneapolis for a woman to fill that position when there are so many in Duluth just as competent and who would be glad of the place. Alderman Wilson said there was nothing certain as to the length of time the present incumbent would be retained and that he favored paying whoever held the office wages enough to live on. The resolution prevailed; Thomas voting against it.

City Attorney Smith submitted an opinion that the permanent improvement certificates are not a part of the 5 per cent limit of indebtedness. The financial condition of the city was reported as follows by the finance committee:

5 per cent limit of indebtedness..... 1,892,940
Present bonded debt..... 1,476,650
Permanent improvement certificates..... 248,738
Orders outstanding..... 151,077

Cash in treasury, $133,228.24, of which $12,000 is tied up in the Bell & Eyster bank.

The board of public works recommended the construction of a tunnel under the canal at a cost of $600,000, two-thirds of which is to be charged to the property benefited and the remainder to be raised by special bonds. Referred to committee on streets, alleys and bridges.

The Duluth Street railway submitted a statement that their line running from Michigan street to Rice's Point crosses fourteen railway tracks at grade, and suggesting and urging that a system of gates and gatekeepers be adopted by the railroad companies across those tracks the street car line runs. Some parties desire to erect an elevator and drying house on block 27 in Rice's Point addition, but to do so a spur or railway siding will be necessary from the Northern Pacific railway. Permission was asked to construct the same across Birch avenue and up an alley to the required point.

A. Ammerman and J. P. Crosby had in a petition asking permission to establish a public market place on Lake avenue, at a point under the viaduct on the northerly side of the railroad tracks, but not interfering with Michigan street.

The plan is to fix up a neat place, keep it in a creditable manner, give security if necessary. A lease for not less than ten years was also desired.

Some time since, Shubal White, L. M. Spaulding and B. Silberstein signed a recommendation that Mrs. Bressland be granted the privilege of running an employment agency. Last evening these gentlemen addressed a communication to the council stating that they had been convinced, by evidence offered by Mrs. S. B. Stearns, in behalf of the Social Purity association, that Mrs. Bressland had formerly used her privileges to cater to an immoral element, hence asked that their recommendation be withdrawn.

An estimate from the board of fire commissioners placed the sum necessary to run the department, now composed of seventy-two employees, for 1893, at $90,710. The estimate was referred to the fire department committee. It was further recommended by the commissioners that a new fire department house be erected as soon as possible on First street at some point between Fifth and Second avenue west. It was also recommended that $7,075 be resolution authorizing the city clerk to draw on the general fund for $10,498.45 for the benefit of the various city departments.

COST OF FIRE PROTECTION.

Estimate of Fire Department Expenses For Next Year.
At last evening's council meeting the fire commissioners submitted an estimate of the fire department expenses for 1893. An itemized statement of this may be interesting to taxpayers. It is as follows:

Salaries.....$54,500
Hydrant rentals..... 7,000
70 at $100..... 7,000
50 at $80..... 4,000
10 at $20..... 2,000
100 additional..... 6,000
Feed for horses..... 2,000
Fuel..... 1,200
Fire tug rental..... 2,400
House supplies and repairs..... 2,500
Blacksmith and repair shop..... 200
Light and water..... 500
Alarm system..... 3,700
Laundry..... 450

Total.....$90,710

The above does not provide for the building of any additional fire stations. These would be an additional expense.

Court Findings.
The case of Henry R. King vs. John S. Pillsbury et al. was decided yesterday.

This was a suit brought to recover title to the W 1/2 of section 14, SE 1/4 of section 15-63-11. The title is declared to be vested in John S. Pillsbury, Owen Fergusson, George C. Howe, and Frank S. Murray.

In James T. Wyman, receiver of the Minnesota Mutual Fire Insurance company vs. T. B. Hawkes & Co., the plaintiff is given judgment for $2.12.

Lost in the Woods.
G. F. R. Trayner, lately from Scotland, was reported to have been lost in the woods for about thirty days. He started from Rat Portage on or about the first of September to go to Tower across the country, but wandered about until some Indians ran across him and showed him the way to Ely. He was all right but as he had nothing to eat for about twenty days he is rather slim.

READY TO BATTLE.

The Quadrennial Convention of the Democratic Clubs Met in New York Today.

Ex-President Cleveland was Present and was Loudly Cheered as the Typical American.

An Address by Chancellor Black Opened the Proceedings—Brief Speech by Grover.

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—The quadrennial convention of Democratic clubs held in the Academy of Music this morning, though shorn of some of its contemplated features, including the monster street parade, was an enthusiastic and successful gathering. Four thousand badges were issued to delegates, representing every state in the Union. This was the seating capacity of the theater, but arrangements were made to throw open Tammany hall, adjoining the academy, for an overflow meeting.

The galleries and the stage were gaily festooned with national flags and heroic sized crayon portraits of the Democratic national candidates appeared on each side of the main stage entrance. The band of the Ninth New York National guard was stationed in the gallery, Massachusetts filled the first four rows to the left of the parquette, with Indiana in the post of honor to the right. Connecticut and West Virginia followed. New York occupied the center of the orchestra circle, flanked by Pennsylvania and New Jersey. All the delegates wore handsome badges.

The proscenium boxes were set apart for distinguished visitors. Box A was assigned for the guest of the day, ex-President Cleveland, and to the vice-presidential candidate, A. E. Stevenson, who, however, was not present. Another distinguished absentee was Governor Flower, to whom box B had been allotted. The national committee, represented by Chairman Harrington, Hon. Don Dickinson and William C. Whitney, were in box C. Other boxes were set apart for Lieut-Governor Sheehan, Mayor Grant, Richard Croker, Chairman Murphy, of the state committee, Hugh McLaughlin and other notables.

Among the early arrivals were Pennsylvania, 350 strong; Maryland with 117 delegates headed by ex-Congressman Rusk. As the Maryland men came in the band struck up "My Maryland," and the crowd yelled, redoubting their efforts in this direction when the Virginia men marched in to the tune of "Dixie." Shortly after 10 o'clock a second band marched in and took position back of the dress circle and made the theater ring with the baby song from "Wang," which was sung so often in the Chicago convention to the words "Four Years More of Grover."

There were quite a number of ladies in the boxes, and though the proceedings were late in opening, there was no lack of life and preliminary amusement. Precisely at 10:30, ex-President Cleveland entered on the left wing, escorted by Chauncey Black, president of the league, and William D. H. Washington, chairman of the local committee. The whole audience rose en masse to receive Grover, and a pandemonium of cheers and college yells was raised, to which both bands contributed. Mr. Cleveland stood for some minutes until the enthusiasm subsided, and as he took his chair "three cheers for the typical American, Grover Cleveland," were called for and given with a will.

Without further preliminaries President Chauncey Black said that the first quadrennial national convention of Democratic clubs had assembled under circumstances the most auspicious. "Never before," he said, "within the memory of this generation has the Democratic party gone into battle in behalf of principles at once so vital and so clearly defined, and never before has such a magnificent organization as this appeared to support them. The issues of the campaign are plain, he said. The Republican party proposes a government which, regardless of the limitations of the constitution, shall systematically employ the power of taxation to seize the hard earned substance of the people and, turning it over bodily to a favored few, maintain an aristocracy of stolen wealth, equally spurious and ruthless as the only governing and only profiting class in this, the boasted republic of the earth. It is not a free party; it is not a party of free men; it is the bond servant of an aggregation of monstrous business monopolies combined to gather private riches by public action.

To rid the country of the administration of such a party and to re-establish the Democratic principles of tariff taxation was the great work now to be done by the party of Jefferson and Cleveland. Mr. Black said that the party stood ready and willing to have sufficient taxation for the support of the government for thus far we may constitutionally go and no further. Beyond that, tariff taxation is robbery.

Mr. Black, after characterizing the force bill as the product of a wicked and deliberate conspiracy between the monopoly oligarchy and its servants in congress, and making some comment upon it, closed as follows: "The election of Cleveland and Stevenson with a Democratic congress is within easy reach. Ever since 1872 a majority of the American people have been with us. We have only to poll the Democratic vote in November and the beneficent revolution will be accomplished. That we are resolved to do so, and that we have means at hand to do so, this mighty assemblage, gathered from every portion of the country, is ample evidence. A Democratic society in every portion of the country, in every voting precinct, will readily poll every Democratic vote. That, and that alone, is required. Let us separate here resolved, under the timely instructions of our national committee, to complete the organization and thus to insure the victory."

At the close of Mr. Black's address, which occupied a little over twenty minutes in delivery, cheers for Cleveland were resumed. As they died away President Black once more stepped to the front and said: "Gentlemen of the convention: We are assembled in the great Democratic city and state of New York, and in accordance with immemorial custom a citizen of this state will extend to you its greeting. He who will perform this duty today is the most illustrious citizen of New York and the most illustrious American living. (Cheers.) He will welcome you here, and by the grace of divine Providence and the good people of the United States he will be at Washington on March 4 next to welcome you there. (Renewed cheers.) Gentlemen of the convention, I present to you Grover Cleveland."

The convention cheered its loudest. Mr. Cleveland stood with his hands folded, toying with his eye glasses, waiting for it to subside, but at his opening sentences the cheers broke out again and he said with some sternness: "Gentlemen, you must keep quiet; we have had enough noise." President Black seconded the appeal for order and quiet was restored. Then in a clear ringing voice, speaking without notes and with an emphasis which, in spite of his protest, was frequently punctuated by cheers, Mr. Cleveland said:

Mr. President and Gentlemen: It affords me especial pleasure to extend to you on this occasion a hearty welcome. As a citizen of this proud municipality I am glad to assure you that our hospitality is always open and generous. In behalf of a community distinguished for its Americanism and tolerance in all matters of belief and judgment, I know I may extend a cordial greeting to those who here represent political thoughtfulness and sincerity. As an unyielding and consistent believer in Democratic principles, I trust I need not hesitate to pledge to the representatives of organized Democracy the good will and fraternal sympathy of this Democratic city.

Your meeting is the council of war which precedes a decisive battle. Your deliberations should be the preparation for stern conflict. All your weapons and all your equipments are soon to be tested. You have organized and labored, and you have watched and planned to ensure your readiness for the final engagement now near at hand. This, then, is no holiday assemblage, but an impressive concert in furtherance of the designs and purposes for the accomplishment of which you and those who represent you are banded together.

These designs and purposes, as declared by your association are: The preservation of the constitution of the United States; the autonomy of the states; local self-government and freedom of elections; opposition to the imposition of taxes beyond the necessities of the government, economically administered, and the promotion of economy in all branches of the public service.

These professions embody the purest patriotism and the loftiest aspirations of American citizenship, though at all times they should suggest to us the strongest obligation of political activity and watchfulness, should be irresistible at a time when the constitution is held in light esteem as against the accomplishment of selfish purposes, when state boundaries are hardly a barrier to centralized power, and when local self-government and freedom of elections are the scoff of partisanship. The members of this association, who make any claim to sincerity, can hardly excuse themselves for lack of effort at a time when necessities of the government, economically administered, have but little relation to the taxation of the people, and when extravagance in the public service has become a contagious plague. To those who hope for better things this convention of Democratic clubs is a bright promise of reform. It is a good intention and idle patriotic aspirations cannot successfully contend for mastery with the compact forces of private interests and greed, nor is the organization always the most useful which has the widest extent.

The real benefit of a political organization is found in its nearness to the people and in the directness of its action. Of course harmony and unity of purpose are absolutely essential in this view. Your assembling together is most important, in so far as it promotes this harmony and unity by conference and a consideration of methods, and in so far as it inspires that zeal and enthusiasm which will make more effective your work at home. Therefore, I am sure that I can say nothing better in taking my leave of you than to wish that your convention may be a most profitable and encouraging one, and that at conclusion you may resume your places in your home organizations, newly inspired to determined and zealous efforts in the cause of true Democracy.

NORTHERN PACIFIC WRECK.

One Man Killed and Five Cut and Bruised.

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 4.—A serious accident occurred on the Northern Pacific road one mile west of the Northtown junction at 9:30 o'clock last night. The passenger train which left here at 8:35 p. m. telegraphed a freight train, which left Staples yesterday morning, while both were going at a high rate of speed. The engines and tenders were crushed and completely telescoped. Fireman H. Buell, of the passenger train, met a horrible death. The tender of the passenger engine smashed through the cab and cut him in two. Passenger Engineer Carr escaped with a serious injury in the back. The cause of the accident is not known.

A list of the injured people is as follows: H. Wattersen, Minneapolis, head and legs badly cut; A. Meyer, Rush City, hip and body cut and bruised; A. H. Burr, St. Paul, head cut; T. B. Warner, newshy, St. Paul, head cut; C. L. Grant, St. Paul, arms and shoulders cut and bruised; fireman of freight train, from Staples, Minn., scalded.

AMUSEMENTS.

"Gloriana." Both in the play and in the production "Gloriana" which was given at the Temple last evening is one of the best society comedies now on the stage. It is unusually well written and the story is good. The company is exceptionally fine. E. J. Henley, who takes the part of the Russian count, is one of the best actors in his line on the stage and a finer piece of character acting than his last evening has never been seen in Duluth. Frederick Bond as Spinks, the valet, was immense his cockney accent being something remarkable. Bond will be remembered as the leading man in "Wilkinson's Widows." Charles C. Wells and Thomas A. Wise were also excellent. Miss Henrietta Crossman makes a charming "Gloriana" and is a clever actress. "Gloriana" will be given again this evening.

E. J. Henley leaves the company after this engagement and will go on the road as a star. Edwin Stevens who appeared as Major Huntley in the curtain raiser last evening will take the part of Count Evitoff.

Notice. The Scandinavian Democratic club will meet at Burrows Block Wednesday, Oct. 5, at 8 o'clock p. m.

A THROUGH LOCAL.

The Northern Pacific Will Give This and Abandon Transcontinental Connections.

This is the Only Way it Will Remedy the Red River Valley Service.

Duluth Transfer Railway Petitions the Court to Cross Tracks in the Yards.

It has been some weeks since a quorum was secured at the regular Tuesday morning meeting of the chamber of commerce directors, but Secretary Thompson sent out an appeal for them to come around and allow some bills, for the payment of which there was plenty of money in the treasury and a quorum was on hand this morning.

The Northern Pacific road which has been frequently petitioned by Duluth interests to remedy the abominable train service between the Red River valley and this city informed the chamber that if desired it would abandon the transcontinental connection now made and run the regular passenger train as a local train. This would leave the matter almost as bad as before. At present a merchant from the Red River Valley coming to Duluth, must wait four or five hours at Staples and get into Duluth at 1:05 p. m. If he wants to go to St. Paul he can leave home at the same time and get there at 7 a. m., transact his business and leave for home the same night. This discriminates against Duluth. The matter was referred to the secretary.

The chamber of commerce of St. Paul submitted a copy of a constitutional amendment, which it will endeavor to put through the legislature this winter, prohibiting the passage of special laws. The St. Paul body wants a conference between state commercial bodies. Referred to legislative committee.

The secretary of the treasury has advised the chamber of the suspension, pending investigation, of his order of Sept. 10, ordering the collection of tolls on all goods going through the St. Mary's canal from Canadian points, whether landed at American ports or not. A protest was sent in from Duluth when the order was issued.

The New Orleans cotton exchange requested the passage of resolutions against the Hatch bill. Senator Washburn's argument will be secured before the chamber takes action.

WANTS TO CROSS.

Duluth Transfer Railway Petitions the District Court.

The Duluth Transfer Railway company filed a petition today in the district court asking the right to cross the tracks of the Northern Pacific, Superior Short Line and St. Paul & Duluth railways from a point beginning at the westerly boundary of lot 5, in block 1, to the dock property in block 6, Bay Front division, lately acquired by the petitioner. It is represented to be the only feasible way to get to these lands and that the transfer company cannot enter without crossing. It asks the right to law two standard gauge tracks.

Default judgment for $1686.87 was entered today in the case of the Bank of Duluth vs. Robert Crombie. Anthony Girsch sues the Iron Bay company and Howe Lumber company for $286.15 and asks a lien on a sawmill in the ½ of section 32, 62-15, also on one acre of ground on which the mill is built.

West Duluth office of The Herald, room 4, Billings building, where announcements, etc., may be held.

K. O. Balstead yesterday returned from a short trip to the West.

But little business was transacted at last night's council meeting. A petition was received from property owners, beyond the end of Grand avenue, asking for the improvement of Grand avenue to Ironton. The street committee recommended the improvement. When a resolution was offered for the confirmation of the assessment roll for the improvement of Sixth street south from Eighth avenue west to Grand avenue, Attorney Brownell of Duluth, representing property owners, entered a protest against the passing of the resolution. After considerable debate the resolution was carried. L. D. French, T. W. McManus and H. D. Hall were appointed commissioners to appraise the value of the property condemned for the extension of Grand avenue to Ironton. W. J. Wallace was awarded the contract for the construction of sidewalks on Grand avenue east. Trustee Hall reported having interviewed Attorney General Clapp in regard to the legality of the council purchasing a lot and building an armory. The attorney general asked as a favor that the council leave the matter with him to decide. Considerable time was spent discussing the matter of purchasing a crematory. The finance committee will confer with Duluth as to the possibility of building a crematory to be used by both cities. About $6000 worth of bills were ordered paid, including the payroll for the employees of the village.

General Manager Matthews, of the Duluth Manufacturing company, returned this morning from New York city.

The Odd Fellows have rented the second story of the new Britts block on Central avenue and are having it handsomely fitted up. The floor is divided into reception room, lodge room and lockers and its location makes it the finest lodge room in the city.

The Republican campaign in West Duluth will be opened next Saturday evening by a mass meeting in the tent. Speeches will be made by Messrs. Towne and Cotton, of Duluth, and others of the Flambeau club and a considerable body of Duluth Republicans will be in attendance.

Rev. Billie, pastor of the Methodist church, left yesterday for Minneapolis, where he will attend the annual Methodist conference.

Charles Birch, who was quite ill for several days, threatened with typhoid fever, is again able to be about.

James Doland, of Mitchell, S. D., is a visitor in the city.

E. F. Sanders of Minneapolis, is in the city looking after his property interests.

HISTORIC BLONDS.
The three representative theological virtues—Faith, Hope and Charity—were blonds.

Ariosto's Angelica, with her splendid hair floating in the wind, was a member of the fair haired tribe.

Venus, goddess of beauty, mother of demigods and men, rises the sea foam from her golden tresses.

The beautiful Helen, whose carrying off caused the Trojan war, thus exerting an influence for centuries, was blond.

Mme. de Girardin, one of the most remarkable women of the century, was also one of the most perfect blonds ever seen.

The famous Dolly Madison, whose brilliant rule at the White House is a shining page in the nation's history, was a glorious blond.

Tasso, when describing his heroine, was inspired by the fair and blond Eleonora d'Este, one of the most beautiful and remarkable women of that epoch.

The beautiful Cleopatra supplants all brunette rivals in the heart of her royal lover, and to do so she had only to veil her pearls with the shining gold of her hair.

Mlle. de Montpensier, "la grande mademoiselle," says in regard to herself, in those piquant memoirs which she left to posterity, "I am so happy in being a blond."

Julia, the immortal heroine of the "New Heloise," was blond; blond also Aurora when she opened with her rosy fingers the eastern doors to the triumphal chariot of the sun.

Blond also were Agnes Sorel, Diana of Poitiers, the beautiful Gabrielle d'Estrees, Anne of Austria, Marguerite of Navarre, La Duchesse de Chevreuse, Ninan de Enclos and Mme. de Maintenon, the most precious conquest of Louis XIV.

Phryne, when brought before Areopagus, fought a powerful defense in the display of her charms as she threw aside her peplum, clad only in the waves of her beautiful blond hair. The judges were so dazzled by the sight of such perfection that they granted her instant pardon.

The beautiful Paula of Toulouse was a blond of indubitable hue, and she was compelled by the city authorities to stand one hour every Sunday afternoon on her balcony in order that the people might gaze on her exquisite beauty, so that they would not annoy her by flocking in droves after her on the streets.—Detroit Tribune.

The Word FRAUD Is Defined

By Webster as follows: Deception deliberately practiced! When a "FAKE FIRE SALE" advertises Handsome Satin Lined Suits?—for nothing, and then shows a "Job Lot" of the worst kind of shoddy "Jim Crow Stuff," you may truthfully quote the word fraud. Yes, we know, they are rushed. "Better Goods in Cellar." "Haven't had time to open." They always are. That's a part of the programme. That's the way they always used to do years ago in Eastern cities, but its become an old "chestnut," worn out and buried so deep that we never supposed it would be resurrected and sprung on the intelligent people of Duluth.

Nothing but straight, legitimate, honorable business methods pays in the long run. Offer the people a good thing and they will appreciate it. ## FIGHT WITH ROBBERS

Four of the Dalton Gang Killed and One Fatally Wounded While Robbing a Kansas Bank.

In a Fight With the Robbers Three Citizens Were Also Killed and Four Were Wounded.

One of the Gang Escaped and a Posse Is in Pursuit With a Lynching Probable.

PARSONS, Kas., Oct. 5.—This morning, shortly after the First National bank of Coffeyville, Kas., opened its doors, five mounted men drew up before the bank, and three of them entered and with drawn revolvers ordered the cashier to hand over the money in the safe vault. The cashier drew a revolver and fired at the robbers. A number of citizens were attracted by the unusual sight of five mounted men in front of the bank, and when the sound of the revolver shot was heard they rushed into the bank and a general fusillade followed.

The robbers retreated from the bank and attempted to gain their horses, at the same time firing their revolvers at the citizens who were attempting to kill or capture them. In the fight six citizens were reported killed and four of the robbers captured. Two of the latter are said to be mortally wounded. They are members of the famous Dalton gang. Later reports state that four of the Dalton gang were killed and one fatally wounded. Three citizens were also killed and four wounded, two fatally and one seriously. The names of the robbers killed and wounded are: Bob and Grant Dalton, Tom Huddy and unknown man. Emmet Dalton is fatally wounded with a bullet in his right lung. The names of the citizens killed are: City Marshal C. T. Connelly, Charles Brown and George Cubine. Cashier Thomas G. Ayer, of the First National bank, Lucas Baldwin, Thomas Reynolds and Alfred Diets are seriously wounded.

It appears that the robbers entered the village at 9:30. They separated, two of them going to Condon's bank and four going to the First National bank. At Condon's bank they were told by the cashier that the safe was regulated by a time lock and would not be opened until 10 o'clock. They covered him with Winchester and told him they would wait.

In the meantime the other four went into the First National bank and ordered Cashier Ayers to hand the money in the vault out. At first he refused and attempted to reach his revolver. One of the gang fired a shot at him. He then handed over what money was in the safe, and after placing it in a bag the gang left and tried to rejoin their confederates.

The alarm had been given and citizens quickly gathered and attempted to capture the robbers, who were immediately recognized as members of the Dalton gang of outlaws. The robbers fired at the crowd of citizens and the shots were returned with effect. The fighting became general and bullets flew thick and fast. When the smoke of battle cleared away four of the Dalton gang were lying dead on the ground and three citizens were also killed. Two of the robbers were wounded and the citizens had received serious bullet wounds.

One of the gang succeeded in escaping, but a mounted posse is in pursuit and it is almost certain that he will be captured, and all probability will hang from the end of a hastily improvised noose. The greatest excitement exists, and it may be that the wounded member of the gang will also be lynched.

THE DEATH RATE HIGH.

Percentage This Month 16.02—Many Came From the Mining District.

The report of the health officer, Dr. Goffe, for September, shows 54 deaths, of which number 27 were males and 27 females. There were 40 married and 14 single people in the number. The causes were as follows: Typhoid fever, 13; cholera infantum, 11; enteritis, 3; tubercular peritonitis, enterocolitis, phthisis, pneumonia and gastro-enteritis, 2 each. There was one death each from the following causes: Dysentery, bronchitis, diphtheria, infantile, cancer of uterus, meningitis, infantile convulsions, scarlet fever, intestinal obstruction, pulmonary tuberculosis, infantile paralysis, cancer of liver, violence (knife wound), ulceration of stomach, old age, heart disease, cholera morbus. The age of the dead were as follows: Under 1 year, 22; under 5 years, 1; between 5 and 10 years, 2; between 10 and 20 years, 1; between 20 and 40 years, 18; between 40 and 60 years, 6; from 60 to 80 years, 2; over 80 years, 1. There were 22 born in Duluth, 11 in other parts of the United States, and 21 from foreign countries. The annual death rate for the month, per 1000 is 16.02. During the corresponding month of 1890 there were 34 deaths and 69 births.

During last month there were 84 births, the males numbering 54 and the females 30. There were 3 stillborn cases and no twins or illegitimate.

With regard to the number of deaths from typhoid fever the larger number of cases are those of persons who have been shipped here from the mining districts and not at all attributable to any local conditions.

The Florida Contest.
JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Oct. 5.—George Wilson, chairman of the Democratic committee, reports that his advisers give Mitchell a majority of 20,000 over Barker (People's party). In 1888 Fleming's majority was 40,000 and in 1890 the Democratic majority was 20,000. The election will prove a great disappointment to the Third party leaders in this section.

CANADA'S SOO CANAL.

The Contractor Agrees to Complete It in the Spring of 1894.

OTTAWA, Ont., Oct. 5.—The Dominion government yesterday came to an agreement with Hugh Ryan, contractor for the construction of the Canadian Soo canal, by which he binds himself to have the canal completed by the opening of navigation in 1894, two years ahead of contract time.

It is understood that the hurrying of the work through will cost something in the vicinity of $250,000 over the contract price.

HIS LIFE WAS SPARED.

The Dakota Sharpshooter, Brubaker, Not Killed in Honduras.

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 5.—Notwithstanding recent reports of the execution of Brubaker, the Dakota sharpshooter, in Honduras, information was received from the steamer Soterie which arrived in port Monday night that he was not killed, but was sentenced to three years' imprisonment at Annapolis.

At first he was court martialed and sentenced to death, but influential friends succeeded in having his sentence commuted.

The Georgia Election.

SAVANNAH, Ga., Oct. 5.—Nearly all the negroes are voting for Governor Northen and the remainder of the Democratic state ticket, in preference to the third party ticket endorsed by Col. Buck, the Republican leader. The Democratic majority in this county will be about 3500. Democrats claim Northen's election by 40,000 majority.

A Missing Woman.

DENVER, Colo., Oct. 5.—Nellie Coburn, the wife of a very wealthy saloon owner, has been missing since Sunday. When last seen she was splendidly dressed and had many valuable jewels and $100 with her. Her friends persist that she has either been drugged or become insane.

Duluth Land Cases.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—Secretary Noble modified the decision of the commissioner of the general land office in cases of Oden A. Hall vs. N. B. Maxwell and Hall vs. Linnstrand in the Duluth district. Hall is allowed sixty days in which to show why his entries should not be canceled.

The Indiana Apportionment.

INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 5.—The supreme court has declined to hear arguments on the apportionment suits until October 11. The court has also instructed the attorney general of Indiana to represent the people. When the case comes up no oral arguments will be heard.

Two Men Drowned.

ELIZABETH, N. J., Oct. 5.—Louis D. Tuttle, one of the founders of the Elizabeth Athletic club, and well known here, was drowned Monday in Slim pond in the Adirondacks, together with his guide, Eugene French, while they were on a hunting expedition. The men lost their lives by the upsetting of their boat.

Declined a Nomination.

DENVER, Colo., Oct. 5.—The letter of Rev. Myron Reed declining the nomination for congress was received by the People's party state committee yesterday. This unexpected action set the Populists at sea. The committee meets Thursday to fill the vacancy on the ticket.

Honors For Gladstone.

LIVERPOOL, Oct. 5.—At a special meeting of the municipal council today Mr. Holt, a leading Liberal, moved that the freedom of the city be conferred upon Mr. Gladstone. Mr. Farnwood, Conservative member from Liverpool, seconded the motion and it was carried unanimously.

Found Another Body.

ASHLAND, Wis., Oct. 5.—At 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon the body of Simon Vechlin, foreman of the timber crew, was taken from the ruins of Thursday's cave-in at the Norrie mine at Ironwood. There are five bodies yet buried in the debris.

Dann's Death.

BUFFALO, Oct. 5.—The result of the autopsy of the body of Dann did not determine the question whether he suicided or not.

PERSONAL.

Mrs. Arthur C. Ely, of Chicago, is at the Spaulding.

To a Marquette Firm.

At the opening of the bids for the improvement of the Marquette harbor at the United States engineer's office in this city this afternoon, there were six bidders as follows: Wisconsin Dredge and Dock company of Manitowoc, Wis., $81,010; Berner & Lantz, of Green Bay, Wis., $69,860; Campbell & McDonald, Duluth, $80,760; Hugh Steele, Duluth, $80,830; Powell & Mitchell, Marquette, $65,150; Moore, Sang & Nicholson, Duluth, $75,070. The Marquette firm will probably secure the contract.

BATTLE FOR ST. PAUL

Duluth, Superior, Minneapolis and Ashland Will Help the Sainly City at the Buffalo Congress.

They Unite As Against Other Cities To Have the Next Congress Held at St. Paul.

The Old Jealousy Between the Twin Cities Cropped Out and Nearly Spoiled the Program.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Oct. 5.—The second day of the real estate congress opened with a hail storm, which developed into light snow, melting as fast as it fell and making the streets and the atmosphere disagreeable. The delegates were early astir and the unpropitious weather did not appear to affect the boomers from the cities seeking the honor of the next convention. Detroit seems to be one of the leaders, and its advocates point to the manner in which the Grand Army was entertained as an inducement to the real estate men to come there next year.

Chicago is doing quiet but effective work and is urging the World's fair as an attraction. St. Louis and Louisville are also working industriously. Denver is booming its claims vigorously, and the other claimants are hard at work in the same direction. As yet no prediction can be made as to the result.

This morning's session came to order shortly after 10 o'clock. The first business was the reading of a paper by Benjamin Hardwick, manager of the real estate exchange and auction rooms, New York, on "Real Estate Boards and Exchanges," followed by a discussion of the same. Then the convention proceeded to the consideration of business pertaining to the association.

Marvin A. Farr, of Chicago, read a general paper on "The Province of Real Estate Man," in the course of which he advocated uniform laws in all the states affecting land, the repeal of all laws fixing the rate of interest on money loaned and the abolition of the railroad grade crossing.

The committee on credentials presented their report, showing nearly all the large cities of the country represented in the convention. A number of resolutions were offered, among them being one committing the association in favor of a twenty-foot channel from the great lakes to the ocean and all were referred to the committee on resolutions. The president then announced the various committees and the convention took a recess until 2 p. m.

When the afternoon session came to order Judge Seymour Dexter, of Elmira, N. Y., delivered an address on "Building and Loan Associations and the Influence on Real Estate in this Country." The subject was one in which the delegates take a deep interest and the address was listened to with close attention. Judge Dexter said:

"Air, sunshine and real estate are necessities of man's limitation. In the mystic kingdom beyond the natural it may be possible for the spirit to survive without either, but while man dwells in mortal clay it is certain he must have all three to live. It is not strange therefore, that men sometimes reason that real estate should be as free as air and sunshine. It is the gift of God to all men, and he who monopolizes more of it than is necessary for his own use is a monopolist of the highest order, and when its value is enhanced by the closing in of population about his possessions, that he reaps a harvest that he has not sown and gathers money into his coffers which belongs, in justice, to the social body which has brought to pass the denser population."

He reviewed the history of building and loan associations, and said no movement of its kind has ever attained such a marvelous growth and development as has marked its progress during the last six years. Their development is no longer sporadic in character, but an organized movement in nearly every state and territory. Leagues in sixteen states have been formed, and in April last a will hold its first annual meeting in Chicago during the Columbian exposition and at the same time a world's congress will be held.

These associations, as a means whereby a market may be created for suburban real estate, have no rival and their formation should be encouraged."

Frank Terry, of Milwaukee, then read a paper on "The Torrens System." This is the Australian method of registering land titles, which Mr. Terry explained in detail and recommended for adoption in this country in preference to the cumbersome, intricate and unduly expensive system now in vogue here.

A caucus of the Northwestern delegates was held during recess to decide upon a place upon which they could vote unitedly for the holding of the next convention. There was considerable rivalry. The cities of Duluth, Superior, Minneapolis, St. Paul and Ashland were represented. The old-time rivalry between St. Paul and Minneapolis cropped out, and the latter city was only appeased by a concession that if St. Paul was chosen the program should include a whole day devoted to sight-seeing in Minneapolis. St. Paul was selected as the city upon which the caucus should concentrate and a committee was appointed to manage the campaign for that place. The combination hopes to knock out any that may be formed for the benefit of other cities in the race for the honor.

DEMOCRATS CATCH IT

Hon. John R. Lynch Sails Into Democracy Right and Left and Makes Some Bold Assertions.

Says That He Has Been Unable to Find an Honest Man in the Whole Party.

Has a Few Words to Say of the Disfranchisement of Colored Men in the South.

The Howard building was well crowded last evening when the Republican meeting addressed by Hon. John R. Lynch opened, but it must be confessed that it was a poor place for holding it. However, it was the best to be had. The Colored Men's club, the Harris Military band and the Republican Flambeau club turned out and paraded the streets previous to the meeting, making a very creditable appearance. At the hall the band played "America" and the Glee club sang a patriotic selection. Chairman Buck of the county committee, then asked Page Morris to preside.

Judge Morris consented and made a brief speech, which aroused considerable enthusiasm, however. He declared the Republican party to be the grandest and truest party on the face of the earth, the noblest and most courageous in achievement of any party of ancient or modern times; the party that crushed out secession and accomplished the freedom of slavery; the party that made it possible for him to introduce a man to speak on this evening whom all were proud to know as a fellow citizen. "He is a special son of the Republican party," said Judge Morris, "and a worthy representative of his race of the American people."

Mr. Lynch is a good talker, uses considerable sarcasm and on the whole makes a very fair stump speech. He opened by apologizing for his hoarseness, saying that he had been speaking for three weeks, but that he felt that he could not do too much for the Republican party, because all he had or all he had been or expected to be will come through the Republican party.

"It was the Republican party," said he, "that came to me and the race of which I am a member and brought the olive branch of freedom. I can never do too much. I can never say too much for the Republican party, and I can never say too much against the Democratic party. The Republican party represents all that is good, worthy and desirable; the Democratic party all that is mean, contemptible and disgraceful. Whatever has been done, whatever ought to have been done has been done by the Republican party and whatever ought not to have been done has been done by the Democratic party. What ever may be done in the future which ought to be done will be done by the Republican party and whatever will be done which ought not to be done will be done by the Democratic party. But what about the People's party? The People's party like the Republican party in the South is counted out. Down South there are only two political parties; the Democrats don't recognize the right of the People's party to exist. The Democrats of the South represent one idea—office. They care nothing about the tariff and they know less, they care nothing about state banks and they know less, except to get the money; they know nothing of the issues, all their interest is in the Democratic party. Southern Democrats take their politics as they do their whisky—straight. [Applause and laughter.]

"I am here to tell you why the people of Minnesota should roll up one of their old fashioned majorities for Harrison. Not only that, but should elect Nelson for governor and send a solid Republican delegation to congress. Democrats themselves are compelled to admit that Harrison has given one of the strongest, purest and ablest administrations since the days of Lincoln. Democrats are a peculiar sort of animal, they have to be educated by degrees. We have to take them one by one and pound some sense into their heads and then some die during the process. But we are making progress and will go on as the Republicans keep in power."

James G. Blaine's name was here mentioned and brought the usual burst of applause. The speaker declared that he was fairly elected in 1884, but was counted out.

If the white men are to be freed from Democratic oppression, the speaker said, they must keep the Republican party in power. He predicted that if Harrison was elected this time there would be no solid South.

"But you are here to find out," continued the speaker, "why the Republican majority in the South cannot be utilized and why the Republican votes are so effectually crushed. When the Democratic convention is over the election is over. They simply postpone the announcement until the day fixed by law for the election. How is it done? Now I tell you I know to be true. According to the census of 1890 there are in Mississippi 150,460 colored males of voting age and 120,611 of whites. The law there requires that in order to vote every man must be registered four months before election. [Laughter.] There are registered this year 8615 colored men and 68,127 whites. How is this brought about you ask? By the state constitution recently adopted which was not submitted to the people for ratification, but was simply declared to be ratified."

An educational qualification is required, Mr. Lynch said, but one interpretation is given for the whites and another for the colored men. Two men come up to the place of registration one white, the other colored. Neither can read or write. The registrar, whose decision is absolute, reads from the state constitution to the white man "the legislature shall meet once in every two years." He asks if he can understand that; receives an affirmative reply and declares the man qualified to vote. Then he turns to the colored man and reads, "the legislature shall pass no ex post facto laws." He admits, of course, that this is beyond his comprehension, and the registrar declares him unfit to vote because he cannot understand the state constitution. Two reasons, Mr. Lynch said, are given to excuse this—one that honest local government must be preserved, and the other that the colored men must be prevented from ruling the whites. To disprove the first reason he read a list of Democratic Southern treasurers who have defaulted with sums ranging from $30,000 to $800,000. "If ever there was an honest man in the Democratic party from Boss Tweed down I have never been able to find him," was Mr. Lynch's sweeping assertion.

"Now as to keeping white men in power. Let me say here that I have heard that there are some colored men in the North who are disposed to look with favor on the Democrats. Now it may be possible for a white man to vote the Democratic ticket without being false to his country, to his home and his family, but it is not possible for a colored man to do it. A colored man who does it says by his vote that Lincoln is a mistake."

The speaker closed with an appeal to colored men and to all men to vote for Harrison, a vote for Cleveland would be a vote for the perpetuation of the wrongs against the colored men in the South.

THE COUNTY BOARD.

Biwabik Will Vote on Incorporation—The Poor Report.

The board of county commissioners met yesterday afternoon. The petition for the incorporation of Biwabik was reported on by the county attorney and the date of voting fixed as November 10.

Henry Smith, superintendent of roads, reported that $1,266.75 had been expended on county roads during the month of September. Total amount during the year, $10,771. The poor superintendent reported 22 inmates at the farm September 1 and 18 on September 30, 2 being received during the month; six discharged. Transportation to sixteen persons at a total cost of $120, and ten individuals were buried. Groceries to the amount of $137 were supplied the poor farm and $124 was paid for labor. Seventy applications for aid were received and groceries to the value of $108 and $10.50 in wood were furnished. Thirty-five patients were sent to the hospital and sixteen are still there.

Wilson & Watson were refunded a license to sell liquor at Biwabik.

A GRAND RECEPTION.

J. E. Haynie & Co. Received Their Friends Last Evening.

The opening at J. E. Haynie's "American Store" last evening was worth going many miles to see. All through the day that popular establishment was crowded with ladies examining the new stock of high class dry goods, but the crowning success was in the evening. The sweet music, bright lights, the odor of fragrant flowers, a mass of Duluth's beauty and not a little of chivalry, in the midst of a display of goods never before equaled in taste, quality, variety and completeness, formed a contrast decidedly pleasing to the excited and noisy politicians parading the streets on the outside.

The show windows at the front in themselves were almost enough to prevent anyone passing by. On one side were cloaks and furs and on the other dress goods, ravishing in beauty and bewildering in variety. The man who arranged that display is an artist and well can rest on his laurels.

The departments on the lower floor were neatly arranged and decorated and the busy clerks spared no pains to make all visitors feel at home. The extensive display of tropical plants and hot house flowers was almost as much a feature as the display of goods. All who enter were also presented with beautiful bouquets of cut flowers.

On the second floor was a display of cloaks and furs that would have done ample credit to a city several times the size of this. That department was continuously packed and under the watchful attentions of Mr. and Mrs. Lethbridge, who lately came from New York city to take charge of the department, all were greatly entertained. On the third floor, Mrs. Steiner attended all who were interested in dressmaking matters. The success of the display on the first floor was not a little due to Mr. Ewald, who has charge of the dress goods department. Miss Brandt has charge of the glove department, Miss Patterson looked after the laces and trimmings and Miss York had charge of the underwear and hosiery. Mr. Haynie was everywhere and in the manner so natural to him, made all feel at home. Hoare's orchestra furnished the music and it was unexcelled.

J. E. Haynie & Co. opened their store on April 25 last. Croakers and old fogies predicted failure, but the proprietor had seen too many years in the famous dry goods stores in Kansas City to know failure in a town like Duluth.

The business has grown at a marvellous rate and the establishment is not only a credit to the city, but very popular with all who patronize a place carrying the high class of goods in the many styles and varieties. J. E. Haynie & Co. are winners, as nearly all in Duluth have found out.

Peace Restored.

TUSKAHOMI, I. T., Oct. 5.—Everything is quiet here now. All parties have laid down their arms and agreed to keep the peace. The men arrested Sunday were released and those who desired to go home had their arms returned to them. ## Railroads and Rheumatism.

Two Important factors in the life of Passenger Agent Tooker.

One of the most popular passenger agents in the United States, as well as one of the ablest, is Mr. M. B. Tooker of the Grand Trunk R. R. His home is at Suspension bridge, N. Y.

Mr. Tooker, whose portrait is printed here, is known everywhere as a man of great energy and push. His advice has always gone a long way in railroad matters, and he is possessed of those rare qualities which make him a good friend and adviser in every-day matters of life. Several years ago Mr. Tooker was a sufferer from that very common complaint, rheumatism, which has been notably prevalent for the last few years. As every one knows it is one of the most painful of diseases, and until a recent discovery of Prof. Phelps of Dartmouth college, was considered almost always incurable.

Mr. Tooker's experience was very much like that of people in probably every town large enough to have a drug store.

"For two years," says Mr. Tooker, "I suffered from rheumatism and kidney trouble for which I tried various remedies with no success. A clergyman advised me to try Paine's celery compound. I did so and was surprised at the effect. After taking one bottle I was entirely relieved. I have taken two bottles and am cured."

As a well known and conservative physician in Duluth has said, "Paine's celery compound is generally considered a certain specific for the cure of rheumatism, and so much better results are obtained from it than from all the usual remedies, that it has become a regular prescription among the most eminent practitioners. I prescribe it regularly and believe that every rheumatic victim should use it."

A MAP COLUMBUS USED

It Was Based on Purely Theoretical Ideas and It Placed India Where America Is Situated.

Columbus Squeezed the Earth Up Till He Made Its Circumference Too Small for America.

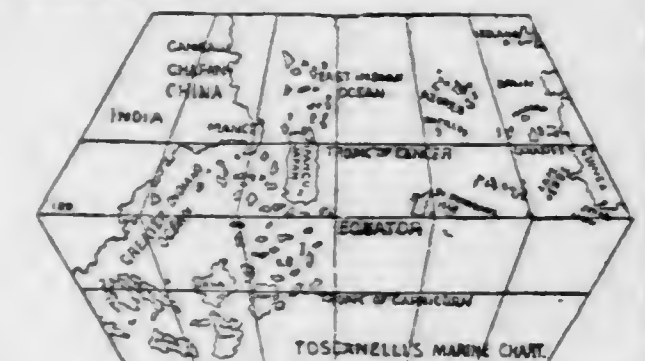

Yet the Continent That His Theory Made Impossible Was to Be His Immortal Glory.

Maps based on ascertained facts are a modern idea. Prior to the age of the discovery in which Columbus is the most illustrious figure, known facts were not thought absolutely useful in the drawing of maps. Maps were plenty; facts for them were used as far as they would go; after the facts were exhausted, geographical theories answered as well.

Thus Ptolemy, in the map which served Europe for a dozen centuries, sketched the lands about the Mediterranean with at least a recognizable degree of correctness. But when he reached the limits of the explored regions he did not hesitate to finish his map; he simply put beyond the known frontiers what he thought ought to be there. He believed that beyond the visited portions of the earth were only vast deserts or impenetrable swamps. He had no idea of open oceans beyond the known lands. Ptolemy, however, understood and represented the sphericity of the earth. What is still more curious, he estimated the earth's circumference astonishingly near the truth. He made it only 3,300 miles too little.

But after Ptolemy, about 550 A. D., a geographer of the church arose whose name was Cosmas. He scorned the blasphemous idea that the earth was round. He laid out the whole universe in about the shape of a "Saratoga trunk," to follow the figure of Professor John Fiske.

But discoverers had been pushing eastward across Asia. Some monks sent out as missionaries, in about 1250 A. D., learned from Chinese whom they fell in with that on the eastern shore of China was a vast ocean.

The ideas of Ptolemy about the sphericity of the earth were beginning to be held again. It was therefore not a great leap to think that perhaps the ocean on the east of China and the ocean on the west of Spain were the same ocean. Roger Bacon thought so, saying he fancied the distance from Spain to Asia was not so very great. Columbus thought so too. He never dreamed of a continent lay between. He argued that he had only to sail westward and he would soon come to the eastern coast of China or Japan, or, as he called them, Cathay and Zipangu.

Columbus was aided by the map work of Toscanelli. This distinguished astronomer, who drew his map about 1470, calculated the circumference of the earth prodigiously near the truth—he made it only 134 miles too great. This accuracy for that day is simply amazing. Toscanelli, however, was all in dreamland about Asia; he elongated Asia till it covered the whole Pacific ocean. Then he pictured open ocean, beginning at about the longitude of California and extending east to Europe.

Columbus pored over this map and carried it with him on his voyage as the nearest thing to a chart which was obtainable. Nevertheless Columbus had a theory of his own about the width of the Atlantic ocean and about the circumference of the earth. Columbus believed that Toscanelli's figure of the earth's circumference was all too large; so instead of about the true circumference Columbus went back and accepted Ptolemy's estimate, and thus made it 3,300 miles too little. He calculated that to reach the wonderful island of Zipangu, or Japan, he would have to sail only about 2,500 miles from the Canaries. In other words, he put Japan a little nearer Europe than the West Indies. Columbus squeezed the earth up till he made its circumference just too small for America. Yet the continent that his theory made impossible was to be his immortal glory.

It was very lucky, however, that Columbus thus jumped America in his reckoning, and that Toscanelli had stretched Asia across to California. For had Columbus known that the real distance from the Canaries to Japan was 12,000 miles he of course would never have dreamed of undertaking that voyage; America would have waited for her discoverer till she revealed her presence by some accident.

Here are two exceedingly interesting facts: Columbus sailed westward with a scientific purpose, in a scientific spirit, simply in order to demonstrate the sphericity of the earth as a practical means of reaching China, and in process of that demonstration he ran against an unlooked for continent. Mark Twain truthfully declares that Columbus could not help discovering America; he only had to sail on till he bumped. Yet, though the finding of America was purely an accident, the whole voyage was more of a scientific undertaking than if Columbus had fancied a new continent was to be found. Had he gone to seek a continent he would have gone only on such a knight errand as had been common enough during the ignorant Middle Ages. It would have taken no more bravery and been no more significant than a thousand chivalrous and foolhardy quests after nothing but the knights of Christendom.

This voyage was significant because it was undertaken in the interest of science—the new science of Europe. Columbus was the first man who had dared or dared venture out through what had been called the Sea of Darkness to demonstrate a properly arrived at scientific theory. This constitutes the real glory of Columbus over Leif Ericson, who may have visited America, but who was too much a barbarian to appreciate its significance.

The other interesting fact is, that unless Columbus had made the ludicrous error in his science he would never have made his extraordinary venture.

FRANCIS BELLAMY.

SIZING UP THE BOY.

She Didn't Realize That He Had Grown So Much.

"I want to buy a pair of pants for my little boy," said a country woman to the clerk as she entered an Adrian clothing store.

"This way, if you please, madam; about what size?" inquired the amiable clerk.

"Well, I couldn't tell exactly without seeing 'em. Just show me some boys' pants."

"Of course, to be sure; how would these suit him?" and the clerk displayed a very cute affair for a boy of about five years.

"Oh, sakes alive! he's bigger'n that; he ain't no baby, Johnnie ain't."

"Wouldn't be about the figure for him?" and the clerk presented another pair to view, very much larger.

"Laws, no! He couldn't wear them no more'n nothing."

"Well, here's something that ought to fit him, I'm quite sure."

"Sakes alive! Hain't you got nothin' bigger'n that?"

"Yes, but I thought you wanted them for a small boy."

"Well, he's quite a good sized boy."

"Here's another pair. I assure you these would fit a large sized boy."

"Shoot them wouldn't reach to his ankles. He'd be worse off in them than the ones he wears now. Git somethin' about a foot longer."

"You mean a man's size, don't you?"

"No, I don't. They're for my little boy."

"But we have nothing larger in boys' suits."

"You ain't?"

"Well, I don't know what I'll do; guess I'd better look some other place."

"Wait a minute; just look over here," and the clerk conducted the woman to another department and presented for her examination a pair of trousers designed for the adornment of a man of about six feet.

"Oh, them's the very thing. How much be they? Why didn't you tell me you had 'em afore?"

"Because I didn't know how big your little boy was. It seems to me he must be quite a chunk of a boy when a man's clothes fit him."

"Well, I declare to goodness; it must be that he's a man. I never once thought on it that way afore. It just struck me this minute. How they do grow up, don't they?"

And when a satisfactory bargain had been concluded the perplexed and surprised woman departed with her bundle.

—Detroit Free Press.

Not a Question of Age.

"All the girls wear them."

"Do you still call yourself a girl?"

"Why not? My husband is still one of the boys, though my senior by twenty years."

---SPECIALISTS IN---

Nervous and Chronic Diseases

The physician in charge of this office is a graduate of the medical department of Harvard University.

YOUNG MEN Who may be suffering from the effects of youthful follies or indiscretion will do well to avail themselves of this chance. DR. SPEER & CO. will guarantee a perfect cure in all cases of weakness of private diseases of any kind or character they undertake or forfeit $250.

They will therefore say to the unfortunate sufferer who may read this notice that you are treading on dangerous grounds when you longer delay in seeking the proper remedies for your complaint. Then for the first time you will realize what negligence means. Our success in such cases can be best understood when we will positively declare that over 100,000 have been treated by us in different parts of the world. Call and get the benefit of our experience.

MIDDLE-AGED MEN There are many of the age of 30 to 50 who are often accompanied by slight smarting sensations and weakening the system in a manner which the patient cannot account for. On examination it will be found that the urine deposits aropy sediment and sometimes small particles of albumen will appear or the color will be a thin milky hue, and again changing to a dark and torpid appearance. There are many who die of this difficulty ignorant of the cause which is the second stage of weakness.

LADIES Finding it not convenient to call at the office can be treated by mail by sending a full description of their case. DR. SPEER & CO. will guarantee a perfect cure in all cases. Examination and advice free. Remember the place.

The Weather.

U. S. WEATHER BUREAU, DULUTH, MINN., Oct. 5.—Continued fair weather still prevails in all parts of the country and with the exception of light showers at Buffalo and Cleveland, there has been no rain during the past twenty-four hours.

There was quite a fall in temperature yesterday in all sections, except around Southern Lake Superior and the far North, where the changes did not amount to much. Kansas City is the warmest place in the country this morning, with a temperature of 65°, and Fort Arthur is the coldest, with 20°.

An area of low barometer is passing over the country to the north of the United States, and will bring slightly warmer weather. The rest of the country, with the exception of New England, covered by an area of high pressure.

The highest temperature here yesterday was 64°, the lowest, last night, was 44°.

Duluth, Oct. 5.—Continued fair; slight change in temperature; easterly winds.
 B. H. BRONSON,
 Local Forecaster Official.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—Forecast till 8 p. m. tomorrow: For Wisconsin: Fair; warmer; Thursday: northerly winds, shifting to southerly. For Minnesota: Fair; southerly winds; warmer.

SUNDAY OPENING.

The recent action of the Minnesota board of lady managers for the World's fair in resolving in favor of opening the fair to the public on Sundays has called forth a storm of criticism from those who demand that the gates be kept closed on that day. Mrs. Henry F. Brown, of Minneapolis, who is a member of the national board of lady managers, has retorted that she prefers to see the people enjoying themselves rationally amid the beneficial influences of the fair in preference to spending their money amid the demoralizing conditions of Chicago saloons.

The feeling in favor of opening the fair on Sunday appears to be growing. In the October Forum, Bishop Potter has an article favoring the opening of the fair at least on Sunday afternoons. Let the Columbian exposition, he says, proclaim by the hush of all its varied traffic and machinery—no wheel turning, no engine moving, no booth or counter open to buyer or seller, no sign or sound of business through all its long avenues, and better still, by its doors closed till the morning hours of every Sunday are ended—that the American people believe in a day of rest. But if there be those who would later seek its precincts to look, it may be, more closely at the handiwork of man, to study the progress of the race in the story of its artistic and industrial and mechanical achievements, and to recognize thus, it may easily be, in the study of such achievements, with job, that "there is a spirit in man and that the inspiration of the Almighty giveth him understanding"—that certainly can be no unworthy use of some hours of our America's rest day. "If," he says, "study makes plain to us the value of a day of rest, of worship, and no less of a cheerful and manly exercise of our Christian liberty in things indifferent in the observance of such a day, we may wisely consider whether a Sunday wisely guarded for such uses is not the best Sunday, alike for exposition times and for all times." There is much in what the bishop says for reflection by those who oppose the Sunday opening of the fair.

ONE MORNING PAPER.

The Herald has on frequent occasions advised the two morning papers to get together and agree on a basis of consolidation, and it is pleased to learn that this result has been attained by the purchase of the Tribune by the News. The first issue of the consolidated paper will appear tomorrow under the name of the News-Tribune.

There is no room in the Duluth field for more than one morning and one evening paper. The newspaper wrecks which are strewn along the record of the past few years bear ample testimony of this fact, and it would seem that the sad experience of those who have sunk their money in fighting fate would be sufficient warning to any others who have an intense desire to publish a newspaper.

Out of the score of papers which have been started in Duluth since The Herald was first launched upon the troubled sea of journalism, but one now remains. Numerous men who were going to "revolutionize journalism" in Duluth have sunk their own and their friends' money and gone to the wall. It has simply been a survival of the fittest, and so it will be in the future should any other person be so venturesome as to enter the narrow field, only that the advantage is now strongly with the old, established papers, which are in every way superior to those which have dropped by the wayside.

The publisher of the News-Tribune will now have an opportunity to issue a better newspaper than in the past, having no competitor for business in the morning field. Of course he cannot hope to compete with The Herald, because in this age the evening newspaper is the favorite with the people and its popularity is ever increasing.

Duluth is having a great building boom this year, and the building inspector's report for September shows that it is not falling off yet. Permits were issued during the month for buildings, the estimated cost of which is $474,763. It is well known that the values given by owners to the building inspector are always 25 per cent less than the actual amounts, so that it can be safely said that work was begun in September on buildings that will cost nearly $600,000. This is an excellent showing for Duluth.

The people of Carlton county are holding a very creditable fair at Barnum. It began yesterday and will be continued until tomorrow evening. In another column will be found a description of the fair written by a Herald representative who visited Barnum yesterday. There are some fine exhibits which it would repay a trip to Barnum to see. They are convincing evidence of the agricultural resources of Carlton county.

There is one regrettable feature in connection with the consolidation of the two morning papers, and that is the retirement of Mr. F. J. Chipman from newspaper work in Duluth. During the years that he has been manager of the Tribune, Mr. Chipman has made a host of warm friends, who trust that success may attend him in the direction to which his plans may lead him.

The announcement that Judge Gresham intends to vote for Cleveland is followed by the statement that Hon. Wayne MacVeagh, who was attorney general in President Garfield's cabinet, has become a Democrat. Gen. Sickles has announced that he will vote for President Harrison, and E. Ticknor Curtis has also renounced Cleveland. Honors are therefore easy, as they say in whist.

W. L. O'Brien, Jr., late of the Minneapolis Journal, has been made general manager of the Minneapolis Times. The Herald extends its congratulations. Mr. O'Brien has been trained in a good newspaper school, and under his management the Times will undoubtedly show a marked improvement, although it is a good newspaper now.

In a communication to The Herald today, Mr. Thurston denies that he insulted Hon. John R. Lynch and friends by drawing "the color line" at his restaurant yesterday. He says the waiters perpetrated the insult. If this be true, Mr. Thurston should dispense with the services of such employees.

The health board's report for September shows several deaths from typhoid fever, but it should be remembered that they were cases which came from the Mesaba range. They were brought to the hospitals here, and Duluth is unjustly credited with them in her mortality records. Typhoid is very scarce in Duluth at present.

RUNNING CHANCES

of the baby breaking your watch may not result in any damage to your time-piece and loss to your pocket, but there are risks and risks. Some risks you can run without much danger; others you cannot. Missing an early inspection of our stock of Domestic and Imported Novelties is one of the chances you can't run without incurring a loss. In this case two things are certain: This stock is superior to anything we ever offered before, and it is most assuredly superior to anything else now shown in this city. It is sometimes a loss of money not to spend it and it is certainly losing money to miss securing some of these specialties.

MR. THURSTON DENIES.

Says the Story in the News is Not at All Correct.

To the Editor of The Herald:
 I had always considered Duluth as so solidly Republican, that with no activity what ever the Republicans would poll a majority of all the votes cast in this section. But the News evidently thinks otherwise, as its utter disregard of truth and distortion of facts of an incident that occurred yesterday, plainly shows. Seeing a mole hill before him, the editor of the News, like the Southern "cracker" acrobatically jumps into the air, knocking his heels together and frantically yelling to the people to behold the mountain. With him it is, get votes, Republican votes, no matter how, just so you get them. The fact is I did not order the Lynch party not to be served. The waiters refused to serve them or even take their order. As the Boyle Bros. did not tawn upon the Hon. John R. Lynch, they have a long way to the best of the News, for the News not only fawns, but abjectly fawns, not only upon Mr. Lynch, but upon every colored voter in Duluth that may be gotten to vote the straight Republican ticket, especially for Searle.

The line in the News which reads "in the light of a stupid donkey" is plainly a typographical error. It should read "by the light of a stupid donkey," for it was by the editor's distorted statements that the public is informed of the affair. The public, however, must not take the poor editor's word too seriously; he means well, but the misfortune of having to consolidate with that other alleged newspaper, the Tribune, has soured his otherwise placid disposition, so that he has got to work his bile off some way. He will be all right after the election is over. Respectfully,
 EDWIN C. THURSTON,
 Duluth, Oct. 5, 1892.

VERY GOOD ADVICE.

The Way to Secure Good Newspapers in Duluth.

Duluth Tribune: Our only word of farewell to the people of Duluth is to ask them to be patriotic enough and wise enough for the good of themselves and the good of the city to seize their present opportunity of focusing their tribute to one good morning newspaper and discourage all attempts to start a rival one, and so—for no other way can it be done—elevate it to the dignity of a metropolitan journal.

This city now and for some years to come should have two good newspapers; a morning and an evening paper. Its size and peculiarly isolated position will absolutely admit of no more. By a bestowal of patronage upon the new morning paper and the present evening paper—each of which owns the only two real news franchises of America—and placing of the stamp of disapproval upon all upstart rivals—for at least some years to come—they will both blossom into respectable and worthy journals, which instead of being pointed to with disdain and pity will be the hopeful future be pointed to with pride and gladness, and emblazon the fair name of Duluth with honor and everlasting glory.

CANNOT DANCE AGAIN.

Lotta, the Actress, Has a Serious Spinal Trouble.

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—The condition of Lotta, the actress, has become serious and her manager has notified the members of her company that they are at liberty to accept other engagements for the present season. All dates fixed for her performances are now cancelled.

The little woman's trouble is traced to a fall she suffered in Jersey City three years ago, and the injuries she received in a runaway accident in Boston in November, 1889. The most encouraging news her physician can give is that with careful attention and absolute rest she may yet hope to be herself again in a social but not in a professional way. The doctor thinks that owing to her spinal ailment she will never be able to dance again. The news has already been sufficient to all but break Lotta's heart.

A MONASTERY BURNED.

Destruction of the Trappist Buildings in Nova Scotia.

HALIFAX, N. S., Oct. 5.—The magnificent monastery of the Trappist order at Tracadie, Antigonish county, was burned yesterday. The fire originated in the bakery, and the monks and their guests made great efforts to keep the fire from reaching the main building, but without avail.

The beautiful chapel was next to go, and soon all the splendid buildings were a pile of smouldering ruins. Everything was destroyed but the mills and barns. The loss is $60,000, with no insurance. There were only two Trappist monasteries on the continent, one in Nova Scotia and the other in Kentucky.

COL. JAMES RICE DEAD.

One of Indiana's Most Noted Politicians Gone.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Oct. 5.—Col. James H. Rice, ex-auditor of the state of Indiana, died this morning at the Grand hotel in this city. James Rice was one of the most widely known politicians in the country. He was elected auditor of Indiana in 1883. He also served two years as chairman of the Democratic state central committee.

He has been in poor health for a year and his death was a result of an attack of the grip. He was born in New Albany, Ind., in 1843 and was a bachelor.

STABBED WITH SCISSORS.

A Hospital Attendant Wounded by a Female Lunatic.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Oct. 5.—Maggie Myers, an attendant in the women's department of the Central Hospital for the Insane, was set upon and severely stabbed four times last evening by a patient named Lizzie Burke.

Miss Myers was manhandling the nails of the patient, when the latter seized the scissors and before she could be controlled had inflicted the painful wounds. Miss Myers' wounds, it is thought, will not prove fatal, though they are serious.

THE $5 RATE

To be Continued Hereafter Simply for Catarrhal Troubles.

Why Drs. Copeland, Hunt and Drenning Found it Impossible to Continue the Rate for All Diseases.

The period during which Drs. Copeland, Hunt and Drenning offered to treat all patients and all diseases at the uniform rate of $5 a month expired October 1st. The evidence that the public appreciated the value of the offer and the purpose for which it was made, lies in the wonderful response which was made to it. During September hundreds of patients took advantage of it. The strength of the doctors and their assistants and the resources of their laboratories and offices were taxed to accommodate the crowds of old, as well as new patients. Doctors Copeland, Hunt and Drenning would gladly maintain the rate to all patients and for all diseases for a longer time if it could possibly be done. There are many who have called and written, expressing their desire to take advantage of the $5 rate, but complaining that they cannot conveniently begin the treatment before the 5th or 10th of October. For the accommodation of these, and that no partiality may be shown—that all may have the same fair opportunity—Drs. Copeland, Hunt and Drenning have decided that they will, until November 1st, treat catarrh and kindred troubles at the rate of $5 a month. For other diseases their charges will be low and uniform, and in proportion to the actual wholesale cost of medicines required to successfully treat and cure the diseases in which they are indicated.

CATARRH OF THE STOMACH.

A Case that is of Interest to everyone who suffers from indigestion.

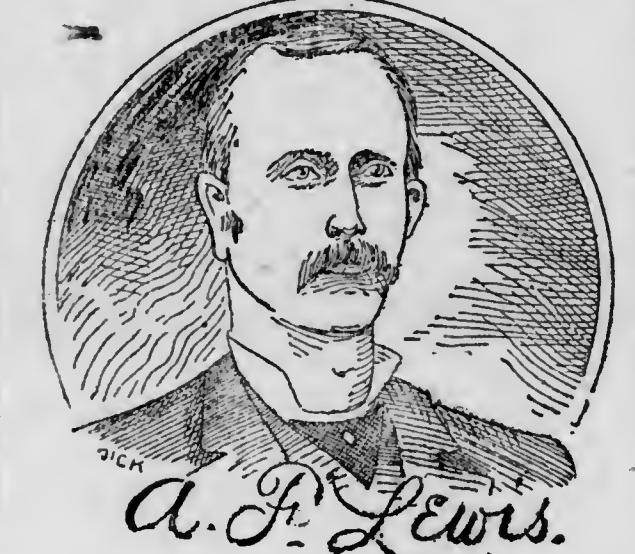

"Do you eat well?"

If so, you enjoy one of the greatest blessings of life.

But how many people are there who never know what it is to enjoy a meal. The more the taste is pandered to, the less the appetite manifests itself. Instead, perhaps, there is a decided revulsion and the food that one must eat to keep the body alive is forced into an unwilling stomach, only to cause intense pain and nausea.

No one who has not suffered from catarrh of the stomach can understand the terrible condition to which that disease brings its victim.

Here, for instance, is the case of Mr. A. F. Lewis, of 213 Fourth avenue west. Said Mr. Lewis, in discussing the matter:

213 FOURTH AVENUE WEST.

"I had catarrh of the stomach in its most severe form for a number of years. During all that time it was impossible for me to eat anything without experiencing terrible agony."

"I not only had no desire to eat, but the sight of food made me ill, and I used to starve myself rather than face the ordeal of taking a meal. The result was that I grew weak and emaciated, and was utterly unable for the performance of my duty. In fact, I did not care to live."

"In addition to catarrh of the stomach I had also catarrh of the head and throat. There was a continual buzzing and roaring in my ears; my head and nose were stopped up and my throat was so sore I could hardly swallow. I had violent headache and the inflammation in my throat seemed to set my whole head afire."

"I lost flesh and strength, and was slowly wasting away."

"During this entire time I took regularly the medicines that were prescribed by numerous doctors, and which cost me hundreds of dollars, but was not benefited. I was a total wreck when I decided to try the physicians of the Copeland Medical Institute."

"I began their treatment and the change was wonderful. My catarrh is better every day and my stomach has nearly regained its former strength and tone. I have an excellent appetite and relish my food, and can eat heartily all the time without any discomfort. I have gained in weight and strength. I feel as well as I ever did. I am delighted beyond measure with my rapid improvement, and I heartily recommend these specialists to all who may be suffering as I was."

NOTABLE CREDENTIALS.

The location of the offices of the Copeland Medical Institute in the city of Duluth is a permanent one. Their leases and contracts are for a term of years.

Dr. Copeland is a graduate of the Bellevue Hospital Medical College of New York city; was president of his class in that famous institution, and, after thorough hospital training and experience, devoted his entire time and attention to the special lines of practice named below. Passed through a similar course, Dr. Hunt and Dr. Drenning also devote themselves exclusively to the treatment of these specialties. Years of experience in their special lines, preceded by extensive hospital work, have fitted them in a notable degree for the practice of their profession.

WAS IT SELF DEFENSE?

Defense in the Houck Case Trying to Establish a Justification for the Murder of Haggerty.

One Witness Swears Positively That Jack Murphy Said He Would Get Even With Houck.

Haggerty Heard the Threat and Advised Him to Use a Club and Not Soil His Hands.

The afternoon session of the Houck murder trial yesterday was commenced by the cross-examination of Roach, the West Duluth policeman, by the defense. Henry Ogden, a livery man, and Robert Chubb, a saloon keeper, testified to the generally known circumstances of Houck being in their places of business after the shooting. As its final witness the state called Dr. Pierson, of West Duluth, for the purpose of corroborating the testimony of the morning offered by Dr. Charest, but Dr. Pierson was conspicuously by his absence. The prosecution being assured the privilege of examining the doctor when he should put in an appearance, if he ever did so, announced that their batch of witnesses was exhausted. County Attorney Tear then arose and announced that the state rested its case.

J. M. Martin, one of the attorneys for the defense, took his place before the jury and stated that the defense was now ready to go ahead with its side of the case and that while the defendant was charged with murder in the first degree, it would be shown that in doing what he did he acted in self defense. Mr. Martin then informed the jury the defense would prove that Murphy had an enemy against Houck, that the latter desired peace and had done all in his power to secure it, that after the fust the night before in which Murphy had been hit with a beer mug and worsted in a row, he had slept, drank and sworn revenge; that Murphy asked different parties to go down and help clean out the White Front saloon; that he stated that he would have his revenge on Houck; that the three men went in then for that purpose; that after Murphy was shot, Haggerty persisted in violently assaulting the defendant, despite his warnings to keep away as well as those of bystanders and that Houck only fired his last shot when he was cornered, assaulted and was unable to get loose.

The speaker then narrated Houck's doings after the killing, alleging that he intended giving himself up, but that the excited crowd on the street and remarks by a couple of men that he would be lynched if caught, heard as he lay concealed by the paving block, saving machine, terrorized him so that he feared to carry out his intentions. Martin further stated that the defendant at no time was in the woods but being found in a shed at the rear of his hotel by the lady to whom he was engaged to be married. She concealed him in her own room until found by the officers, Houck claiming that he told the story of being in the woods as to shield his by-throated and other friends. When those circumstances were being told the prisoner was visibly affected, showing considerable emotion and wiped the tears from his eyes at the close.

William King was the first witness called by the defense. He was not certain or positive on some points, alleging that he either did not see or remember. His testimony did not materially differ from that offered by the leading witnesses for the state save that on several steps in the tragedy matters were made more favorable for the defendant. He said that Murphy had hold of Houck's sleeve when he struck him and would not allow him to jerk away. Houck kept trying to get away but was unable to do so until he shot, so the witness averred. He then stated that Haggerty made some profane remark and started for Houck, who told him to keep away. That had no effect. He then raised his revolver and backed up clear to the end of the room. Haggerty then caught Houck by the collar and sort of pulled him down. Then came the final shots. Witness saw Houck attempt to break Haggerty's hold, but when he was unable, struck twice with his weapon. Houck next came back behind the bar followed by Cogan.

Dr. Forbes was the next witness, and he was evidently brought onto the stand to testify to a statement made by Murphy on his death-bed, as to the purpose for which he and his companions entered the saloon that day. The prosecution objected, on the grounds that the Murphy case was not on trial and that it had nothing to do with the Haggerty case. The judge was inclined to rule against admitting the testimony, despite the claims of the defense that it was simply a link in a chain of evidence to show a motive. Finally the defense consented to bring the witness on later, when it would be possible for the judge to be better posted on the point involved, he saying that it was a new one to him.

James Cogan was then called. The main points of his testimony were that he saw Murphy hold Houck by the back of the head then heard the shot and Murphy backed off. Haggerty followed up Houck backing him down nearly to the rear wall. Cogan followed, yelling for Haggerty to keep away as the man would shoot. He followed to stop the melee and was very much excited. There was some wrestling around and then some shots fired. When Haggerty made his rush witness heard him say something but could not tell what. Houck said "keep away." Haggerty seized the defendant by the collar. Cogan told the latter to break away. He replied, "I'm trying to break away." Houck did not strike Haggerty after he was down.

The judge here announced a recess until 9 o'clock this morning.

THIS MORNING'S SESSION.

Defense Introduces Some Strong Testimony in Houck's Favor.

Judge Stearns opened court this morning promptly at 9 o'clock. Cogan, the witness for the defense whose direct examination was unfinished because of adjournment, was at once placed on the stand and his examination continued. The remainder of the direct testimony with the cross-examination developed nothing particularly new. The witness adhered to his statements that Haggerty was warned by Houck to keep off, that Houck tried to break away after his assailant clinched him, that when he, Cogan, commanded the defendant to break loose and stop the row he replied that he could not, and that Haggerty was not struck after he fell to the floor. Considerable time was spent by the prosecution in locating the positions occupied by the participants during the entire row and the distances between them.

Geo. Irwin, the next witness called, being sworn testified substantially as follows: "I live in Duluth, was born in Liverpool, England, and am a civil engineer by profession. Have been engaged at work in West Duluth this summer. Have known the defendant since December 24, 1891. Was present at the shooting of Haggerty in the White Front saloon on September 6, last. I went into the saloon about a quarter to six to settle a small bill I owed. After about ten minutes went out. Had not gone seventy-five feet when I heard a shot in the saloon. I ran back and when I entered, saw Murphy sitting on the floor. My impression on seeing him was that he was drunk and had been hit. Houck stood opposite the ice box. Haggerty stood about five feet in front of him. He stepped back to where Murphy lay. I stepped up to Houck, saw a black streak on his face; asked him what was the matter with his face. Said he quessed Murphy had hit him. I took out my handkerchief and wiped off his face. Haggerty said, 'did you shoot that man?' He then followed up Houck. Houck's revolver went off. Think it was an accidental discharge. Haggerty jumped and caught defendant by the throat and forced him backward. He had his revolver raised but when he grappled apparently lowered it. Haggerty bent Houck backwards. The latter then put his hand behind him onto a table for support. The next thing was the shooting. Haggerty fell. Houck retreated behind the bar, 'broke' his revolver and reloaded it. Both were excited and Haggerty made quite a determined rush towards the defendant.

Richard Cogan, being called, testified that at about 5 o'clock on Sept. 6 he saw Murphy, Haggerty, Haley and a man named Flynn in the Little Diamond saloon at West Duluth. Was called to the saloon by Murphy, who called the company up to the bar. While drinks were being ordered and handed out Murphy tapped the witness on the shoulder and invited him around behind the ice box to tell him something. "I got the worst of it last night," said Murphy. "You don't look it," Cogan replied. Murphy then pulled off his hat and showed the marks from the beer mug, saying at the same time, "Yes, but I'll get even with the s— of a b— yet." The witness stated that he warned Murphy that he had better let Houck alone, as he had been drinking and carried a gun. The beer was then lowered, after which Murphy came back to the witness accompanied by Haggerty. Talk concerning the affair was engaged in during which Haggerty remarked "I would not hurt my hands with the s— of a b— I would take a club." "No," replied Murphy, "I'll lick him with these two hands God gave me."

Peter Kusick, a laborer, was called. He said: "I saw Murphy on the day of the murder, in Hay's saloon where I was temporarily tending bar while Mr. Hays went out on business. Murphy told about the row and said, 'I have satisfaction tonight or be dead in the morning.' He asked me to go up to the White Front saloon with him but I did not want to get mixed up in any row, so refused to go."

A. J. Filtravault, a West Duluth undertaker, testified that he prepared both murdered men for burial, that Haggerty was six feet and one inch in height and weighed about 170 pounds. Murphy measured six feet and weighed 175 or 180 pounds.

W. C. Chisholm, a young telegraph operator at Duluth, testified in a very straightforward and convincing manner concerning the circumstances of the row in the saloon on the evening before the shooting, of which he was an eyewitness. Thomas Hayes testified to seeing Murphy in his saloon the afternoon of the day of the murder, and Matt Condon, a sawmill employe, gave some of the particulars of the row between Houck and Murphy during Monday evening, Sept. 5. No new facts were brought out, however.

Edward Oakes, a member of the Duluth fire department, testified that Murphy came into the station late Monday night and showed evidences of a fight. His wounds were given some slight attention and as the victim did not wish to go home, Oakes placed him in his bed. He not only wanted the witness to go back to the saloon with him and see that he got fair play, but made numerous threats both that night and the next day. The wounds pained him and he did not sleep much that night.

Court was adjourned at 11:40 until 2:30 p.m. The defense then had at least five witnesses to put on the stand. Mr. Martin said some of the testimony to be brought out was more important than any yet pronounced. Mrs. Murphy and her fatherless children were spectators during the morning session. Not ten feet away, sat the betrothed of Houck, who concealed him two nights in her room after the killing. She is a neat, bright, modest, yet business-like appearing little woman and was expected to go onto the stand this afternoon. No arguments can possibly commence sooner than tomorrow morning.

THE FAIR AT BARNUM

The Carlton County People Are Holding a Splendid Exhibition at the Pleasant Little City.

It Is An Old Time County Fair, and the Grounds Were Thronged With Visitors Yesterday.

The Running Horse Races Attracted Considerable Attention As Did the Many Other Sporting Events.

The pleasant little city of Barnum, Carlton county, with its population of about 1000 people, was dressed in holiday attire yesterday and will be today and tomorrow, the special occasion being the opening of the second annual fair of the Carlton County Agricultural and Industrial association. Bright, pleasant weather, large crowds, a fine exhibit in all departments, and above all the fact that the association is now fixed in its own permanent home, combine to make the occasion one of great enjoyment for all Carlton county people, as well as for hundreds of neighboring outsiders.

Last year's exhibition was held at Northern Pacific Junction in scattered stores and hastily erected structures, insufficient in size and convenience. This year the association has fine, large and convenient grounds of its own at Barnum, close to the main line of the St. Paul & Duluth, and the main building or exhibitors' hall is built in the form of a cross, the central portion being two stories in height and the four wings a single story high.

The Herald's man yesterday found the grounds thronged with people and every evidence that an old time county fair was in successful operation. There was the exhibitor with the inevitable stump puller; the vociferous agricultural implement dealers; the energetic refreshment vendors; the traveling photographer, the usual crowd of jockeys and horsemen and a large number of lads and lassies in their best attire and bent on having a good time under all circumstances. The full Marine band of Duluth is in attendance and furnishes its well known quality of music.

Yesterday's program embraced a calthumpian parade at 10 in the morning, headed by the band which marched through the city and broke ranks at the fair grounds. Then followed a laughable potato race with eight or nine starts. The first prize being won by William Hecker, the second by J. Goddell and the third by Ora Johnson. The wheelbarrow race was postponed until today. Then came a 100 yards foot race, open to all comers, in which there were several starters. Ed Anderson was an easy winner in twelve seconds and John Beaudette captured second place, his time being about half a second slower.

At 2 o'clock Rev. Dr. Forbes delivered the opening address of welcome in front of the grand stand. The reverend gentleman reviewed the birth and growth of agricultural societies in general and the Carlton county one in particular. He spoke of the preferable pleasures of country or suburban life, and alluded to farmers as being the happiest people on earth.

He paid a high compliment to the Carlton county association and the herculean work they have accomplished and complimented the people of the county on the interest manifested in getting together such a splendid program. The speaker's address occupied thirty minutes in delivery and was received with warm applause. Then came the running horse races, the audience being a large one, and the entries being H. Wilson's Gray George, A. Anderson's Frank, John Mosher's Dick and J. M. U. Thompson's Rainy. The judges were Sheriff W. McKinnon, Edward Page, John Skelton, H. Waldrut and M. Sullivan. The horses went away well together on every heat and Gray George passed under the wire an easy winner of the first heat in 1:06, Frank second, Dick third and Rainy fourth. In all subsequent heats Gray George either bolted or was so unmanageable that his time could not be taken. The race was finally won by J. M. U. Thompson's Rainy, rode by Horace Thompson, of Duluth, who handled the little horse in a masterly manner, riding without saddle. The summary shows the result of the race, the judges deciding that Frank and Dick were tied for second place and that an extra heat between the two was necessary.

Gray George..... 1
Frank..... 2 1 3 2
Dick..... 3 2 3 3
Rainy..... 4 3 1 1
Time 1:06 1/2, 1:09 1/2, 1:13 1/2, 1:15 1/2.

The other racing events were postponed until today on account of the lateness of the hour.

In exhibition hall there is a bewildering amount of fancy work from the deft fingers of the Carlton county ladies. There is wool from its clipping, through the successive stages of manufacture until it appears in fine homespun cloth or other garments. Elegant samples of embroidery work, knitting, crocheting, lace work, and lots of little articles which evidently delighted the female eye. The Domestic sewing machine people have a fine display under the charge of Charles Christianson, of Duluth, and Miss Anna Graham, also from Duluth, has a large machinery showing which attracts a lion's share of attention from the lady visitors.

Mrs. M. N. Berg, of Cloquet, has a fine lot of samples of pastel work, and which may be noticed a fine picture, by 60 inches, representing the storm scene with Paul and Virginia fleeing from the approaching elemental disturbance. The clock and jewelry very tastefully arranged. The dairy showing is a good one, and some very fine butter is shown, also a large line of domestic cheese, not forgetting a fine sand cheese which is the center of both curiosity and admiration. The floral display is good but not quite equal to last year.

The natural woods of Carlton county are shown in thirty separate varieties and the minerals mined in the county embrace gold, silver, lead, copper, iron, and a fine collection of building and ornamental stones. M. W. Turner, of Duluth, has a large showing of Studebaker wagons and carriages also a lot of other makes.

The fruit and vegetable display is superb. There are large ripe watermelons, muskmelons, nutmegmelons and citrons, and a number of large red ripe apples raised by Mrs. Henry Brockman, of Barnum. There are lots of crab apples and small fruits, including a fine showing of preserves and jellies. The vegetables include splendid specimens, such as 30-pound cauliflower, 5-pound potatoes, huge ripe tomatoes, turnips, 30-pound squashes, splendid celery, mammoth onions, 35-pound blood beets, 30-pound pumpkins and Grant parsnips, with lots of peas, beans and such things. In grain there is a fine showing of threshed and unthreshed wheat, barley, oats, rye, corn, popcorn, etc.

There are thirty-six pens of horses and stock, covering about 100 head. There are some fine stallions, brood mares, draft horses and colts of different get. The Paine herds of ponies, fourteen in number, please all onlookers. There are several pens of sheep and swine, a large lot of poultry and an enclosure containing deer. There are also some very nice rabbits in private hutches.

Today's program, besides the postponed events from yesterday, will include the following events: Half mile foot race; address by Clinton D. Smith, of State university; baseball match; pacing race, half mile; three minute trotting race. Carlton county schools are closed today, the various mills are shut down and the attendance from outside places, including Duluth, is very large. The fair is a great success and the association will be able to more than pay a expenses.

THE GRAND ARMY BOYS

Something About Capt. Weissert, Who Has Just Been Elected Their New Commander in Chief.

Of Course He Was Born In Ohio, Although Now He Practices Law In Milwaukee.

The Senior Vice Commander Is An Ohio Man With A Brilliant Record For Gallantry.

The Grand Army men had an unusually fine time at Washington, and in their elections for the coming year the Ohio men came very much to the front. The new commander in chief is a native of Canton, in that state, though now a citizen of Wisconsin, and the senior vice commander, R. H. Warfield, is an Ohio man with a brilliant record for gallantry and soldierly efficiency.

A. G. WEISSERT.

Captain A. G. Weissert, the new commander in chief, was born Aug. 7, 1843, in Canton, O., and at the age of five was taken by his parents to Wisconsin. He is a graduate of the Racine high school and of the University of Michigan, though his educational career was cut in two by the war, and is now a leading lawyer of Milwaukee. He volunteered at the beginning of the war and was rejected on account of his youth; tried three more times and was rejected each time for the same reason, but in September, 1861, having completed his eighteenth year, he secured a place in the ranks of the Eighteenth Wisconsin Infantry.

He participated in forty-two battles and skirmishes, and was seriously wounded in the last—the battle of Nashville. He was breveted captain for meritorious services, and President Lincoln appointed him a cadet at West Point, but owing to disability caused by his wounds he could not take the place. He has long been active and prominent in the ranks of the G. A. R.

In 1889 he served as commander of the Department of Wisconsin. That autumn he was elected senior vice commander for the nation, and at the twenty-fifth national encampment held at Detroit last year he was a candidate for the highest place. The vote on the first ballot stood 322 for Captain John Palmer, of New York; 270 for Captain Weissert, and 177 for W. P. Smedley, of California. As everybody knows, Captain Palmer was elected.

A Timely Chat About Six Noted Men Who Are Candidates for Governor This Year.

The Old Issue On Top and the Old Nominees Before the People in Connecticut.

An Eastern and a Western Leader of the People's Party—New Jersey's Rival Claimants.

This is the year of fusion and confusion. With dissolution and recombination of parties in at least one-third of the states, with the Republican remnant in various southern states fusing with or absorbed by the Populists and the Democratic minority in the same fix in several western states, the same party denouncing Cleveland in the south and Harrison in the north, the old time independent voter must occasionally scratch a puzzled head and wonder which one of the boys he is.

Connecticut and Nebraska, Kansas, Colorado, Nevada and Alabama present, perhaps, the most interesting complications. The old parties confront each other again in Connecticut, it is true, but as each has nominated the same standard bearer as in 1890 it is plain enough that back of tariff and currency the great issue in that state is as to the legality of proceedings in general after the last election. Briefly stated the problem stands thus: The Democratic candidate got more votes than the Republican candidate, but neither of them got the office. The legislature failed to agree, and the old governor held over.

In New Jersey both the old parties have started in with what might be called enthusiasm. Hon. George T. Morris, Democratic candidate for governor in 1890, and is again nominated, was born in New Haven, Conn., April 19, 1827, and was educated at Yale college, graduating in the class of 1854. He then studied law, was admitted to the bar in 1856, and has practiced in New Haven county ever since his admission. He has been elected to the state house of representatives for six terms—first in 1855, and then in the years 1856, 1870, 1876, 1880 and 1881. In 1874 he was elected to the state senate and served as president pro tem. of that body. Mr. Morris, in 1887, was elected, probate judge of the New Haven probate and served in that capacity for six years. He was appointed by the legislature of the state of Connecticut in 1888, as chairman of the commission to revise the probate laws of the state, which revision was adopted and is now in force. Besides being a lawyer and judge he has been for many years vice president of the Connecticut Savings bank, and has held various minor offices.

General Samuel E. Merwin, also of New Haven, was the Republican candidate for governor in 1890 and is renominated for the same this year. He is sixty-one years old, a native of Brookfield, Conn., a wholesale pork packer and a very popular gentleman—so popular that when a candidate for lieutenant governor in 1888 he ran ahead of his ticket, receiving 1,100 more votes in his own town of New Haven than Governor Morgan G. Bulkeley. Both were admitted to the bar in 1856, and has practiced in New Haven county ever since his admission. He has been elected to the state house of representatives for six terms—first in 1855, and then in the years 1856, 1870, 1876, 1880 and 1881. In 1874 he was elected to the state senate and served as president pro tem. of that body. Mr. Morris, in 1887, was elected, probate judge of the New Haven probate and served in that capacity for six years. He was appointed by the legislature of the state of Connecticut in 1888, as chairman of the commission to revise the probate laws of the state, which revision was adopted and is now in force. Besides being a lawyer and judge he has been for many years vice president of the Connecticut Savings bank, and has held various minor offices.

The election resulted in a regular "eight to seven" puzzle. Judge Morris received a large plurality, but in Connecticut that does not elect. If no candidate has a majority of all the votes cast, there is no election by the people and the legislature decides between the two leading candidates. The question as to whether Judge Morris had such a majority depended on whether certain third party votes should be counted. The election boards threw them out as "defective." Without them Judge Morris had a majority of twenty-six; with them counted he failed of such majority, though leading Mr. Merwin.

In 1882 he defeated Miles Ross for congress and served in the Forty-eighth congress. In 1884 he was defeated by ex-Governor Robert S. Green, in 1886 he was again successful against Mr. McMahon and in 1888 was again defeated this time by the well known Congressman Geisswainer. It is scarcely necessary to add that the district is close, but in his case the vote has varied more than in usual in New Jersey, which, as everybody knows, is ranked among the "rock ribbed." The campaign this year will be curiously complicated by state issues which, according to the local experts, no one who does not live in New Jersey can hope to understand. The same might be said of several other states.

ALLAN HANSCOMB.

An Extremely Prolific Couple.

Xenia, O., has a colored character named Ben Powell, Ben is a 4-foot dwarf about fifty-five years old. He shines shoes and does odd jobs about tin stores. Ben's chief claim for fame is the fact that he has been the father of twenty-one children by one wife, and none of them came in pairs—all singly—and all since 1865. What is more remarkable his wife, who is somewhat taller than he, has had twenty-four children altogether, having been three times married before she married the short, but vigorous Benjamin. They came from Harrison county, Ky., where both were slaves. Sixteen of Ben's progeny have died, however, and are scattered in different graveyards around Xenia, so that he himself cannot locate them all, nor yet recall the mellifluous names with which they were christened.

Sailing in the Air.

In acrobatic myth preceded history, and in the older stories there is a touch of comedy. First is the old Greek legend of Daedalus and his son Icarus, who sailed his on wings, but the heat of the sun melted the wax with which the wing feathers were fastened, and the men were dashed to pieces. Suetonius says that in the time of Nero, Simon Magus flew from one housetop to another in Rome, but adds that although he could fly he could not light successfully, for in coming down he was killed. In 1770 Professor Black, of Edinburgh, declared that hydrogen gas was the material by which men could sail the air, but no one took him up.

Costa Rican Customs Charges.

A decree recently issued by the Costa Rican government declares free of all customs duties and port charges the following articles of consumption: Corn, rice, beans, rye and oats and other forage. The duty on raw sugar, meats of all sorts, fried, smoked or pickled, except hams and sausages, has been reduced to one cent a pound.

ARE SOLID FOR MOER

The Republican County Convention This Afternoon Was Marked By An Unusual Degree of Harmony.

A Resolution Passed Declaring That Senator Davis Is the County's Choice as His Own Successor.

The Delegates to the Judicial Convention Instructed to Vote for Samuel H. Moer for Judge.

The Republican county convention to choose delegates to the judicial and legislative convention met today at the city hall. A caucus of delegates was held in the morning at 11 o'clock at J. B. Cotton's office. Everything was arranged here and there was harmony with a big H.

Chairman Buck called the convention to order at 2:25 o'clock and read the call. F. B. Daugherty named W. A. Cant for temporary chairman and he was unanimously chosen. L. F. Willcuts named C. F. Lamb, of West Duluth, as temporary secretary and he was likewise chosen without opposition.

A recess of nearly half an hour was taken and the committee on credentials made its report. There were no contests.

The following resolution was submitted and adopted:

Resolved by the Republicans of St. Louis county in convention assembled, that the delegates chosen by this convention to the legislative convention be, and hereby are instructed to name as candidates for the legislature only men who will pledge themselves to vote and use every effort after they are elected to insure the return to the senate of the United States Minnesota's favorite son, that able statesman and staunch friend of Duluth and St. Louis county, Gustavus K. Davis.

The delegates to the judicial convention were instructed for S. H. Moer for judge of the district court.

The Phantom Walks In Duluth!

AMERICAN STORE.

Plato Said:

"Tis as if some Phantom Spirit follows in the wake of every fraud, informing the unsuspecting in their turn, so gradual and so surely does every faulty condition wane."

What Mr. Catchon Saw:

"Twas a warm and sultry night, and as I lay upon my couch, a heavy, dreamy feeling came o'er me. 'Twas not sleep, as all my five senses were fully awake and refused to entertain the thought of sleep. My attention became riveted upon the fantastical actions of the clouds, visible through a small opening in the curtains made from time to time. A strange desire had come over me to go to a certain spot upon the Terrace Drive. Why, I knew not. As I pictured how grand this Panorama of Fantastical Clouds must make the myriads of changing lights upon the lake, this strange and intense desire became so strong that resistance became impossible. I arose and with a feverish haste dressed myself, threw a coat over my shoulders and started. I did not walk, but fairly glided, seemingly in the power of some mighty force. Up, up, the steep incline I went, without the slightest effort until I reached a certain spot overlooking that dark and desired gulch; the grandeur of the lake beyond seemed supernatural in its magnificence. I was charmed, intoxicated with the delight when I was suddenly brought to my senses by a deep voice, which said, 'Mr. Catchon, I salute you!' and from out the rocks and shrubbery came a man. I felt no fear, as there was a something in his manner that dispelled all thoughts of fear. 'We will descend,' he commanded, and I dared not refuse; and on the way he said: 'We will visit the sleeping city; one year has passed since last its conditions I saw.'"

"What's this; the Temple Opera? It has not changed. What is that flaming flag I see? Goodness, save us! Is it another Fire Sale? Heavens above, is it possible that such things are still tolerated? Is Duluth still prey for such rank frauds?"

"I could but say, alas, 'I know not.'"

"What store is that across the street? It looks to have an air of respectability."

"That is Haynie & Co.," I answered, "they have no sales, yet sell great amounts of goods on their merits."

"The well," said he, "Ah! and this is the viaduct actually being built; surely this a great acquisition. What store is this? Why, they closed out January 1st, or that is what they said, and yet here they are. O Jerusalem, Jerusalem! what will the people do next for a dollar? What's this; a Removal Sale? Does Duluth still believe in the impossible? Why, in the country I've just visited the word 'sale' has been changed for the word 'unreliable,' because it is shorter and means the same. Oh, here is a grand store with an American name over it—the second in three blocks. What an oasis! Grand hotel, lovely depot, charming opera house," and as I gazed over to the east I noticed the cold grey eye of morn commencing to open, and left my mysterious companion and hastened home, wondering at my trance-like promenade.—MR. CATCHON.

We publish the above by request of one our of customers, who is the author.

The Usual Number.

Before Judge Powell, in the municipal court this morning, Frank Kelly, Jerry Dauch, Peter Hogan, James Dailey, John Peterson, John Johnson, Henry Kent, John Rantana, Henry Mattison and Andrew Johnson were drunk and in court. Each $12 on an expenditure of ten days labor to square themselves with outraged justice. James Miller, a one-armed "second timer" drunk, will go to jail for thirty days. Harry Duffy for disorderly conduct pleaded not guilty and will be tried at 3 o'clock this afternoon.

A Popular Dry Goods Store.

A lady out shopping without going to the dry goods store of L. Kahn, would be to use a trite simile like the play of "Hamlet" with Hamlet left out. Every department of this great store is now filled to overflowing, heaped up and running over with the choicest products of the season with all the newest novelties and substantial additions. Magnificent inducements are being offered in every department of the store and it will pay one to lay in their supplies now for the fall and winter. The cloak department is a veritable store of itself and this season the display of garments outranks that of any past ones, great as they have invariably been. This is just the time to buy cloaks, you get your choice from unbroken stocks, the prices are very low and there is no telling what day you may need to wear them. Kahn naturally takes much pride in his cloak department and he certainly has a stock which warrants it.

A STRONG WHEAT MARKET.

The Early Advance Was Lost on a Break at Chicago.

The wheat market was very strong during the morning session today, owing to higher cables, and the trade in the day was very large, especially in the May future. Late futures strengthened early in the afternoon, but the general advance was lost in sympathy with the Chicago break in the last half hour, and the close was unchanged from yesterday, except for futures, which were 1/2c lower. Following were the closing prices:

No. 1 hard, cash, 73 1/2c; October, 73 1/2c; December, 73 1/2c; May, 83 1/2c. No. 1 northern, cash, 71 1/2c; October, 71 1/2c; December, 71 1/2c; May, 79 1/2c. No. 2 northern, cash, 69 1/2c; October, 69 1/2c; December, 69 1/2c; May, 77 1/2c. Rejected, 51 1/2c, 53c, 55c.

Chicago, Oct. 5.—The close: Wheat: October, 72 1/2c; December, 73 1/2c; May, 81 1/2c. Corn: October, 43 1/2c; November, 44c; December, 44 1/2c; May, 47 1/2c. Oats: October, 31 1/2c; November, 31 1/2c; December, 31 1/2c; May, 35 1/2c. Rye: October, 51 1/2c; November, 51 1/2c; December, 51 1/2c; May, 55 1/2c. Lard: October, $3.40; January, $3.47 1/2.

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 5.—Wheat: May opened at 77 1/2c and closed at 77 1/2c; October closed at 72 1/2c; December opened at 71 1/2c and closed at 71 1/2c; No. 1 hard, 72 1/2c; No. 1 northern, 71c; No. 2 northern, 69 1/2c.

"During my term of service in the army I contracted chronic diarrhoea," says A. E. Belding, of Halsey, Oregon. "Since then I have used a great amount of medicine, but when I found any that would give me relief they would injure my stomach, until Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy was brought to my notice. I used it and will say it is the only remedy that gave me permanent relief and no bad results follow." For sale by druggists.

The Immortal Barnum

Said "Every minute a new fool is born," and he catered that way and was successful.

Wonder if he could have conducted a "fake fire sale," advertising "wonderful bargains" and in turn giving the people the worst kind of shoddy poorly made, cheap, good-for-nothing slop shop clothing, stamped and printed faced satinetts, calling them by some good name as Cheviots, Kerseys and Tweeds, but gotten up in "sweat shops" by the worst class of labor, just for the purpose of defrauding an unsuspecting public; getting their money, leaving town in ten days or sooner, when the people can get no redress.

M. S. Burrows & Co. for years have manufactured nearly all the Men's, Boys' and Children's Clothing sold in their store, saving their customers all the middlemen's profits and by honest methods and selling only the most reliable goods at right prices, have built up their mammoth business and won the reputation of the most reliable house in Duluth. On that reputation we make the people the following offers at the following prices. THESE GOODS ARE WORTH ALL WE ASK.

DETROIT IN THE LEAD

The City of the Straits Likely to Get the Next Congress of the Real Estate Men.

The Northwestern Combination is Working Hard for St. Paul but Not Making Many Converts.

Duluth and Other Delegates Will Go on a Two Weeks' Trip Along the Atlantic Coast.

BUFFALO, Oct. 6.—This is the last day of the real estate convention. Detroit is in the lead for the honor of having the next convention, but Denver is a dangerous competitor today. The Northwestern combination is working hard for St. Paul but not making many converts. Treasurer W. B. Cutter, of Buffalo will probably be elected president. The Milwaukee delegates, together with a few from Nashville, St. Louis, Louisville, Chicago, Minneapolis, St. Paul and Duluth, are arranging for a trip east from Buffalo after the convention closes, visiting Boston, New Haven, Providence, New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Washington and Pittsburgh. It is expected that the trip will take about two weeks and that over 100 delegates will participate.

CONDENSED DISPATCHES.

President Harrison will attend the Columbian exercises at New York and Chicago, if Mrs. Harrison's condition permits. Minister R. T. Lincoln will sail for New York next Saturday. The Homestead advisory committee, charged with treason, were admitted to bail yesterday afternoon. The general convention of 1892 of the Protestant Episcopal church met at Baltimore yesterday. The opening services were conducted by the Rev. William W. Williams, of Connecticut. The sermon was preached by Bishop Wilmer, of Alabama. The great Roosevelt organ manufactory in New York which employs several hundred men, is to be permanently closed. Master-in-Chancellor Barlow has declined to recommend an injunction in the suit brought by the Garfield Park club to restrain the city of Chicago from interfering with horse races at the track. Snow fell in various parts of New York state yesterday. Lord Dunraven has challenged the New York Yacht club to sail for the American cup. In a battle at Los Angeles, California, Crapo won a decisive victory, which means the triumph of the Crepists. He will enter Caracas tomorrow. The American fleet in American waters is being increased in view of the impending crisis. Colored Dr. Martino's wife told Lieut. John Wheeler of the Chicago police, that her husband was killed in Louis Allogretti's saloon Sunday night by the Mafia. A grocer sent a sheriff last night to the residence of Mrs. P. Stevens, at Newport, R. I. Mrs. Stevens is in Boston, where her mother has died. Mrs. Josephine Groll and her two children were badly burned by the explosion of a kerosene lamp in Brooklyn. One of the children subsequently died of its burns. In a wreck on the Missouri Pacific at Council Grove, Kas., Eugene C. T. Peffer, a son of Senator Peffer, and Clint Howard, a fireman, were instantly killed. Thirteen cars of grain were burned. Ex-Senator G. W. Delamater was found guilty today, at Mendocino, Pa., of statutory embezzlement, receiving $800. He is known to his bank as insolvent. G. B. Delamater and T. A. Delamater were acquitted. F. A. Busch, a wealthy young man of Minneapolis, was robbed of $300 in a saloon on Clark avenue, St. Louis, Tuesday night. Busch fell in with two slick young men who swarmed him with loaded dice. B. H. Hopkins, a Western Union fireman, has been arrested at Norfolk, Va., for attempting to assault a young woman at Pointe-aux-Les. William M. Runk, of the large dry goods firm of Darling, Runk & Co., Philadelphia, and a director in the Pennsylvania Mutual Life Insurance company, committed suicide last night. W. A. Meyer, delegate from Milwaukee to the real estate congress at Buffalo, was robbed of $100 worth of diamonds and $500 in money. Tomorrow will be the hardest day for the hangmen in South Carolina. Two murderers and two marauders will leave this world by the rope route. The widow of Patrick S. Gilmore will not be identified with the band made famous under her husband's leadership. She has decided not to have any further connection with it as manager or backer. Rev. Beverly E. Warner, of "Bridgeport," Conn., has received a call to Trinity Episcopal church, of New Orleans. Trinity parish is one of the largest and richest in the South. The Kinney cigarette factory in New York was almost totally destroyed by fire at 5 o'clock this morning. Loss, $150,000. The condition of Mrs. Harrison remains unchanged. Justice Clute again postponed decision in the Peck case, in which the commissioner is charged with having destroyed evidence, until Oct. 18.

Otto O. Middleton, a carrier at the Omaha postoffice, has been indicted for the murder of those attacked by a dethroning party bearing his name upon his being admitted to the service one year ago. Death of Mrs. Woodbridge. Died—On Thursday morning, Oct. 6, Mrs. Lydia E. Woodbridge, mother of Mrs. William S. Woodbridge and Dwight E. Woodbridge, aged 74 years. Mrs. Woodbridge has been in failing health for some time and her death was not unexpected. Last winter she went to California and was temporarily benefited. Mrs. Woodbridge came to Duluth in 1870 from Boston. In 1872 the family returned to Massachusetts, and in 1876 went to Hartford. Mr. Woodbridge died there in 1878, and Mrs. Woodbridge again came to Duluth in 1878 and has resided here since. She would have been 74 years of age on the 12th inst. Besides the children living here, she had one son who was killed on the field of Gettysburg. The funeral will take place from the residence of her daughter, 311 East Third street, on Saturday at 2:30 o'clock.

Mining Matters. The Buckeye Mining company has decided to move its office from St. Paul to Duluth. The Itasca company will also remove its headquarters from Chicago to Duluth, and the Columbia, an offer has been accepted for the lease of the mine, but no particulars have been given out. The First Trip. A special train, consisting of an engine, a business car and a caboose made the first trip over here at 3 a. m. It reached the junction with the Duluth & Winnipeg at 9:10 a. m., and arrived at Iron Junction at 1 p. m., where a stop was made for dinner. There are thirty-four people in the party.

COLLISION NEAR THE SOO.

The Republic and the Norman Badly Crushed But Proceed.

SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich., Oct. 4.—[Special to The Herald.]—The steam barge Republic, down bound, ore laden and owned by W. D. Rees, of Cleveland, and the Norman, of the Menominee Transit company, up bound and light, came into collision at 3:30 this morning at the turn of Lake George flats, near where the Peck was sunk last season. They struck stem on, on the starboard side. The Norman is cut down to the water's edge, then back from the stem. She turned back for Cleveland with the tug Rockaway following her. The Republic was crushed twenty feet back from the stem to her bridge but proceeded on her trip.

BAD WRECK ON THE N. P.

Five or Six Men Are Reported to be Killed and Twelve More or Less Injured.

WINNIPEG, Oct. 6.—A serious accident is reported to have occurred on the Northern Pacific, between here and Minneapolis, an express colliding with a freight. It is said that two firemen, the engineer of the freight and two or more of the passengers on the express were killed, and that the engineer of the express is not expected to live. It is also said that twelve men were taken out of the debris, being more or less injured.

Pursued by a Hoodoo. Some fatality seems to pursue the Andrews Opera company. Yesterday morning, at Rochester, their car was accidentally switched on a siding, where it collided violently with a freight train, and the rear of the car was badly smashed and dishes, cooking utensils, etc., destroyed. Tracy Collins, a chorus girl, had her wrist broken and several others were badly bruised.

The Sault Passages. SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich., Oct. 6.—[Special to The Herald.]—Up: Dodge, 8 p. m. Down: 100, 6:30 p. m.; Wade, 7:30; North Wind, 9; Naples, 10:30; Castalia, 10:30; Sitka, 12:30 a. m.; Republic, 1:30; New Orleans, Packer, 2:30; Philadelphia, Mesaba, 5:30; Nimick, 7; London, 8:30; Gogebic, 10:30. Clear; calm.

Not a Candidate. GRAND FORKS, N. D., Oct. 6.—Lieut. Governor Roger Allin has forwarded to the secretary of state a letter of declination of the nomination for governor tendered him by the Prohibition party. Accordingly his name will not appear on the official ballot.

The Wrecked Wetmore. MARSHFIELD, Ore., Oct. 6.—The whal-bait steamer Charles W. Wetmore, wrecked off the north shore, has begun to go to pieces. Her entire cargo has been washed away by heavy swells.

Whirled to Death. LITTLE FALLS, Minn., Oct. 6.—B. P. Camp, employed by the Pine Tree Lumber company, was caught in the machinery yesterday morning and instantly killed. He was lying up when his clothing caught in the shafting and he was whirled to death.

THE CASE OF DR. FORBES.

It is to be Inquired Into by the Methodist Conference. The Methodist conference of Minnesota, now in session at Minneapolis, has decided to investigate the case of the Rev. Robert Forbes, formerly presiding elder of the St. Paul district, now the pastor of a small church in the Duluth district. The case is a peculiar and sad one and the salient facts about it have already been given to the public. The good Methodists of the state are divided into two parties so far as their beliefs about the case go. Some of them believe that Dr. Forbes, while sane on all other subjects, is a monomaniac on the subject of his wife, and that he is wrong in suspecting the prominent St. Paul Methodist, who once boarded in his family, of having wronged him. The other party believes that Dr. Forbes is perfectly sane on all topics and is right in his suspicions.

When the proposal was made in the meeting of the conference at Wesley church there was a narrow escape from a lively debate. But the proposal was made in such an inoffensive shape that there was much chance for objection. The motion provided for the appointment of a committee of inquiry, consisting of eleven members, to investigate conference relations of Mr. Forbes. Said Rev. Thomas McClary, of St. Paul, in speaking to the resolution: "If we do not appoint this committee we do ourselves, the church and Dr. Forbes an injustice." The motion finally passed, but the committee will be named later. The many friends of Dr. Forbes in Duluth trust that he will now be given justice and the series of persecutions ended.

ANOTHER CHAPTER BEGUN.

The Schulte Divorce Case Again Revived by Another Divorce Action. Agnes Reche has commenced an action for divorce against her liege lord Henry Reche. This is another chapter in the notorious Schulte divorce case, one of the most sensational ever tried in this country. About a year ago Agnes Schulte brought a suit for divorce against Anton Schulte alleging inhuman treatment. Schulte went to Germany and found Henry Reche, who proved that he, Reche, was the lawful husband of the woman. Of course no divorce could be granted. The woman insisted that she had believed that a divorce had been obtained from Reche. After the trial Anton and Agnes adjusted their quarrel and have been living happily since. She now brings the action for divorce from Reche, alleging desertion, and asks that the property which she has acquired be declared to be entirely hers and that the defendant be enjoined from encumbering it. The property, by the way, was decided her by Schulte, and is quite valuable.

MOER WAS NOMINATED

The Republican Judicial Convention Today Selected Samuel H. Moer as the Candidate for District Judge.

James A. Boggs, Leonidas Merritt and J. B. Cotton Named as the Candidates for the Legislature.

Sketches of the Careers of Those Who Now Seek to be Elected by the People.

The Republican judicial convention was called to order about 11:30 o'clock this morning, Chairman M. A. Hays, of the committee, reading the call. A. T. Crossley was chosen temporary chairman and O. W. Baldwin, temporary secretary. There being no contests the lists of delegates was made by the secretary.

The representation for St. Louis county was selected yesterday, a few proxies being held. Lake county was represented by C. J. McGee, who held three proxies. F. B. Daugherty represented Cook county with two proxies, and Carlton county had no representation.

J. D. Holmes then introduced the following resolution prefacing it with a few remarks as to Mr. Moer's eminent capabilities for the position: Whereas, we as Republicans believe that the administration of justice should, so far as possible, be kept separate from the influence of parties and politics; and Whereas, the bar of the Eleventh Judicial district has unanimously recommended to the respective political conventions the name of Samuel H. Moer as candidate for district judge; and Whereas, Mr. Moer possesses in an eminent degree the proper qualifications for that high office; therefore,

Resolved, that this convention approves and endorses the action of the bar, and hereby places in nomination for the district judgeship Samuel H. Moer, of Duluth. Mr. Moer was declared the unanimous choice of the convention as the candidate for the judgeship. P. C. Schmidt, W. N. Draper, J. D. Holmes, W. P. Edson and A. E. McManus were selected to notify Mr. Moer, but returned saying that they were unable to bring him before the convention. Upon motion of C. A. Towne the chair was authorized to appoint a judicial committee consisting of seven members and to announce it at his leisure. An adjournment was then taken.

FOR THE LEGISLATURE.

Boggs, Merritt and Cotton Are the Legislative Candidates. The Republican legislative convention for the district including St. Louis, Lake and Cook counties was held at the city hall this afternoon. John McKinley was chairman. It was very harmonious, no opposition being offered to James McKinley, Boggs, Merritt and Joseph E. Cotton as legislative candidates, who were placed in nomination by C. A. Towne, F. B. Daugherty and E. G. Swanson. They were named by acclamation, and the chairman was authorized to appoint a legislative committee.

The Judicial Candidate. S. H. Moer is a comparatively young man. He was born in Miles county, Ia., in 1836, attended school for some years, afterwards entered the military school at New Haven, Conn., and later on entered Ann Arbor university in Michigan. He was admitted to the bar in 1859 and went to Grinnell, Ia., where he was county attorney at 18 years of age. From Grinnell, Mr. Moer went to La. Moere, S. D., and while residing there served as district attorney from 1864 to 1868. He was a member of the north Dakota constitutional convention in 1889. Mr. Moer came to Duluth in 1890 and has enjoyed a successful law practice here.

The Legislative Candidates. Lon Merritt is one of the men most prominent in the history and development of St. Louis county. He was born in Chautauque, N. Y., in 1842, and in 1856 came to Duluth with his father, where he remained for the next few years. He served in Brackett's battalion on the Missouri river in 1861 and 1862, being honorably discharged. From then until about 1871 he resided on the lakes. In 1871 he went into the real estate business and in 1882 first became interested in the Vermilion iron range. It was in 1883 that he with his brother's turned to the mining business. His history since then is familiar to every resident in St. Louis county. James A. Boggs is 32 years of age and was born in Alpena, Mich., on July 22, 1860. He left school at 13 years of age, worked in a store for a year, and then for a year and a half at scaling and driving logs at Alpena. Removed to Duluth and studied law for a year and a half. He then returned to Alpena, where he was admitted to the bar in 1880, before he was 21 years of age. In the fall of 1880 he was elected circuit court commissioner near Alpena. He came to Duluth in 1884 and was a clerk in the land office for six months. He then opened an office for the practice of law. In the spring of 1889 Mr. Boggs went into the real estate business and has since continued in that line.

J. B. Cotton was born in Albion, Noble county, Ind., on January 6, 1865, and was educated in the high school there, afterward going to the agricultural college in Michigan, from which he graduated in 1884, taking the degree of B. S. He was a assistant to the professor of mathematics in the agricultural college for two years thereafter and was afterward a student at law under Hon. Edwin Willett, now assistant secretary of agriculture of the United States. Mr. Cotton was admitted to the bar in June, 1888, in the supreme court of Michigan. He came to Duluth in 1888.

Setting of Cases. The following is the setting made for new cases at the October term of the United States court: Tuesday, Oct. 18—102, 103, 101, 104. Thursday, Oct. 20—106, 110, 108, 113. COR. TOWER AVE AND BELKNAP ST. WEST SUPERIOR WIS.

New Dawkins Block, ★

Opposite West Superior Hotel.

DAWKINS presents his compliments to the ladies of Duluth, West Duluth, Oneota, Hazelwood and Stowell, and thanks them for their kind acceptance of his invitation to inspect his new store. He hopes to see them all again and many times in the future.

There seems to have been a misunderstanding regarding the road over which our excursion was to run, and that owing to a such, a few ladies paid their fare over the ferries and the Northern Pacific railroad. We regret this mistake very much, but call attention to the fact that the St. Paul & Duluth railroad was very plainly advertised as the road over which the excursion trains would be run. Again, we thank you for your visit and cordially invite you to repeat it, promising always to make your calls PLEASANT as well as PROFITABLE.

DAWKINS' GREAT OPENING.
A Bawling and Beautiful Scene in a Mammoth Store.

Dawkins was in it yesterday. Everybody knows Dawkins, the live business man over in Superior. Well, about a month ago this bustling merchant moved into a new brick block and yesterday held an "opening" that eclipsed anything ever heard of or read about in this neck of the woods.

The new quarters are perfect in arrangement and cover over 40,000 square feet of floor space. The salesrooms are all on the ground floor and when a shelf gets a little empty, there is an immense reserve stock in the basement from which to secure more goods to fill up the vacant space.

Words fail to do justice to yesterday's opening. The whole interior was in holiday attire. Innumerable pots of plants, rare flowers and beautiful green set off every shelf, nook and corner. The richest, rarest fabrics were not spared in making displays, decorating or draping. An orchestra brought a mellowness over the scene that completed the charm.

The numerous show windows at the front were works of art alone worth a visit to see. In one was wall paper and carpets which, while perfect, gave you but a poor idea of the immense stock and display within. The clock window held its own with the rest. Then came the shoes. Next came a bewildering display of dress goods. The millinery was crowded with "loves of bonnets" and numberless works of art and beauty in that line. In the corner window were the furs. Sackies were displayed with prices ranging from $200 to $1000 each.

It is impossible to satisfactorily describe the immensity, beauty, and completeness in every line of the interior. The only way to get a proper idea is to go in person and look at it as did a Herald man last evening and over 2000 excursionists on this side of the bay yesterday afternoon.

The free excursions all day yesterday had been so well advertised in The Herald that all knew about it. The number that took advantage of those excursions was entirely unexpected. It was made up of the best people on this side of the bay. Mr. Dawkins remarked that he never saw a better natured, more cultured and friendly company of ladies than those who took advantage of the excursion trains and inspected his new establishment. One train alone in the afternoon took over 422 ladies. The only fault any of the visitors found was that there were not enough clerks to wait upon the crowds. There were over eighty clerks working to their utmost, and then there was not counter room enough.

Mr. Dawkins is a hustler and a man of nerve. He is entitled to feel proud of his store, his stock, his excursion trains and the general success of the opening. Too much credit also cannot be given to Geo. L. Spicer, manager of the establishment. That's a great head he has, and Dawkins could not afford to do without it. In fact Dawkins and Spicer make an unexcelled pair to draw to, as the thousands who drew to them yesterday are all testifying.

The Weather.
U. S. WEATHER BUREAU, DULUTH, MINN., Oct. 6.—The weather continues much the same as it has been for the past week, and the changes that have taken place in that time have occurred so gradually that they have not been noticed.

An area of medium low barometer is central over the country to the north of Minnesota, and is gradually moving east. It is not probable that it will affect this section in its passage, and will be followed by an area of high pressure with continued fair weather.

There has been something of a rise in temperature over the Dakotas and Montana since yesterday, with this exception, there has been slight changes.

A slight shower at Buffalo was all the rainfall over the country during the past twenty-four hours.

Yesterday was an average day for this place, the mean temperature being the same as the average for the past twenty-one years, the highest was 50°, the lowest last night 44°.

DULUTH, Oct. 6.—Continued fair; slight change in temperature; west to north winds.

R. H. BRONSON,
Local Forecast Official.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6.—Forecast till 8 p. m. tomorrow: For Wisconsin: Fair; south to west winds; cooler in extreme northwest portion. For Minnesota: Generally fair; winds shifting to westerly cooler in northwest portion Friday morning, followed by rising temperature.

A Great Poet Gone.
Another melodious voice has been hushed by the icy hand of the grim reaper. The greatest English poet of the present age, the poet laureate of England, lies still in death. Lord Tennyson, rich in honors heaped upon him by an appreciative people and a gracious queen and with head silvered by the many years of his lengthy pilgrimage upon earth, has passed into another world. His death occurred at an early hour this morning at Aldworth, his his beautiful rural home near Haslemere, in the county of Surrey, England. The announcement is not unexpected, because the aged poet had exceeded by more than a decade the allotted limit of man's life and has been in feeble health for some time past.

Tennyson's fame as a poet is secure. The creations of his genius are many, and the epic and dramatic works which bear his name will never die as long as the heroic appeals to the senses and the feelings. Equally strong was he as a lyric composer, and the sweet songs which flowed melodiously from his pen will ever hold a warm abiding place in the hearts of all who are moved by the beautiful in thought and expression. It has been truly said that the melody of Lord Tennyson's verse, the purity and strength of his diction, the profound emotional impulse of the dominant mood in each case, the magnificence and dignity of theme, the absolute sanity and high-mindedness that characterize his view of things, the rich inventiveness in metre and in matters of form generally, and the admirable self-restraint displayed in the exercise of his extraordinary gifts are matters beyond question or cavil. It is probably true that there is an absence of any one work in which those superlative merits associated with the name of Tennyson are sustained through an imposing structure, whether epic or dramatic, but this cannot be regarded as any reproach, because to have preserved throughout a long life the high poetic mood and to have faced in that mood the many themes that most seriously occupy the modern mind is in itself a greater tour de force than the writing of many epics. It is indeed a most remarkable fact that the most successful of Lord Tennyson's poetical works produced on the stage was his last, showing the great virility of the poetical mood which could make itself so powerfully manifest in a physical frame enfeebled by the weight of more than eighty years. This was "The Foresters," an idyllic romance with musical accessories by Sir Arthur Sullivan, dealing with the familiar English story of "Robin Hood." It has been the custom of some American critics to sneer at the aged poet's writings in recent years, and yet there is not one that does not sparkle with lyric sweetness or thrill with dramatic power. His name and work will live in history long after his detractors and critics have mouldered in the dust. Tennyson passed away quietly and painlessly. This was in consonance with his whole life. He took things easily, and never worried or fretted over the small affairs of life. Upon celebrating his eighty-first birthday, he said: "Cast all your cares on God," is Enoch Arden's advice to his wife. I have tried to do so, and by his grace I have lived to be old."

A Deliberate Lie.
The News-Tribune has started out with an evident purpose to disregard the verities. Here is one specimen of its adeptness at falsification:
"Any resident of Duluth who feels an interest in the coming Saturday edition of The Duluth Herald can secure about 33 per cent of its news matter in advance by subscribing for copies of almost any country weekly published in Minnesota."

The above is an unequivocal lie. It is a bold faced, deliberate lie, a premeditated lie conceived in jealousy of The Herald's superiority as a newspaper and published in a vain effort to deceive the people of Duluth, who want the news when it is news, and for that reason prefer The Herald to its would-be morning rival. The Herald's columns are always filled with the latest news, presented on the day on which it occurs, and the News regularly prints the same news twelve to fifteen hours later. A comparison of the two papers will establish this fact conclusively.

As for the Saturday Herald, it is the popular paper with both readers and advertisers, and in size and contents it is not approached by the Sunday sheets. If the News-Tribune will cease lying about The Herald and devote its attention to publishing some fresh news, it may hope for a fair measure of success, but not otherwise.

On the second page today will be found another chapter in the charges made against A. C. Parsons, the Populist candidate for congress. Mr. Wesenberg makes a vigorous retort to Mr. Parsons' denial of the charges, and points out that it is Mr. Parsons' duty to his party, if he is falsely accused, to take legal proceedings against his accusers. He also charges Mr. Parsons with trying to get a commission on work performed for the People's party.

Both Michael Doran and P. H. Kelly have been nominated for the legislature by the Ramsey county Democrats, and as the districts in which they are running are generally Democratic, "Mc and Mike" are likely to be elected.

The Winnipeg Free Press made a canvass of the principal citizens of the prairie city and found that a majority favor Cleveland for president. It should not be forgotten, however, that they cannot vote for him.

Reports to the Republican state committee yesterday showed that Nelson and the rest of the state ticket will have a plurality of from 18,000 to 30,000, with the probability that it will reach the latter figures.

AMUSEMENTS.

Julia Marlowe.
Julia Marlowe opens her engagement at the Temple this evening in Shakespeare's great play "Cymbeline." Miss Marlowe is attracting more attention today than any young actress on the stage. It is written of her by numerous critics that in her delivery Miss Julia Marlowe courageously defies stage-tradition and takes an unusual departure. She does not declaim blank verse, as has been customary, but divides her words by sense and punctuation, as in prose. In justification of this course she quotes Hamlet's advice to the players, which she holds as the highest authority: "Speak the speech, I pray you, as I pronounced it to you, tripping on the tongue." The purpose of acting is, she justly claims, "to hold as 'twere the mirror up to nature."

The sale of seats for Miss Marlowe's engagement opened yesterday morning and was one of the most remarkable advance sales ever known in Duluth. Within three hours over $1000 had been taken in and the board looked as though a cyclone had gone through it.

of the baby breaking your watch may not result in any damage to your time-piece and loss to your pocket, but there are risks and risks. Some risks you can run without much danger; others you cannot. Missing an early inspection of our stock of Domestic and Imported Novelties is one of the chances you can't run without incurring a loss. In this case two things are certain: This stock is superior to anything we ever offered before, and it is most assuredly superior to anything else now shown in this city. ## LORD TENNYSON DEAD

The Great Poet and Successor of Wordsworth as Laureate of England is no More.

He Passed Away Quietly This Morning at His Beautiful Home Near Haslemere in Surrey.

Epic and Dramatic Works and Many Lyric Poems Were the Creations of His Genius.

LONDON, Oct. 6.—Lord Tennyson died at 1:35 this morning. His passing away was calm and peaceful. Sir Andrew Clarke, who attended him in his last hours, said in an interview, just after leaving the death chamber, that Lord Tennyson's end was beautiful. "In all my experience," said the eminent physician, "I never witnessed anything more glorious. There were no artificial lights in the chamber. All was darkness, except for the silver light of the full moon which fell upon the bed and played across the features of the dying poet like the halo in one of Rembrandt's pictures. Soon after the poet's sky, which had been clear, became clouded and the light of the moon was obscured. Shortly afterward rain fell heavily and the scene contrasted strongly with that which had illumined the parting hours of the great poet."

Sir Andrew Clarke, who had not left his patient's bedside for twenty-four hours previous, returned to London immediately after Lord Tennyson's death. The last words spoken by Lord Tennyson were: "I am going home." He addressed to his wife about an hour before his death. Throughout his illness he showed grateful appreciation of every kindness and attention showed to him. He frequently thanked the doctors and nurses, as well as the members of the household who ministered to his wants.

When the queen's telegrams of inquiry as to his condition were received Hallam Tennyson read them to his father, who listened with evident pleasure. About 10:30 last evening the dying man swallowed with apparent difficulty some brandy and milk given to him by the physicians. This was the last nourishment he was able to receive. Thereafter he gradually grew weaker, until the heart ceased to beat.

Hallam Tennyson, the poet's son, said: "The end was beautiful, calm and painless. He passed away as if in sleep. The watchers could hardly distinguish the final moment. Twice during the night the dying man smiled upon those around his bedside, indicating that he was conscious and recognized them, but he was too feeble to speak. Lady Tennyson bears her affliction with fortitude, and nearly prostrated by grief and fatigue."

HIS NAME IMMORTAL.

Comments of the London Press on the Laureate's Death.

LONDON, Oct. 6.—The St. James Gazette says that Tennyson embodied all that is best in the Victorian age. Some might have touched deeper, but none knocked at so many hearts.

The Pall Mall Gazette says that the civilized world considered Tennyson's name immortal long before he died. The Pall Mall Gazette says that the next poet laureate will be Swinburne. Such an appointment, despite Gladstone's prejudice against him, would be a fine instance of a great man's magnanimity.

The Evening News and Post regards Tennyson as the Mendelssohn of poets. The Globe says that the verdict of posterity will always be that Tennyson was the greatest singer of the Victorian age.

Life of the Poet Laureate.

Alfred Tennyson, baron, D.C.L., F.R.S., poet laureate of England, third son of the Rev. George Clayton Tennyson, L.L.D., first saw the light of the world at Somersby, his father's parsonage, near Homcastle in Lincolnshire, England, August 6, 1809. Dr. Tennyson, whose father was George Tennyson, of Bayton Manor, a lawyer of wealth, was descended from the Plantagenets through the Norman family of D'Eyncourt. He was rector of Somersby and Enderby and vicar of Great Grimsby, and his wife was the daughter of the vicar of Louth. Aristocracy and orthodoxy were therefore well represented in the influences which molded the early life of the future laureate. Alfred's fine physique, scholarly tastes and high character he inherited from his father, while his imagination, that greatest stock in trade of a poet, he derived from his mother.

His first work of which the merit was publicly acknowledged was his "Timbuctoo," for which he received the chancellor's medal at Cambridge in 1829, one of the unsuccessful competitors being Arthur Hallam, the author of "In Memoriam."

The poet was flatteringly noticed by the Athenaeum. In 1830, he published his first volume of poems which has endured to this day. The volume contained, among others, "The Dying Swan," "Orion," "The Owl" and "The Sea Fairies." Leigh Hunt gave the volume an extended review, which was regarded in the light of a high compliment at the time. In 1832 a second volume was published, which contained one poem that is more popular today than it was then, "A Dream of Fair Women."

From that time on, his productions were constant. "Locksley Hall" appeared in 1842; "The Princess," one of the most profound of his works, in 1847, followed in 1860 by "Enoch Arden." "The Idylls of the King" were commenced in 1859 and were not completed until 1872. These poems are considered by very many competent critics to be the poet's masterpiece. "Locksley Hall Sixty Years After," which came out in 1886, has been considered by some the least important of any of the notable works from his mature hand.

As a dramatist, his success was not very great, although several of his works met with considerable favor. In thought, in sentiment, and in telling situation, they were meritorious, and contain some of his best work, but as in the case of many other writers, his works were not, as a rule, adopted for the stage. The last and most successful of his dramas was "The Foresters," founded on the story of Robin Hood. Its poetic ensemble was its successful feature and not the impersonation by the company, although it was the hit of Daly's last season in New York. Miss Ada Rehan made an ideal "Maid Marian," and Mr. Drew as "Robin Hood" was true to the poet's idea of the character.

In 1845 the state recognized his ability and the place which he occupied in the world of letters by granting him a pension, and in 1850 he was appointed laureate, with its quaint salary of £200 and a cask of Madeira a year. In 1855 he was made a D. C. L. by the university of Oxford, a dignity that is highly prized, and ten years later he was made a fellow of the Royal Society. Between that time and 1870 he was twice offered a baronetcy, which he declined, but in 1880 he was raised to the peerage by the title of Baron Tennyson of Aldworth and Farringford.

TESTIMONY IS ALL IN.

Last of the Evidence in Houck's Case Taken This Morning and the Arguments Commenced.

County Attorney Tear Makes a Short Statement and Attorney Phelps Follows in Houck's Interest.

Attorney General Clapp Speaking, Closes for the State This Afternoon—Bill Erwin Will Follow.

At the afternoon session of the Houck murder trial yesterday the defense continued the case and its side by putting on the witness stand Phalen, the traveling drug salesman who was present at the time of the affair, and who had previously during the trial been on the stand as a witness for the prosecution. The only point in his testimony not brought in his previous examination was a narration of circumstances that caused him to believe that Haggerty was in the saloon the evening before, at the time Murphy was hit with the beer mug. He was the only witness who testified to anything like that.

Judge Heimbaugh, municipal judge of the village of West Duluth, testified to taking an ante-mortem statement from Murphy, in which he asserted he went into the saloon to do up Houck. There was some parleying about the admission of the document, but finally it was admitted without protest and read.

Dr. Forbes testified that Murphy before he died said: "Doc, it is all my fault. I went in there to do him up."

The next witness called was Mrs. Mary Kaminske, the promised wife of the defendant. She is a little woman, appears to good advantage and was more or less affected by the occasion. She told how Houck got into the hotel and her room. She said that she wanted to give herself up but that she would not let him as the people were so angry she thought they would lynch him.

There was a slight rustle of expectancy and then perfect silence as the name of Frank Houck was called for the next witness. The defendant took his seat with creditable calmness and delivered his testimony in a fairly clear but somewhat rapid tone of voice. He was on the stand about two hours and his testimony was not shaken by the cross examination of the prosecution.

After his testimony the court adjourned until tomorrow.

THE TESTIMONY ALL IN.

Brief Arguments are Made by Attorneys Tear and Phelps.

The first thing in the trial this morning was a statement from Attorney Phelps concerning the revolver exhibited yesterday as the one with which the killing was done. Mr. Phelps stated to the jury that the revolver was in the same condition as when it came into his hands at which time he noticed that when the trigger was pulled it would not properly snap. Taking it to a gunsmith, he was informed that the spring was broken.

Richard Coggin being recalled testified that following the murder there was much excitement and numerous threats of lynching and that had Houck been found, he considered it not unlikely that lynching would have been the result.

The defense then rested its case. The prosecution called Frank Cullom as the next witness. He testified that he lived at West Duluth, lived with his mother, and that Haggerty had boarded with the family for three or four years. He further stated that he was with Haggerty nearly all the day prior to the shooting and that Haggerty retired to his room at about 9 o'clock in the evening. This testimony was given as a rebuttal to the statement made yesterday by Phalen that Haggerty was in the room Monday evening. On cross-examination the witness stated that Haggerty was engaged to be married and was practically forced to admit that he had made threats that he would kill Houck.

Attorney General Clapp then arose and said that the prosecution had written out some instructions for the jury which he wished to submit to the judge and then argue. The defense not only objected but stated through Erwin that their side had no argument to make on instructions. Judge Stearns refused to accept Mr. Clapp's document, Erwin submitted to the judge to remind him, rather than to instruct as was said, a wording of instructions on the matter of self defense taken from different cases, the phraseology differing more or less in each case, but bearing on the same proposition.

County Attorney Tear opened the arguments for the prosecution making only a few remarks principally upon the unpleasantness of sitting on a jury. He promised that Attorney General Clapp would do the brilliant and heavy work in the argumentative line.

To occupy the time until dinner so that none of the big arguments would need to be prematurely uncocked, Attorney Phelps made a general argument for the defense. An allusion he made to the county attorney was met with clapping of hands by the audience. One of the applauders was detected in the act by Judge Stearns, called upon and fined $5. At the close of Mr. Phelps' remarks, adjournment was taken until 2:30 p. m.

Attorney General Clapp will next make the leading argument for the prosecution and Bill Erwin will close with the great final argument for the defense. Arguments can hardly close today; still it is possible.

Introducing Physical Culture.

Mrs. A. Robin Blair, of Minneapolis, has been in the city for a day or two endeavoring to have introduced in the city schools Mrs. Louise Preece's system of physical culture. It is in use in the Winona normal school and is highly recommended by President Shepard; also in the state university and the Minneapolis public schools, as well as a number of Southern cities. Emily Bishop, of the Chautauqua institute, also endorses it. Mrs. Preece is now in New York city instructing the teachers in the system. It could not be introduced in Duluth because another system is already in use, and Mrs. Blair will endeavor to have it used in Superior. If she does she will form society classes in both cities as well.

SAYS IT IS NOT TRUE.

Chief Horgan Denies a Minneapolis Journal Duluth Story.

The Minneapolis Journal of last evening contained the following in regard to Robert Turner, the bookmaker at the driving park meeting here:

"The Duluth police are lost in admiration at the methods apparently employed sometimes in the police department here. The particular case that excites their interest just now is that of Robert Turner, a bookmaker, who had the program privileges at the recent race meeting in the Zenith city. Turner was to give the advertising proceeds for the privilege of selling the cards, but instead of doing so he collected the claims and fled. It was surmised that he had returned to Minneapolis and a warrant was sent to the police here for his arrest. But Turner had influential friends here to whom the information was tipped off and he was given an opportunity to return to Duluth and square up. This he did, but Secretary R. F. Jones is very indignant that he should have been warned of the fact that the warrant was out. He threatens to disqualify Turner from all association tracks on account of the transaction."

Chief Horgan is indignant at the above article. He says that the most friendly relations exist between the Duluth and Minneapolis departments and that the latter has frequently been of great assistance to the department here, never refusing to give aid in any way possible. He says that no warrant was sent to Minneapolis nor was any issued and that there was no intention on Turner's part to defraud any one; that he thought he could apply the amount $35, owing to the association, on a debt which he claims was due him from Secretary Jones. Chief Horgan wrote to Chief Henderson in Minneapolis and asked him if he saw Turner to tell him that the association wanted the money paid. Turner when informed immediately came to Duluth alone and settled the account.

RACES NEXT SATURDAY.

Some Local Horses Will Settle the Question of Supremacy.

R. F. Jones, secretary of the Duluth Driving club, arrived in the city this morning. Mr. Jones came up to assist in the races that are to come off over the new course on Saturday afternoon. A free-for-all trotting race, a 2:35 trotting race, a 2:40 pacing race, and a free-for-all running race for gentlemen's saddle horses will be given. These races are free to all horses and anyone who desires to take part may do so by sending entry to the secretary at the St. Louis hotel today or tomorrow.

Physicians Puzzled.

Many persons are unable to sleep on their left side. The cause has long been a puzzle to physicians. Metropolitan papers speak with great interest of Dr. Franklin Miles, the eminent Indiana specialist in nervous and heart diseases, who has proven that this habit arises from a diseased heart. He has examined and kept on record thousands of cases. His New Heart Cure, a wonderful remedy, is sold at all druggists. Thousands testify to its value as a cure for Heart Diseases. Mrs. Chas. Benoy, Loveland, Colo., says its effects on her were marvelous. Elegant Book on heart disease free.

ALMOST ROASTED ALIVE.

A Six-Year-Old Girl Had Her Clothes Entirely Burned Off at West Duluth.

About 9 o'clock this morning the six-year-old daughter of H. C. Landsverk, a Second-street grocer, was playing about the house, while the rest of the family were away, and in some manner set her clothing afire and rushed into the street. Her screams brought the neighbors to her assistance and they succeeded in extinguishing the fire but not until nearly all the clothing had been burned from the unfortunate girl. Dr. Huntton was at once summoned, but thinks she will not live, as the skin is entirely burnt from her body from the knees to the neck. It is thought that she must have got the matches and set fire to her clothing.

West Duluth Briefs.

Capt. J. R. Randall returned yesterday from the G. A. R. encampment at Washington. He says there were 120,000 old soldiers there, and reports having a grand, good time. The captain was given command of the Second division of the Minnesota G. A. R. boys at Washington.

E. W. McCormick left yesterday afternoon for Washington, D. C., accompanied by his mother, who has been visiting here for the past few weeks. On the 26th inst. Mr. McCormick and Miss Mae Sawyer, of that city, will be united in marriage and will immediately return to West Duluth, where they will reside.

The ladies of the Woman's Christian Temperance union will give a musical and literary entertainment at the tent Friday evening. No admission will be charged and an elaborate program has been prepared.

The Episcopal ladies gave a very enjoyable social at the residence of Mrs. G. A. Reeves last evening. A large crowd of young people were in attendance and were much pleased with their reception.

Died—Mrs. Elizabeth Burnside, aged 74 years, died yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the residence of her son Dr. I. T. Burnside. The funeral occurred this afternoon at 2 o'clock from the house.

S. V. Oberlis, of Buffalo, N. Y., is looking over the city.

Charles Gessler, of Milwaukee, is in the city attending to his property interests.

J. E. Morrison left this afternoon over the Duluth & Winnipeg to join the hunting party at Mud Lake in Northern Minnesota.

There will be a meeting of the Ladies' Relief society at the residence of Mrs. C. R. Keyes, Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

MORTGAGE FORECLOSURE SALE—

Default having been made in the conditions of a certain mortgage executed and delivered on the 2nd day of May, 1891, by Louis Mary Crowley and James Crowley, her husband, to Christian Thorsen, which said mortgage is recorded on page 50, of book 75 of mortgages, in the office of the register of deeds in and for the county of St. Louis and state of Minnesota, on the 23rd day of May, 1891, at 8 o'clock a. m. Said mortgage was given to secure payment of the sum of fifteen hundred dollars ($1,500) with interest thereon at the rate of 8 per cent per annum, payable semi-annually, according to the conditions of a certain promissory note for that amount, dated on the 2nd day of May, 1891, due on the 2nd day of May, 1892, and executed by the said Louis Mary Crowley and James Crowley, her husband, to the said Christian Thorsen, and mortgages and conveys therefor the following described land lying and being in the county of St. Louis and state of Minnesota, to-wit: Lots number three hundred and eighty-six (386) and three hundred and eighty-eight (388), in block number one hundred and fifty-three (153), of the Second division of Duluth, proper, according to the recorded plat thereof. No part of said debt has been paid except the interest on the same up to the date of its maturity, and there is due and owing upon said note to the said Christian Thorsen, at the date of the first publication of this notice, the sum of $1,513.25, and no action or proceeding at law or in equity has been commenced to collect said sum or any portion thereof.

Now, therefore, notice is hereby given that by virtue of a power of sale in said mortgage contained and therewith recorded said mortgage may be foreclosed by sale of the premises thereon conveyed as above described, at public auction, by the sheriff of said county at the front door of the court house in the city of Duluth, in said county, on the 19th day of November, 1892, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, to satisfy the said mortgage, together with the costs of foreclosure, including $5 as attorney fees stipulated in said mortgage to be paid in case of foreclosure.

Dated at Duluth this 5th day of October, 1892. CHRISTIAN THORSEN, Mortgagee.

Office of Board of Public Works,
City of Duluth, Minn., Sept. 23, 1892.

To the President and Common Council of the City of Duluth.

Gentlemen:

Now that the question of our authorizing the Duluth ship canal is before the city, our attorney, also by the name of Davis, Kellogg &amp; Severance, gives the opinion that the city is authorized to build a canal, and that the secretary of war is authorized to give a license for the same.

The legislature in 1880, said "bridge" must be built across the canal, and in a single report drawbridge spanning across the canal, not less than 10 feet in the width of the canal, not less than 10 feet in the length of the bridge, and the full width of the building of a bridge 50 feet long, the condemning of large amount of property, and the building of costly approaches, would cost not less, when completed, than $100,000. Under this permission to draw our committee to your honor's body under date of July 25, 1892, recommending the canal, and would respectfully suggest to your careful consideration on the building of a tunnel instead.

By all the information obtained by us on the subject we believe that to build a tunnel must be built for the sum of $500,000, and when you consider the slight difference in cost between a bridge as authorized and the cost of a tunnel, there can be no doubt in your minds which of the two would be the most advantageous and beneficial to construct. The question of the legality of making an assessment for this into the hands of the city, is specially benefited, for either a bridge or a tunnel, is conceded by eminent counsel, and we need no difficulty to pay for it. Therefore, we would respectfully suggest that two-thirds of the amount be assessed against property specially benefited, and one-third be paid out of the general fund, and we have no doubt that permission can be obtained from the state legislature next winter authorizing the city to issue tunnel bonds for that amount running for a term of years, the same as authorizing the city to issue gas and water bonds out of the amount of five per cent bonds issued on the assessed valuation for general purposes. While property can be found especially benefited to pay the whole amount of the tunnel, nevertheless, we think it is but fair that the general fund should pay part of this improvement, as the benefits will extend over the whole city, and when the tunnel is completed it becomes the property of the whole city and any special benefits derived from said tunnel would accrue to the whole city.

We would further suggest, should you feel favorable to pushing this improvement, that the matter be referred to us in the usual way as described by the city clerk to investigate and report. We would then make a general plan of specification which would entail but little work to our engineering department, and when we advertise for bids would specify that parties desiring to build on the tunnel would have to submit their own plans with a lump sum bid for the tunnel completed. This would give us the advantage of getting the best ideas of tunnel builders in the United States, and no doubt would greatly benefit the city.

All of which is respectfully submitted,

DYNAMITE EXPLOSION.

An Attempt Made to Blow Up a Boarding House at Homestead Early This Morning.

There Were a Number of Non-Union Workers Sleeping in the House But They Escaped.

The Dynamite Was Thrown Through a Broken Window and Badly Wrecked the Dining Room.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Oct. 7.—An attempt was made to blow up a non-union boarding house in Homestead with dynamite this morning. No one was hurt, but the house was badly damaged and the occupants were badly frightened. Mrs. Marron keeps the house. She used to live in this city, but went to Homestead some time ago. All of her boarders were non-union workers in the Homestead mill, and there were thirty-five of them.

The dining room was on the first floor and the sleeping rooms on the second. In the front of the house used as the dining room were large show windows, for the first floor had been built for a store. One of the side windows had been broken for some time, and it was through this that the perpetrator of the deed worked.

It was 2 o'clock this morning when the cartridge was thrown through the window into the dining room. It struck the floor and a terrific explosion followed. All the windows were broken and a large hole torn in the floor, through which many things were hurled into the cellar below. The beds on the second floor were thrown six feet up in the air and the occupants tumbled to the floor.

No one was hurt, but the most intense excitement followed. The boarding house, known as the Mansion house, was soon surrounded by officers and the military was called out. In the excitement and darkness the perpetrator escaped.

The strike leaders claim that the deed was performed by others than strikers. They say that it has been done with the purpose of keeping the soldiers here, and also to again change public opinion favorable to the Carnegie firm.

ESCORTED TO THE GRAVE.

Imposing Funeral of Ernest Renan in Paris This Morning.

PARIS, Oct. 7.—The funeral of Ernest Renan today was of an imposing character. The ceremonies began at the College of France in the presence of a distinguished assemblage. The Republican guard band was drawn up in the court yard and at 10 o'clock it played the funeral march.

After eulogistic addresses had been delivered by M. Bourgeois, minister of instruction, and other prominent men, the coffin was placed in the hearse. The casket was completely hidden from sight by flowers and wreaths. At 11:15 o'clock the procession, headed by a detachment of lancers, started for Montmartre.

The cortege was a mile in length and included people in all walks of life, prominent among them being numerous Radical deputies and senators, journalists and literary and professional celebrities. M. Floquet, president of the chamber of deputies, and M. Le Royer, president of the senate, were present, also Gen. Gallifet and Admiral Gervais. President Carnot was represented by Gen. Boriens. The streets were lined with crowds.

ON TENNYSON'S DEATH.

A Poetical Tribute to His Memory by Sir Edwin Arnold.

LONDON, Oct. 7.—The papers this morning publish a number of obituary poems on the death of Tennyson. Among them are poems by Sir Edwin Arnold, Lewis Morris and Alfred Austin. The following is by Sir Edwin Arnold:

No meaning of the bar; sail forth, strong ship,
Into that gloom which has God's face for a far light.
Not a dirge, but a proud farewell from each
And praise abounding praise, and fame's faint stairlight.

Lamping thy tuneful soul to that large noon Where thou shalt quire with angels. Words of woe
Are for the unfilled, not thee, whose moon
Of genius sinks full-orbed, glorious, aglow.

No meaning of the bar, musical drifting
On time's waves, turning to the eternal sea;
Death's soft wind all thy gallant canvases lifting
And Christ thy pilot to the peace to be.

Tennyson's Funeral.
LONDON, Oct. 7.—Lord Tennyson's funeral will take place Wednesday next. The body will be interred in Westminster abbey. The grave will adjoin that of Browning.

Tennyson will be buried in an oak coffin with an elm shell. The coffin is ornamented very simply with gilt and bears a plate inscribed: "Alfred Tennyson. Born Aug. 6, 1809; died Oct. 6, 1892."

A Schooner Aground.
SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich., Oct. 7.—(Special to the Herald.)—The schooner Ben Brink, in tow of the steamer Shrigley, grounded on the flats this morning. The tug Merrick has gone to her assistance.

CONDENSED DISPATCHES.
The well known yacht builder James B. Voise died yesterday at Astbury Park, N. J.

Prof. Pickering, of the Harvard branch observatory at Arequipa says that he has discovered forty small lakes in Mars.

A decisive battle has been fought in Dahomey, among them twenty Americans, close to the French lines. The French lost eight killed and thirty-three wounded.

Mrs. Harrison's condition this morning was about the same. She passed a restless night. The Venezuelan government forces has captured Macuto, the watering place near Guayana. During the bombardment United States Consul Hanna was fired at from the government ships.

William Thomas and Joseph Stewart, miners employed at St. George's, Dixon City, Pa., were fatally injured last evening by being thrown from one of the cars operated from the shaft to the opening of the mine.

Maggie Keating, a domestic, was found dead in Providence, R. I., this morning. On the floor of the same room were found the bodies of Donovan and Julia Leahan, unconscious. The room was full of gas that was pouring out of the burner in the room.

John Williams and Mildred Brown, aged 13, both colored, were hanged at Spartansburg, S. C., for murder at 11:45 this morning.

William Wilson was hanged at Anderson, S. C., this morning for murdering his wife. His neck was broken and he was pronounced dead in twenty-three minutes.

King Has Returned.
The agents of the steamer Cambria have made no effort yet to straighten up the matter of the tickets which they sold to parties for passage on the steamer Cambria. There seems to be no loop-hole for escape from some legal trouble for the agents and the delayed passengers now purpose to make it hot for the boat's people. Agent King is back from Chicago, but had made no move toward returning the money up to noon today.

GOT A LIFE SENTENCE.

Pleas McCoy, One of the Pike County, Kentucky, Desperadoes, Was Found Guilty of Murder.

For a Gun and a Pistol He Agreed to Kill His Cousin and Did Shoot Him.

Has Been Sentenced to Prison for His Natural Life, Although He is Now Only Seventeen.

BRISTOL, Tenn., Oct. 7.—Pike county, Kentucky, called the mother of crime and criminals, the Hatfields and McCoy's being conspicuous in the latter class, has just convicted Pleas McCoy, one of the notorious McCoy tribe, for the brutal murder of Bird McCoy, his cousin. The term of his sentence is for his natural life and he is now only 17.

William Dyer, a half brother of Pleas McCoy, was under indictment some time ago for various crimes. Bird McCoy, an officer of the law, had warrants for his arrest. Dyer planned to get him out of the way. Too cowardly himself, he employed Pleas to do so and was to pay him for it by giving him a gun and pistol.

While Bird was returning from church one Sunday, Pleas stole near him and began firing into his back. Bird fell with a dozen bullets in his body. He managed to drag himself to a fence corner, where he lay down. While he was gasping for breath the murderer approached with cocked Winchester. The dying man begged piteously for mercy, but Pleas fired a dozen or more bullets into his head.

For more than twenty years the Hatfield-McCoy feud in that county has been kept up. Bird McCoy's brother was murdered by Capt. Hatfield who was reported dead some weeks ago.

A CANDIDATE'S SUICIDE.
A Prominent South Dakota Man Shoots Himself.

BLUNT, S. D., Oct. 7.—A. W. Johnson, one of the most prominent men of this city and the Republican nominee for register of deeds of Hughes county, disappeared from his home Monday morning and his absence was accounted for by the fact of his canvassing the county, but his body was found yesterday two miles from the city in a ravine, with a pistol by his side. It is supposed to be a case of suicide, with despondency as the cause.

THE DEED OF A MANIAC.
A Mad Woman Poured Oil On Her Husband and Ignited It.

COATESVILLE, Ind., Oct. 7.—This little town was thrown into great excitement Wednesday by a crime committed by a mad woman. Mrs. William Sharp poured coal oil on her husband while he was sleeping, and then applied a match, burning him to death.

Sharp endeavored to extricate himself, but the woman opposed his efforts and was herself severely burned and will probably die. Mr. Sharp lived only a short time. Both were about 50 years old.

Support Krech.
ATKIN, Minn., Oct. 7.—At the Republican county convention yesterday resolutions were adopted calling on all Republicans and citizens of this county to support Freeman E. Krech, the Democratic nominee for the legislature.

Released on Bail.
LONDON, Oct. 7.—Charles Mitchell, the pugilist, was today convicted on the charge of assaulting an old man, named Savage, and was sentenced to two months' imprisonment at hard labor. He took an appeal and was admitted to bail.

An Angel Now.
MEMPHIS, Tenn., Oct. 7.—Jack Thorne, an escaped convict from the Arkansas state penitentiary and formerly known as the "Swamp Angel," was shot and killed by officers who were searching for him at Earle Wednesday.

THE COMMITTEE NAMED.
Democratic County Committee Appointed by Chairman Bowen.

Hon. Thomas E. Bowen, who was chairman of the last Democratic county convention, has appointed the following county committee, in accordance with the convention's instructions: At large, John G. Brown, F. L. Ryan, T. M. Helinski, Simon Clark, J. J. Crowley, James Hart, F. H. Frisbee, Morris Thomas; Duluth, First ward, Nicholas Christopher; Second ward, A. J. Taylor; Third ward, A. S. Wilson; Fourth ward, Robert Loudon; Fifth ward, D. Sang, Sr.; Sixth ward, Stanislaus Kocinski; West Duluth, P. O. Noben, C. C. Grosche; Lakeside, Frank Crassweller; Tower, C. McNamara; Ely, Ed Brown; Merritt, P. H. McGarry.

DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION.
Morris Thomas and A. S. Wilson May be the Legislative Nominees.

The Democratic legislative and judicial conventions will be held tomorrow. It is pretty generally agreed that Morris Thomas will be named as one of the candidates for the legislature. John Jenswold, Jr., one of the Populist nominees, will probably be endorsed, but who will be the third candidate appears to be an open question. The name of Alderman A. S. Wilson is being favorably mentioned today, and it will not be surprising if he is named as the third candidate. If he will accept there is little doubt that he will be given the nomination.

POETS SANG OF THEM.

Three Houses, Two Located in Massachusetts and One in England, Rendered Famous by Verse.

Longfellow's "Wayside Inn," the Residence of Floyd Ireson and the Birthplace of Tennyson.

The Manor Somersby in One of the Most Beautiful Sections of the Lincolnshire Region.

There is more or less of romance about every house that has been the home or refuge of man. The residence and the inn—each has witnessed scenes of joy and woe or episodes of tranquil happiness and grief sustained with heroic philosophy.

In greater or less degree these conditions apply as well to the hut of the savage as to the palace of the prince; to the crossroads tavern as to a gorgeous hotel in a big city. But once in awhile a poet or a writer chances along, and his association with the place or what he says regarding it gives it a fame and vogue it otherwise would not have known.

There, for example, is the famous old Red Horse tavern, of Sudbury, Mass. It used to be a great resort in the old days of stages, but today, remarks a recent visitor, it is left to that solitude which is almost the only possession of the revolutionary and pre-revolutionary hostleries. The mail coach no longer dashes up to its door to deposit its load; its hearth is crowded no more by the feet of hurried travelers; even the railroad has respected its solitude and left it far behind. Its charm remains unbroken, however, and it is a fitting symbol of the memories which cluster in its ample rooms, memories which seem realities as one reads his Longfellow and feels a sympathetic thrill at the immortal "Tales of a Wayside Inn."

It is now the residence of a farmer and can be reached from Boston, twenty miles away, by the old turnpike road which goes to Worcester, out through Cambridge, Newton, Waltham, Concord, to the western part of Sudbury. It stands, says the visitor already referred to, on the north side of the broad turnpike road, just at the foot of a small mountain (almost small enough to be called a hill), and fronts squarely to the south. The barn is just opposite, nestled among four or five oak trees, and for over three-quarters of a mile there is not another house in sight. While the exterior of this tavern is attractive—the large rectangular main building, two stories, with a huge attic, square, massive chimneys and an L to the right, barely joined to the main structure—it is the interior of the tavern which has the greatest charm for the visitor, both because of its intrinsic antiquity and the memories which cluster about particular rooms.

The principal entrance to the inn is by a huge oaken door in the front of the house. As the big panel swings on its creaking hinges, one can see the fluted Greek pillars of wood on the sides, and once inside those lines of Longfellow, even more appropriate now that they were fifty years ago, flash into one's mind.

A kind of old bogobolin hall. Now somewhat fallen to decay. With weather stains upon the wall, And stairways worn and creaky floors, And creaking and uneven doors, And chimneys huge and tiled and tall.

A farmer's wife welcomes the occasional caller who makes a sentimental pilgrimage to the spot and exacts the small fee of ten cents. She is an intelligent woman, thoroughly familiar with the poetry and romance of her habitation, and, as she says, charges for her services that she may be able to contribute a few extra shillings to the support of the local church.

THE MANOR SOMERSBY.

Another spot in which lovers of poetry cannot fail to be interested is the house at Marblehead, Mass., where lived the man given unfortunate immortality by Whittier as—

Old Floyd Ireson, for his hard heart, Tattered and feathered and carried in a cart By the women of Marblehead. According to Helen Reed, the Quaker poet's account is faulty. It was not the women, she declares, but the men who did the tarring and feathering. Ireson was punished, it will be remembered, because he had passed a ship in distress without offering help. The crew of the ship perished, and only the captain survived to tell the story of Ireson's neglect. Ireson bore his punishment without a word save at the end. "I thank you for my ride, gentlemen, but you will live to regret it."

It was afterward proved that Ireson had wanted to go to the sinking ship, but his own crew to a man refused to go in the face of the desperate gale then blowing. But true or not though the story be, the house of Skipper Ireson is a great attraction to sightseers. The incident narrated by Whittier occurred in 1808, and the house itself was probably built somewhat earlier than this. Zealous though the people of Marblehead are to defend the good name of their women, it is true in former times they had a reputation for masculinity and for marked originality of demeanour and speech.

Years ago Tennyson wrote of his birthplace: Here thy boyhood sung Long since its media song, and heard The low love language of the bird In native hazel's tassel hung.

Somersby is the name of the estate, and it is in one of the most beautiful sections of the Lincolnshire region. In that pretty "pastoral district of softly sloping hills and large ash trees" Tennyson was born in 1809, and throughout his early verse, observes an admirer, we are constantly brought with loving minuteness in contact with some one or other feature of the landscape. Now it is the manor house, portrayed for us as the "Moated Grange," now the church where his father officiated, and now the rectory, and—

The woods that belt the gray hillside, The seven elms, the poplars four That stand beside my father's door.

* * * The brook that flows To purr o'er matted reeds and ribbed sand, Or duple in the dark of rusky coves.

Considerable interest then was naturally excited in literary circles by the announcement that the Somersby estate was for sale. In the catalogue the "Moated Grange" was described as a "comfortable gentleman's residence, pleasantly placed in charming pleasure grounds, sheltered by magnificent forest trees, and overlooking beautiful shrubberies, lovely lawns and gardens, verdant meadows sloping to the winding trout stream, the River Lymn, and the pretty pastoral country in the distance," while the rectory was made the subject of a burst of fine sentiment on the part of the vendors.

All in vain, however. The property was put up at £25,000, when it advanced by many bids of £500 and one of £1,000 to £26,500, where it stopped, although the auctioneer declared that some years ago he would have got people to bid £100,000 for the property. The owner refused to part with it for the highest bid offered, and the estate was withdrawn. The reserve price, so the report ran in the mart, was £40,000.

F. X. WHITE.

THE STORY TOLD IN METAL.

A Connecticut Man's Remarkable Memorial of the War.

Mr. A. E. Brooks, of Hartford, has been collecting relics of the civil war ever since it closed, and has now combined 3,000 bullets, shells and fragments of shells, bayonets, broken guns and the like into a monument which certainly has no parallel. Singularly enough, he has succeeded in making it at once beautiful and terribly suggestive. It is five and a half feet high, the inner frame being of lumber, on which the relics are fastened in such a way as to completely conceal it and make the monument look like a solid mass of relics.

There are 1,833 bullets collected from the principal battlefields, and 124 Union and Confederate buttons. There are also revolvers, epaulets, belt plates worn by men and officers, bayonets, canteens, bowie knives used by the Louisiana rangers, exploded shells from different fields, cavalry equipment, spurs and buckles, incorporated in the design with great skill and intelligence. Every bullet, every broken remnant of shot and shell, every belt plate and epaulet could tell of inspiring scenes and events. The story of the war is told in metal. The great armies of the north and south occupy opposite sides. The national government is represented in the letters U. S., the combination being made from rifle balls from Petersburg. The Confederacy, on the other hand, is represented in the letters C. S., which are composed of bullets from the southern lines. The battle selected is not on southern soil, but in the state of Pennsylvania. Gettysburg has been chosen because that represented the high tide of the Confederacy.

The centerpiece on the Federal side is a revolver which exploded in the hands of a soldier named Williams; on the Confederate side it is a Confederate canteen pierced by four bullets. The Union canteen on the other side was found near the McPherson monument at Atlanta. On one side are crossed bayonets, while the opposite is signalized by bowie knives that were carried in the belts of the Louisiana tigers. The Confederate belt plates cannot be duplicated easily. They represent the styles worn by officers and men. A couple of these belt plates are of peculiar significance, telling of blockade runners that were intercepted and deeds of daring that were wasted. Both are of British origin, one bearing the coat of arms of Great Britain and the other the head of the British lion. Both were captured before the blockade runner had penetrated the Union naval lines. The monument is surmounted by a 32-pounder shot. Such are but the most salient features of a production too unique for description.

AUTUMN IN THE COUNTRY.

When the leaves of autumn die, And the song birds southward fly; Touches all with fingers gold; Touches and it turns to gold; When is lost All the summer that we love, And the sky grows gray above; When the breeze from over hill Brings an undefined chill, Like a fear; When the grass grows whithered, brown, And the autumn storm clouds frown; Passes from its middle prime To the weaker after time; When the goldenrod succeeds To the lily's throne, and weeds 'Gin to grow Where the flowers were before; When the orchard's ripened store With its show Of red and gold, falls to earth— Then, though laughing harvests bring Time to dance and time to sing And delight, Still a sorrow seems to fall Over field and hill and hall, For the boarders were away In the night and didn't pay. —Detroit Tribune.

Wonderful Railroad.

When the railroad between Moscow and St. Petersburg was opened it inspired great terror in the breasts of the superstitious peasantry, who thought there must be some witchcraft in an invention which could make a train of heavy cars run along without horses at the rate of twenty miles an hour. Some of them would not go in sight of a train. Others took timid peeps at the smoke breathing creature, which they believed to be alive and ready to devour whatever came in its way. When the whistle sounded they said, "The monster is hungry; he's screaming for somebody to eat!"

By degrees, however, their terror wore away, and following the example of the village priests the peasants began to try the "smoke wagons," though with fear and trembling. The superstition had gone, but the mystery still remained. One day an old man who had never been away from his own village determined to take a look at "Mother Moscow," which is regarded by all the Russian peasantry as the most wonderful city in the world.

The down express and the up express met at Bologoye—half way between St. Petersburg and Moscow—and the passengers of both trains were allowed half an hour for supper. Among the people who alighted from the other train the old peasant recognized a friend whom he had not seen for a long time.

They had a delightful chat together over their tea in the restaurant, and then without any thought of what he was doing the old peasant boarded his friend's train instead of his own.

The talk was very merry for some time, but at last the old man became grave and silent, and appeared to be puzzling deeply over something. At last he broke out:

"Ah, Ivan, what a wonderful thing are these railroads! Here we sit in the same car, I going to Moscow and you to St. Petersburg!"—Youth's Companion.

Weather Wisdom.

The observatory at Paris was conducted on a somewhat old fashioned plan under its late director, Admiral Mouchez, whose death was recently recorded. Although a courteous man, the admiral has no patience with modern newspapers, which kept reporters almost constantly running to him to "interview" him on various astronomical and meteorological questions.

Not long ago a reporter came to him and asked, "How do you account for the present season being so wet?"

"I know nothing of meteorology," answered the director of the observatory blandly, "but might I venture to suggest that perhaps it is because we have had so much rain?"

The reporter looked aghast, but went on quickly with his next question. "Can you give us an idea what the weather will be tomorrow?"

"Pardon me," answered the admiral, "but the fact is I am very busy today. If you'll run in tomorrow, very likely I can tell you."—Exchange.

YOUNG MEN Who may be suffering from the effects of youthful follies or indiscretion will do well to avail themselves of this chance. DR. SPEER & CO., will guarantee a perfect cure in all cases of weakness or private diseases of any kind or character they undertake or forfeit $250.

They will therefore say to the unfortunate sufferer who may read this notice that you are treading on dangerous grounds when you longer delay in seeking the proper remedies for your complaint. Then for the first time you will realize what negligence means. Our success in such cases can be best understood when we will positively declare that over 100,000 have been treated by us in different parts of the world. Call and get the benefit of our experience.

MIDDLE-AGED MEN There are many of the age of 30 to 50 who are often accompanied by slight smarting sensations and weakening the system in a manner which the patient cannot account for. On examination it will be found that the urine deposits aropy sediment and sometimes small particles of albumen will appear or the color will be a thin milkyish hue, and again changing to a dark and torpid appearance. There are many who die of this difficulty ignorant of the cause which is the second stage of weakness.

LADIES Finding it not convenient to call at the office can be treated by mail by sending a full description of their case. DR. SPEER & CO., will guarantee a perfect cure in all cases. Examination and advice free. Remember the place.

Parties wishing to consult Dr. Speer & Co., at West Superior will have their railroad fare deducted from the price of their treatment.

The Weather.

U. S. WEATHER BUREAU, DULUTH, MINN., Oct. 7.—The storm that was noted yesterday as over the Northwest has moved eastward, increasing in energy, and is now central over upper Michigan. It is causing severe rains on the lower lakes, which will probably increase somewhat today.

The only rain of any consequence that fell yesterday was a light shower at Marquette, but rain is now falling at most points along the lower lakes.

An area of high barometer with low temperature covers the Western part of the country and will advance southeast today. In the Eastern states it is slightly warmer than usual.

The highest temperature here yesterday was 73°, the lowest last night 46°.

DULUTH, Oct. 7.—Generally cloudy followed by clear Sunday; slightly cooler; generally north-easterly winds.

B. H. BRONSON,

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—Forecast till 8 p. m. tomorrow: For Wisconsin: Fair, northerly winds; cooler Saturday morning. For Minnesota: Fair; northerly winds; warmer in northern portion; cooler in southern portion Saturday morning, followed by rising temperature.

The Saturday Herald.

Space and time are too limited today to refer at length or in detail to the many interesting features of tomorrow's issue of The Herald. Despite the envious sneers of the morning paper, that publishes ancient history and calls it news, the people look forward with expectancy to the Saturday edition of The Herald, knowing that in it they will always find the most complete newspaper published at the head of the lakes. The Herald publishes all the news; it gives the news when it is news, and not fifteen or twenty-four hours after it has happened, and this is the secret of its success. In fact it is no secret at all; it is plain to every observer of the daily press in this section.

In tomorrow's issue will be found, in addition to all the latest news, many special articles, several of them illustrated, on subjects of timely interest and import, besides the usual weekly resume of society doings in Duluth, a budget of theatrical and sporting news and a glance at the contents of the latest books and magazines. Not the least interesting part of the paper will be the business men's announcements. They will be more attractive than ever and contain stories of bargains that must delight the fair sex.

Judge Samuel H. Moer.

The Republican judicial convention did a creditable thing yesterday when it nominated Samuel H. Moer for district judge. In declining to listen to the bad advice of those who would have repudiated the bar's choice and made a political football of the judgeship, the delegates acted sensibly, and their action reflects credit and honor upon themselves and party. It is true that no open effort was made in the convention to secure a different result, but it was made privately before that event and only ceased when it was found impossible to sway the delegates from their decision to nominate Mr. Moer.

The Democratic convention tomorrow will undoubtedly endorse Mr. Moer, and the Populists will probably do likewise, so that his election will practically be by acclamation. This is an ideal way of choosing judges, because it effectually keeps the judiciary out of the political mire. Mr. Moer will make an excellent judge, if all that his many warm friends say of him be true. The lawyers recognized his fitness by making him their choice in preference to others who are recognized as the possessors of judicial qualities, and their reason was that he has those qualities in a very eminent degree.

An Important Event.

The running of the first train yesterday over the Duluth, Missabe & Northern Iron mine deserves more than passing notice. It is an important event in the history of this section of the country, because the opening of this road furnishes communication between the head of the lakes and the rich deposits of iron ore on the great Mesaba range. It is the initial step in the railroad facilities that will make possible the rapid development of the valuable properties on the Mesaba, the building up of prosperous mining towns along the range, and the establishment of an extensive iron and steel industry in Duluth and its suburbs. These things are all made possible by the building of this road. They are now ranked among the probabilities—nay, they are inevitable. The course of time will witness their fulfillment. Many years will not pass by ere the mines on the Mesaba will be turning out yearly thousands of tons of rich iron ore, thousands of people will fill the towns that will spring up, and iron and steel manufacturing will be an important industry in this section, represented by scores of establishments devoted to the numerous branches of that great industry. The opening of this railroad, therefore, means much for Duluth. It marks another and important milestone in the city's progress on the path of greatness and prosperity.

Hon. David M. Clough, the Republican candidate for lieutenant governor, is one of the most popular men on the state ticket. He has a host of friends in all parts of Minnesota, and Duluth contains a large number who will see that he gets a large vote in St. Louis county. During his long residence in Minneapolis Mr. Clough has often been called to fill positions of trust, honor and distinction, and during the term he served in the state senate he showed himself to be an able and conscientious legislator.

New York is going to celebrate Columbus day on a grand scale. A five days' festival will begin tomorrow and will close on the night of Oct. 12 with a parade and symmetrical march of groups and floats. This is expected to be the finest parade ever witnessed in America. J. H. Beadle, a well-known writer, contributes a special article on this festival to The Herald today, and it will repay perusal.

The Populists have entirely lost their grip in Georgia and Florida. The Democrats have carried Georgia by 75,000 majority and Florida has elected the Democratic state ticket by 25,000 majority. Tom Watson's district in Georgia, supposed to be a Populist stronghold, went Democratic, and Tom may now well enquire "Where am I at?" The Populists will not carry a single state in November.

Rev. Dr. Forbes is on trial again for sanity, this time before the Methodist conference at Minneapolis. It is to be hoped that this will end the series of outrageous persecution to which the doctor has been subjected. Well may he exclaim, "How long, O Lord, how long?"

In another column will be found an interesting article on the homes of three poets which have been made immortal in verse. It is especially timely, because it contains a sketch and picture of the man Somersby, the birthplace of Tennyson.

Charley Mitchell, the bloviating prize fighter, showed his cowardly nature the other day in London by striking an old man. Today's dispatches bring the gratifying news that he has been sentenced to two months' imprisonment at hard labor. Work may do him good.

The seizure of Mrs. Paron Stevens' horses and carriages for debt must have given the "foo" of New York a terrible shock, because Mrs. Paron Stevens is the most vulgar in display and the shoddiest in style of the whole outfit.

AMUSEMENTS.

Julia Marlowe's Imogen.

Julia Marlowe is the ideal Imogen, so gentle, despairing, and sweet that she wins every particle of sympathy in her audience. It is in the last two acts that her greatest ability which is, in fact, her wonderful naturalness, is best seen. A noted dramatic critic has well said "She manifests her right to the title of great. Her Imogen is the greatest Imogen. So certain as she lives so certainly will she entirely place her Imogen in the storied chamber where scholarship, taste and intellectual reverence keep their treasures classical." "Cymbeline" is one of the finest of Shakespeare's works, but it is a play rather to be read than staged. Its lines are beautiful and charm the intellectual mind, but there is not quite enough plot and action to interest other than the student.

In Robert Taber Miss Marlowe has a leading man who gives her excellent support. It is true that he is a trifle staid, especially in the stride which he affects, but he has a finely modulated and pleasing voice and reads his lines well. J. M. Francoeur as Iachimo, H. A. Weaver, Sr., as Bellarius were very good, and Thomas L. Coleman as Pisanio took his part especially well. Giles Shine gave an excellent interpretation of the character of Cloten.

The audience was one of the largest and most brilliant ever gathered in the Temple. Box parties were numerous and some striking costumes were seen. Tonight Miss Marlowe produces Sheridan Knowles' great drama, "The Hunchback."

ELIZA TOMLIN'S SAD FATE.

Story of Her Death as Told by Her Father.

Thomas G. Tomlin, of Janesville, Minn., the father of Eliza Tomlin, who disappeared from Duluth a short time ago and was found dead on Monday in the mill dam at Jordan, has written a letter to Chief of Police Henderson, of Minneapolis, in regard to the matter.

He was notified on Monday while at Janesville to come to Jordan. He did so and found the body of his beloved daughter at the city hall. The drowning appears to have been purely accidental.

According to Mr. Tomlin's letter Eliza arrived in Minneapolis Sunday morning and remained until the evening train for Jordan. She spent the night at the Merchants hotel and a portion of the next day in looking for a situation. When last seen she was sitting on the gravelly beach which slopes toward the mill pond. It is surmised that she stooped over the water to bathe her forehead, and being seized by one of her dizzy spells, fell in and was drowned. An autopsy was held on the body, but no traces of poison were found anywhere. The doctor's certificate, however, states that the girl was in a state of mental aberration.

RUNNING CHANCES

Of the baby breaking your watch may not result in any damage to your timepiece and loss to your pocket, but there are risks and risks. Some risks you can run without much danger; others you cannot. Missing an early inspection of our stock of Domestic and Imported Novelties is one of the chances you can't run without incurring a loss. In this case two things are certain: This stock is superior to anything we ever offered before, and it is most assuredly superior to anything else now shown in this city. It is sometimes a loss of money not to spend it and it is certainly losing money to miss securing some of these specialties.

NOTICE OF MORTGAGE SALE.

Whereas a certain mortgage duly executed and delivered by Hestey E. Eaton (a widow), mortgagor, to William E. Lucas (mortgagee), bearing date the 1st day of June, A. D. 1891, in book of mortgages on page 25, which said mortgage was thereafter duly assigned by said William E. Lucas, mortgagee, to Quincy E. Cushing, by an instrument of assignment dated July 31, 1891, and duly recorded in the office of the register of deeds in and for St. Louis county, Minnesota, on the 31st day of July, 1891, at one o'clock and fifty minutes p. m., in book 74 of mortgages, on page 433; and, whereas, said mortgage, and the principal note thereby secured, contain a provision that if default is made in the payment of the interest due upon said principal note secured by said mortgage, or in the payment of the coupon note given for the same, thereto attached, on the day when the same is made payable, and such default shall continue for the space of ten days thereafter, the principal sum secured by said note and mortgage, with all accrued interest thereon, shall immediately become due and payable at the option of the mortgagee or his assignee;

And, whereas, said mortgage, and the principal note thereby secured, contain a provision that if default is made in the payment of the interest due upon said principal note secured by said mortgage, or in the payment of the coupon note given for the same, thereto attached, on the day when the same is made payable, and such default shall continue for the space of ten days thereafter, the principal sum secured by said note and mortgage, with all accrued interest thereon, shall immediately become due and payable at the option of the mortgagee or his assignee;

And, whereas, there is therefore now claimed to be due, and is actually due, upon said mortgage debt, at the date of this notice, the sum of two thousand six hundred seventy-three ($2673) dollars principal and interest, and seventy-five dollars attorney's fees stipulated for in said mortgage in case of foreclosure thereof;

Now, therefore, notice is hereby given, that by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, which has become operative by reason of the default above mentioned, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by sale of the premises described in and covered by said mortgage, viz: All that tract or parcel of land lying and being in the county of St. Louis, state of Minnesota, described as follows, to-wit: All of lot numbered fifty-seven (57), on West Second street, in Duluth Proper, First division, according to the recorded plat thereof on file in the office of the register of deeds in and for the said St. Louis county; which said premises, with the hereditaments and appurtenances, will be sold at public auction, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes (if any) on said premises, situated in and by said mortgage in case of default, and the disbursements allowed by law, by the sheriff of said St. Louis county, at the front door of the court house, in the city of Duluth, in said county and state, on the 23rd day of November, A. D. 1892, at 10 o'clock a. m., of said day, subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

HAS GONE TO THE JURY

Judge Stearns Delivers a Lengthy Charge or Rather an Informal Talk in the Houck Case.

He Explains the Law and Gives Some Clear Advice as to the Consideration of Evidence.

Closing Arguments Yesterday of Attorney General Clapp for the State and Erwin for the Defense.

The closing arguments of both the defense and prosecution were concluded in the Houck murder trial yesterday afternoon by 5 o'clock. The crowd of listeners was simply astonishing. Every seat was occupied long before the afternoon session of court was called. Then the aisles and sides of the room were taken up. Men hung onto projections from the walls, climbed onto the window sills, sat on any chance nook or empty floor space. They almost climbed onto the shoulders and so densely were they packed that once in place it was almost impossible to turn around and wholly impossible to get out. Back of the jury box and the reporters' desk were chairs and benches given over to the ladies, of whom there were not a few. During the two and one half hours occupied by the closing arguments, the atmosphere of the room was hot and stifling, yet all stayed on and more would have attempted to squeeze in had not the sheriff ordered his deputies to forbid more to enter.

Attorney General Clapp promptly took his place before the jury after court was opened at 2:30 o'clock. As the Democrats say of Grover Cleveland's speech, it was "calm and dignified." Yes, it was eloquent and delivered with force and readiness. Mr. Clapp commenced by stating that he became associated with the case at the request of the county attorney, complimenting Mr. Erwin upon the able and thorough manner in which he had prepared the case for trial and the thorough analysis of the evidence before the jury, making further assistance really unnecessary. The general then explained the origin of the jury system, its origin and success. He showed to the jurors that the state was not a stern individual seeking vengeance but rather a representative of the people seeing that justice was done. Then followed a review of the evidence and a presentation of the points which, in the minds of the prosecution, showed that the defendant failed to exercise such care as a reasonable man would under such circumstances. The jury was impressed with the fact that it was the body to decide if the defendant used reasonable care and was in imminent danger of his life or great bodily harm. A denial was also made that Haggerty's assault was so fierce enough to warrant meeting his death and arguments given to indicate that he simply intended arrest and disarm the defendant—a right and a duty. Mr. Clapp undertook to show that the defendant wished to have escaped, as he claimed in his testimony, he could have done so and that the front door should have been the direction of the alleged attempts instead of that in the rear.

"If you believe Houck was justified in deliberately provoking this quarrel with Murphy and then deliberately murdering him in cold blood," said the attorney general in conclusion, "then it is your duty to acquit him. The state does not seek revenge—its purpose is simply to prevent further bloodshed. We have done our duty and now the duty falls on your shoulders, as the protectors in a measure of the lives and interests of this community."

W. W. Erwin, at 3:20 o'clock, commenced the main argument for the defense and for an hour and forty minutes he poured a stream of oratory, eloquence, argument, illustration and appeal into the ears of the jury. Some of his hearers were satisfied in their expectations in him. Others were disappointed. Some accused him of abundant and ingenious sophistry. He let the sympathy dodge almost entirely alone which was unlooked for by a great many of the audience and is probably the reason for some of the disappointment. "The opening words to the jury were:

"It is hard even at this late date to keep from the mental vision the tragic scene which swept over West Duluth on the sixth of last September. Its tragic character makes this trial most important and if the jurors are not careful, injustice may be done. The gathering together of that phalanx of men who assaulted the defendant, the bursting in upon him, the attack and the result, so swift in following each other, the actors even were appalled with the tragedy God had permitted, the gathering of public anger, the devotion in a woman's heart which shielded the defendant from being made the subject of another slaying, the arrest for murder, the reaching of the jail forty-eight hours afterward—all are so tragic that unless you have the determination to consider this case with sober and calm judgment you may do a great wrong."

After a finely worded and eloquently delivered compliment to Judge Stearns, whom he characterized as having been "a teacher of justice to all Northern Minnesota," the speaker analyzed the principle of self-defense and anger, and advised the jurors to put themselves "in that boy's position," drop all prejudice and give him justice. Then followed a most complete review of the tragedy as pictured both by the testimony and the imagination and the defense's application of the same. It was all done with the consummate skill of an artist and was both entertaining and more or less effective. At the close of the argument, Judge Stearns announced that he would not deliver the charge until this morning and adjourned the session.

THE JURY GOES OUT.

Judge Stearns Delivers a Lengthy and Exhaustive Charge.

Without delay Judge Stearns opened court this morning after which he quietly left his desk, seated himself on the lower platform and as he lay half buried in the cushions of a big easy chair, commenced giving his charge to the jury.

The charge took the nature of a long, informal, rambling talk, interspersed with principles of law, with the abstract points sandwiched in here and there. The length and nature of the remarks compel rather a disconnected report.

"The force of an important and delicate duty should not be felt too keenly," said the judge. "So if a juror has the question of a life or liberty of a fellow man to decide, it is well to wait until he gets into a perfectly natural condition of mind." That remark was given force by the illustration of the surgeon with a delicate operation, who, while he feels the responsibility, is as a matter of fact with the use of his knife as though he were simply carving a beefsteak.

"Remember," continued his honor, "that you are the exclusive judges of the facts. The opinions of the attorneys and the bench should have no weight or bearing in your consideration of the case. The attorneys dress up the facts. You are to tear off the clothes and look at the bare facts in their naked beauty and deformity." The judge then stated that there was but little contradiction in the evidence, no more than is natural when it is remembered that no two men see the same thing alike. All may tell the truth, but each may unconsciously color up and dress his facts according to his sympathies or nature.

The jurors were instructed that it was their right to study the manner of the witness as well as to take into consideration the reasonableness of his testimony. When in conflict, the jurors were told to put themselves in the same place and judge as to the reasonableness, after which they must take their own recollection of the facts as told by the witnesses. The old principle that a man is innocent until proven guilty was laid down. Between compelling their innocence to be established beyond all possibility on one extreme and by simply a preponderance of evidence on the other, there is the happy medium of requiring a reasonable doubt. "If there is in your minds a moral certainty as to the guilt of the defendant, then you must convict. If there is a reasonable doubt, you must acquit, even though you believe him guilty."

The statement was next made that the conflict of testimony was between that of the witnesses and the defendant. The jurors were told that they well knew the position in which the defendant stood. The next matter was the reading of the law defining murder in the first degree, which brings in the element of premeditation. The judge said that it was evident this case did not come under that head.

The jury were instructed that the first question to decide was whether or not the deed was justifiable, if not, then to decide the degree, as the fact of the killing was admitted as well as proven. When the killing is admitted, as in this case, the defendant must be found guilty, unless there is evidence showing a reasonable doubt of guilt.

Another question is, was there any appearance as would make the defendant believe he was in imminent peril of great bodily harm. Man must avoid the taking of human life if he can do so safely. No matter how much a man may deserve death, no private man has a right to take it. Punishment belongs to the state. If he is a criminal, he must be brought before the law. A man must retreat instead of taking life, unless the latter act is in self defense. It must be determined in this case if the defendant has obeyed or disobeyed that law. The best and most courageous man is one who has courage to obey the law. If a man relies on courage instead of discretion, he must take the consequences. There are circumstances when it is right to use a revolver against an unarmed man but only in extreme cases. The jurors were told that they are to get into the place of the state, the defendant and Haggerty. Then get into their own places. A man should never be convicted unless public safety demands it and justice accords it. If the defendant was justified, that ends it. If there is a reasonable doubt of him being justified, then he must be found guilty of criminal homicide.

The judge also defined and explained manslaughter in its various degrees and told the jury that if they did not find the defendant guilty of murder in the second degree or manslaughter in the first, they then should apply the test of the other degrees.

The whole charge was very fair and impartial and this report cannot do it justice. The bailiff was sworn and the jury sent out. The jurors then quickly stepped up to Judge Stearns and warmly congratulated him on that charge, assuring him it was a masterpiece. Gen. Clapp quickly followed suit. What will the jury do, was then the question asked by the spectators as they left the trial that had occupied six days, commencing on Friday, one week ago. Will Friday be an unlucky day for the defendant was another question many were asking.

THE ROAD IS OPENED.

Duluth, Missabe &amp; Northern Officials and Invited Guests Make the Trip Over the Line.

Party Reaches Mountain Iron at 2:30 O'clock, Looks Over the Mine for an Hour and Returns.

Lon Merritt Banquets the Excursionists Upon Their Return—Will Give an Old Settlers' Excursion.

The excursion given by the officers of the Duluth, Missabe & Northern railway yesterday left Duluth at 8 o'clock in a private car attached to the morning express on the St. Paul & Duluth road. There were just thirty-four guests in all, as follows: Lon Merritt, Roadmaster; McNaughton, M. G. Norton, W. B. Stevenson, M. H. Vanscotten, Wm. Laird, H. H. Norton, A. Harrington, G. H. White, W. Stevenson, H. Wilson, C. F. Joyce, K. D. Chase, W. C. Runyon, Donald Grant, J. M. Schwartz, Capt. R. H. Palmer, A. L. Culbertson, Al Merritt, H. S. Benjamin, N. D. Moore, L. J. Richardson, C. C. Merritt, J. T. Jones, V. A. Andrews, R. Williamson, J. Whiteford, Charles Himrod, L. G. Matthews, T. H. Merritt, Owen Fergusson, J. G. Williams, S. F. Snively and a Herald reporter.

At Short Line Park an engine and caboose was waiting and the business car and party were transferred to the Duluth & Winnipeg tracks at 9:10 o'clock. Clouquet was reached at 9:40 and Stony Brook, thirty-eight miles from Duluth, at 10:30. Here the saw and hammer are beginning to beat a lively tattoo and quite a little settlement of people has been surrounded by his telegraph instrument, a banjo, two revolvers and a Sharps rifle, while the oldest citizen, perched on a paint keg outside, was industriously reading the Police Gazette. An immense amount of railroad material, also private building stuff, merchants' supplies, furniture and household goods were here awaiting shipment. A fine round house is nearly completed and will be occupied by the first of next week.

Stony Brook junction was left at 10:50 o'clock and the first actual travel over the rails of the new road commenced. Artichoke river was reached at 11:10, and Albert, the first station, forty-six miles from Duluth, at 11:15. The big gravel pit, with an enormous steam shovel hard at work was passed at 11:30 and Kelsey station, or Whitetish River, 8½ miles from Albert 5¼ miles from Duluth was reached at 11:50. At this point there is a substantial bridge, a fine water tank and several buildings and a population of perhaps 40 people. Kelsey sey was left behind at noon and Shaw, 14 miles further on, better known as St. Louis river, was attained at 12:45. Here there is another fine bridge, water tank and several other buildings and a small population.

Iron Junction, 39 miles from Stony Brook, and 77 miles from Duluth, was made at 12:55 and here the stop was made for dinner. Iron Junction is the starting point of the Biwabik branch and the rails are laid in that direction about 3 miles, with a large construction crew rushing matters. Here The Herald man sent off the first commercial message flashed over the wires from the new and wonderful Mesaba range. The party took dinner in "Red" No. 2008, and moose and bear meat were among the edibles.

Iron Junction was left at 2:00 and the town of Grant, or "Mountain Iron," nine miles further on, or eighty-six miles from Duluth, was sighted at 2:30, amid a tremendous screaming of the locomotive whistle and the cheers of hundreds of railroad laborers who thus heralded the arrival of the first passenger train.

At Mountain Iron the various test pits, about forty in all, were looked into and the magnificent proportions of the wonderful mine fully shown up. Some of the pits are over sixty feet deep in rock, and in every place rich bodies of the mineral has been revealed. At one place where some grading is being done for a side track a fine large body of 60 per cent ore was revealed only fourteen inches below the surface, and at another point the dynamiting of a pine stump revealed another fine body of ore.

The town of Grant is about a quarter of a mile distant from the big Mountain Iron mine, and has about twenty frame buildings up, and a population of about 250. The lumber for about sixty houses, to be erected by various people, is on the way and the place will become very lively from now on. Deputy Sheriff Al Free is on deck and the rough element have no business in the vicinity of the plucky little deputy. Near Grant, on the side of the roadway is the first grave in that section, that of an unknown tracklayer, who fell dead at his work and was buried near where he fell. A rude fence, with crossed corners, marks his resting place.

The return trip was started upon at 2:40 o'clock and the party reached Duluth at 9:05, after a very pleasant, but busy day. Regular trains have now commenced running and the new road is open for public travel. The track is in fine shape for new work, but considerable surfacing and ballasting is needed to prepare it for regular ore train work. On arrival at Duluth the party were banqueted at Boyle's by Lon Merritt. The first shipment of iron will be a small one and will be made in a few days. It will be cast into souvenirs and one presented to each of the excursionists.

On Oct. 20, Mr. Merritt will take five coach loads of old settlers who lived in Duluth prior to 1870 up to Mountain Iron on a free excursion.

Sketch and Portrait of William W. Blackwell, the Supreme Chancellor of the Knights of Pythias.

Relief Money May be Collected in Advance by the Ancient Order of United Workmen.

Extremes Noted in the Payments to the Orphans' Benefit Fund of Knights of Honor.

Supreme Chancellor William W. Blackwell, of Henderson, Ky., was elected by acclamation at the recent session of the supreme lodge at Kansas City. He celebrated last February his majority in Pythianism, having been a member of the order for twenty-one years. He is a prominent merchant of Henderson, Ky., where he was born April 5, 1840. June 5, 1873, he entered Joy lodge No. 21, and to that lodge he still belongs. He entered the grand lodge of Kentucky as representative in 1877; was elected grand master of exchequer; became vice chancellor in 1878, and was elected grand chancellor in 1879. At the close of his term, during the session of 1880, in Louisville, he was presented with a very neatly engrossed resolution of thanks for the valuable services he had rendered.

W. W. BLACKWELL.

He was the youngest Knight who ever passed the executive chair of the grand lodge of Kentucky. In 1881 he was elected supreme representative and re-elected until his election at the session of the supreme lodge in Milwaukee in 1890, when he was unanimously chosen supreme vice chancellor, which action was repeated in his election to the head of the order. Other officers elected were: Supreme vice-chancellor, W. B. Ritchie; supreme prelate, E. T. Blackmer; supreme master of exchequer, S. J. Willey; supreme keeper of records and seal, R. L. C. White; supreme master at arms, J. H. Lyon; supreme inner guard, Aaron B. Gardner; supreme outer guard, John W. Thompson.

The handsome silver cup donated by the Kansas City Knights to the best regiment in line in the parade was presented to the Second regiment of Kansas brigade, in command of Colonel S. O. McDowell.

The Indiana brigade made a splendid showing both in camp and parade. In the parade Missouri led in numbers, with Kansas second, while Indiana came in only about 100 short of the largest in parade.

General Carnahan's staff presented to him in trust for Mrs. Carnahan a silver ice cream set.

Mount Pulaski, Ills., was represented by a new division. Out of 60 members 52 were present.

There were 197 members admitted by card in the lodges of New York state during the last annual term.

A. O. U. W. Relief Money May Be Collected in Advance—Notes of the Order.

The supreme lodge at its session in Helena amended the relief law so that the money can be collected in advance. In case any jurisdiction needs assistance and shall be entitled to relief the funds will be ready without undue delay.

From an insignificant number the order has grown to vast proportions. Think of the power for good that can be exerted by this immense army bound together by the strong ties of brotherhood.

The A. O. U. W. extends help to every member in need or distress. Visit your lodge and learn the distress signal and word.

Nearly 12 per cent. of all losses sustained by the A. O. U. W. in 1891 was from the direct cause of accident.

When things were said in supreme lodge which pleased them, our Canadian friends said "Hear! hear!" The Pennsylvania folks said "Amen!" The Pennsylvania people, "Mighty!" The southern citizens, "Hooray!" The delegates from the Rocky mountain states, "Whoop!" The Kansas statesmen just kept still and looked as if they understood every word of it.

Give the women a chance. The more we read of it and hear of it the more we are convinced that the degree of honor is a good thing.

There was no A. O. U. W. assessment for August in Kansas, and only one in the Select Knights and Degree of Honor.

Indiana made a net gain of 400 during first seven months of this year.

The A. O. U. W. is the oldest of the fraternal beneficial societies, and was the pioneer of this system of protection. It was organized on the 27th day of October, 1858, and is nearly twenty-four years old.

The average age of the entire membership remains the same as last year—viz., thirty-nine. The increase of the fraction is but slight.

Every death claim in Jersey so far has been paid within thirty days.

KNIGHTS OF HONOR.

Extremes Noted in the Payments to the Orphans' Benefit Fund.

R. S. Wendell, of Lodge No. 161, Murfreesboro, Tenn., had paid one of the largest sums on record into the widows and orphans' benefit fund—$1,094—he having become a member at the age of fifty-four, May 5, 1876, and having paid the highest rate known to the order for sixteen years. P. A. Wilhite, of Lodge No. 290, Anderson, S. C., had paid the next largest amount, $1,288. The other extreme is shown in the case of William F. Gallier, of Lodge No. 2,909, of Bristol, Va., who became a member April 14, 1891, at twenty-seven years of age, and was killed in a railroad collision in June, after paying eight dollars, his beneficiaries receiving $2,600.

The average age of the 8 Massachusetts men whose names appear in the list at the time of joining was 39 years, and the average duration of membership has been 19½ years. The largest amount paid by any of them was $636, and the smallest $218, or an average for the entire 8 of $354, the beneficiaries in each instance receiving $2,000.

The literature of the order contains the following lucid paragraph: "Are you in it? If not, you should be. It is the oldest, soundest and best fraternal beneficial society paying a death benefit from a central treasury. It compels thrift; it necessitates saving; it puts the member under bonds to lay up a few dollars every year to provide for the future. We refer of course to the Knights of Honor. Make application at once. Blessed is he who insures when he is young and in good health, for he has made his election sure and at the lowest price."

MASONIC.

San Francisco to Build a Masonic Home.

The directors of the Masonic Widows and Orphans' home met in the Masonic temple, San Francisco, to consider matters relating to the new institution. Grand Master William Johnston, of Highland, presided. Over $50,000 have already been subscribed toward the home, and much more is expected. Several locations for the buildings have already been spoken of, and in some of these cases subsidies have been offered.

Richmond has four Masonic halls. California has over 10,000 members. Over 10,000 Masons were buried last year. There are 1,300 Knights Templars in Ireland.

Canada has a membership of nearly 21,000. It is a violation of the long established customs and usages of Masonic bodies to confer degrees or to engage in any other regular work of the lodge upon the Sabbath day.

The mechanical school on the grounds of the Utica home, which M. W. B. R. Lawrence is to endow, is much talked of among the craft and will be a lasting monument to the good work and fame of this eminent and noble hearted Mason.

Bro. Noah M. Givan, past grand master of Masons in Missouri, opposes the use of the word Masonic in connection with insurance or any other business.

The fund being raised for an annuity to the author of the "History of Freemasonry," Bro. R. F. Gould, is growing slowly, but surely. In England, where the work of creating the fund is going on, considerably over $5,000 is already subscribed.

Dr. Enoch Fithian, of Greenwich, N. J., celebrated his 100th birthday recently. He began practice as a physician in 1816. He was initiated in the Brethren lodge of Free-masonry, of Bridgeton, N. J., in 1816, and has been a Mason seventy years.

Right Eminent Frater J. S. Dewar, of London, represented the great priory of Canada at the recent triennial convocation in Denver.

The order of the Eastern Star is an advanced order of Masonry; its membership embraces the wives daughters, mothers, widows and sisters of Master Masons, and also Master Masons in good standing in their respective lodges. The order was instituted for women, and by them the work is carried on, and nearly all the offices are filled by women. Every chapter is under the supervision of a Master Mason, and the landmarks of the ritual provide that no initiation can take place unless he is present.

Maine has now seventeen chapters of Eastern Star, whereas three years ago it had none. Gradually prejudice disappears before the light of reason.

The Veteran association of Pennsylvania has over 600 members.

I. O. O. F.

Parade of Massachusetts Colored Odd Fellows—Linklets.

Probably no state organization has been more warmly welcomed here than was the district grand lodge of the G. U. O. O. F. of Massachusetts, composed of colored men. The annual parade was in honor of the district lodge. It was under the auspices of Attleboro Eastern lodge, No. 1919. It was not as large as was anticipated, but the showing was creditable. The men appeared neat and well. Considerable attention and applause was directed toward the United Patriarchies of Boston, Cambridge and Haverhill, who did some fancy drilling upon the streets. Along the streets many houses were decorated. One of the features of the parade was the appearance of Mr. Isaac Mason, of Worcester, eighty-two years old, who marched over the whole route with the vigor of a young man. He is the oldest of the colored Odd Fellows in this state.

Hon. N. Fessenden has been elected grand representative to the sovereign grand lodge from Maine.

Before the close of the year there will be in existence at least 10,000 lodges.

Each lodge must have a Bible, but the reading of the same is not imperative.

The session of the grand lodge at Buffalo just concluded was a peculiarly happy occasion.

The German Odd Fellows' Home association has over 12,000 members.

An Odd Fellows' temple is a probability in the near future at Washington.

Liberty Rebekah lodge is the latest addition to the order in New York state. Its home is Buffalo.

The old warhorse, Past Grand Master DeWitt C. Langdon, was a welcome representative at the Buffalo session. He has lost none of his love nor interest in the order.

The grand lodge will meet in New York city next year. For hospitality Buffalo has set an example which New York should follow. Let some one start a movement early.

An Odd Fellow who gets drunk is as inconsistent as a swearing church member.

California has close on to 80,000 Odd Fellows in its lodges—the largest population per capita known in the history of the state or in the world for any order or organization.

There are 1,239 Odd Fellows in Manchester, N. H.

Knights of the Golden Eagle.

Ohio ranks third in K. G. E. membership, and will, if nothing prevents, take second place before the end of the year.

The ladies' degree is having quite a boom in the east, and before very long look out for a temple of the Ladies of the Golden Eagle in Columbus, O.

The grand castle of Pennsylvania Knights of the Golden Eagle had the journal of proceedings printed one day after the close of the annual session in May last. This is a feat highly commendable, and proves that for efficiency the grand master of records stands far in the foreground.

The Knights of the Golden Eagle are gaining strength in the far west.

SIXTH MICHIGAN DISTRICT.

Sketches of the Rival Candidates for Congress.

Byron G. Stout, of Pontiac, and David Atkins, of Flint, are the opposing candidates for congress in the Sixth Michigan district, the former Democratic and the latter Republican. Mr. Stout is sixty-three years old, has lived in Oakland county sixty-one years, is a graduate of the state university in the class of 1851, and has served the Sixth house of the state legislature. In 1881 he was the nominee for governor on the "Union" ticket, but was defeated by Austin Blair. He was the Democratic nominee for congress in 1888 and 1870, but both times was defeated. In 1890 he was again nominated for congress and was elected by a plurality of 700. He is a candidate for a second term, and David D. Atkins, who never before ran for any office, is his opponent.

Mr. Atkins was born in Genesee county in 1854 and has always lived there. He was educated in the Flint schools, taught school, kept books, traveled as a drummer and worked on the farm before striking his gait as a lawyer. He is now a member of the law firm of Lee & Atkins. He is a thirty-second degree Mason, a noble in the Order of the Mystic Shrine, supreme vice chief ranger in the Order of Foresters and is way up in the mysteries of the Royal Arcanum and Knights of the Maccabees.

THREE OHIO CANDIDATES.

Men Who Are Running for Congress in Famous Districts.

Among the recent congressional nominations in Ohio are three of especial interest. The first is that of Louis P. Ohliger, of Wooster, who was named by the Democrats of the famous Sixteenth district to succeed the late Congressman John G. Warwick, who was elected in 1890 after the memorable campaign with Governor McKinley, then a member of the house and author of the present tariff, as his opponent. Mr. Warwick's recent death caused a special election to be ordered.

The state last winter was redistricted by the Republicans, and the "Old Sixteenth" ceased to exist, but legal authorities held that the vacancy must be filled from the district as organized at the time of Mr. Warwick's election. Henry Stark, Wayne, Holmes and Medina counties, elect Mr. Warwick's successor at the same time that they choose a representative in the next congress under the new apportionment. But once before has this state of affairs existed in Ohio. After a vigorous convention contest Mr. Ohliger was chosen as the Democratic candidate. As the district is reliably Democratic he is almost certain to fill out the unexpired term.

Mr. Ohliger was born in Bavaria in 1843. He came to America in his youth and settled in Canton. In 1857 he removed to Wooster and engaged in business as a wholesale druggist, and has made a success of it. He is a native of the district, and has lived in his home city, except Mr. Ohliger, who was named by the Democrats of the famous Sixteenth district to succeed the late Congressman John G. Warwick, who was elected in 1890 after the memorable campaign with Governor McKinley, then a member of the house and author of the present tariff, as his opponent. ## TOOD BY THEIR GUNS.

esperate Fight Made by the Eleventh Ohio Battery in an Accidental Battle at Iuka.

Repelled Several Charges and Succumbed Only When the Cannoneers Were Nearly All Killed.

The Confederates That Made the First Two Charges Were Frightfully Punished for Their Temerity.

ARTILLERY fighting looks easy when you reason from a theoretical point of view. With a battery in position, plenty of shot in the chest and men to do the work, what greater odds could be asked over a enemy coming on a charge? The muzzles of the cannons may be pointed so as to sweep the entire front and leave no path unscathed by missiles. Behind their uns the artillerymen may stand and hurl shot or pour canister into the ranks of the assailants almost at will. The opposing artillery is unable to fire upon a battery while a party is charging it for fear of hurting friends, and at the supreme moment it comes to a tussle between cannon and rifles or bayonets. The slaughtering one would suppose could outdo bullets, the showers of canister overmatch bayonets. Sometimes it turns out so, at not always.

The first time that I saw an array of our men on the battlefield, I said to a comrade, "How can we help winning?" With our experience then, I exclaimed, "It's all right if they'll stand," meaning the artillerymen. We were infantry, and I said cheerfully, "Of course they'll stand if we stand by them." I soon found out that I would prefer the other horn of the dilemma, to charge the enemy's guns while repelling a charge, if that charge was worthy the name. The bloodiest experience of this kind during the civil war, the little fight at Iuka, Miss., Sept. 19, 1862. It was an accidental battle, and that accounts for the extraordinary exposure of the artillery.

Toward the close of the day Sanborn's brigade of Rosecrans' army was marching along a high road leading to the town, selling the way in anticipation of striking Confederate outposts. The route lay through a strip of woods that separated two wide clearings held by the enemy, and upon entering the pass Sanborn's platoon drew a heavy fire from Confederate riflemen and artillery. The place could have proven an ambush had Sanborn pushed ahead, but he halted his line and the enemy quickly stepped to crush before it could prepare for battle. There was no time to lose and the nearest battery, which happened to be the Eleventh Ohio, was placed on a slight elevation at the edge of the woods, where it could sweep the roadway and also the nearest edges of the clearings on both sides of it. The position of the guns was an ideal one, a wide angle to the right and left oblique and a one along the whole front. Regiments of infantry were placed on each flank of the battery and in rear, and as far as it went the line of battle was perfect.

Looking at the plan on paper, most men of experience would choose a place behind those six cannon if they had to be in it at all. The troops took their stations under heavy fire of shell and bullets, and were a good deal settled down to business than the Confederates. The columns of smoke upon the crest where the battery stood. The Ohioans opened their guns with master and the infantry on each side gave an assault volley after volley of bullets. The charge was made, and no doubt the men who had a hand in the work thought they could easily repel a second and even a third. The battery was still intact, its fighting force of 54 officers and men quite unharmed, and enough ammunition on hand to double load the guns for the next encounter.

There were other Union guns in position at the field, but the Confederates were not at all silenced, those of the Eleventh Ohio first. They reformed and dashed in again with vigorous yells. A dense thicket reined them at the start, then they fell slow the bank of a ravine, finally emerging into full view at the distance of 100 yards from Sanborn's line. The Ohioans to go their double charges of canister, the infantry keeping company for a time with well aimed bullets. But while the

AT THE MUZZLES OF THE GUNS. Cannon, belching canister, were good for the enemy could bring against them, the infantry supports only counted as an against man and the enemy outnumbered them. Some in the rear and some on the left gave way. The Confederates of course followed up and passed the flank of the battery. Quick-some companies of infantry from other units were hurried to the scene of danger, and the assailants were driven back with ease of victory on their lips. However, they had carried confusion into Sanborn's ranks and upset the idea that the fight was to be all one way. Three Union colors had been shot down while leading up, and the Confederates were called upon to rally around it. They found their hands full holding their own. So the truth dawned on Sanborn that the Ohioans and some other infantry companies next to the cannon must fight it out alone if the Confederates tried it again. They did try again in the most desperate rush of the day. One Confederate brigade had used itself up in the first two charges, and a fresh brigade then entered the lists. The Ohio boys were no longer in the ideal situation for artillerymen. Their guns were in place, it is true; the enemy a good distance off, and there were sound men enough to load and fire. But the ammunition was running low on account of those rapid double loads, and besides the infantry supports were busy defending their own line, and of course the battery hadn't escaped hard blows. Guns had been killed and wounded; horses had been shot, and in their agony and fright were plunging about, dragging limbers and caissons hither and thither, tugging at their harness, rearing and kicking as a jam of terrified horses will. Yet there were cool heads in the little band of cannoneers, and when the third charging column showed its flanks in the clearing on each side of the pass a shower of canister tore through its ranks, and the line halted and wavered.

The colonel of a regiment that advanced across the cleared ground, the First Texas regiment, saw with a quick eye that the battery had the best of the situation so long as its shot held out, and gave the order to charge the guns at all hazards. His men had already tasted the canister from the well handled pieces, but they moved forward in an oblique course, joined by parts of two regiments that were directly in front. They used the cold steel, and there was not much to oppose them except fifty doses of canister. They pressed on up to the muzzles of the guns and past them, the Ohioans beating them off with revolvers and sabre bayonets. Some of the infantry captains near by wanted to go to the rescue, but excited runaway artillery teams dashed into their ranks, striking men down and breaking up the formation. Nearly all of the battery horses were disabled, and the guns couldn't be removed. So the cannoneers stood by to defend them through with the last breath and the last drop of blood. It doesn't often come to that for all the historical gush and old soldier talk about such things, but with the Eleventh Ohio at Iuka Pass it did.

When the canister gave out and the Confederates had overrun the battery, bayoneting every man who refused to surrender, and all who could handle a weapon refused, a few of the more desperately stubborn, or perhaps those the least hurt, dragged themselves to the trails of three of the pieces and spiked them. Some were killed in the attempt to serve other guns, and the enemy did not enjoy their triumph long for a fresh Union brigade with some of Sanborn's men retook the ground instantly, and there found the dead and dying cannoneers to the num-

SPIKING THE CANNON. ber of 18 lying as they had fallen in defense of their guns. Bayonets had done the work. Out of 54 cannoneers, including officers, who handled the guns, 46 were disabled. The slaughter of the horses was equally great, 60 out of 72 being killed or disabled. Five drivers were wounded. Where was there better fighting or even equal fighting, by any body of men during the war? It took a dozen hand to hand encounters for our crack batteries to score a list of victims equal to that of the Eleventh Ohio in the action fought just while the sun was going down, at Iuka. The battery expended 100 rounds of canister, and the Confederates that made the first two charges were frightfully punished for their temerity. With a few more rounds perhaps the brave cannoneers would have come off victors all through. The enemy recaptured the pieces in a fourth charge, but did not take them from the battlefield.

"Everything lost but honor," was the reflection of the surviving cannoneers. They might have quit with that, and no one could blame them. But they were not of that kind. There was one officer left, and with the drivers, the slightly wounded cannoneers and a few helpers lent from the infantry the battery was mustered a couple of weeks later in the intrenchments of Corinth. There were two days of battle. On the first day, Oct. 4, the Confederates—the same men who had been beaten off at Iuka—drove our advanced lines back to the breastworks around the town, expecting a clean sweep on the morrow. On the 5th they assaulted the works fearlessly, and in front of the Eleventh Ohio reached within fifty yards of the guns. No doubt the Ohio boys gave it to them a little hotter in memory of Iuka. At any rate they delayed them with canister, and when they got them on the run limbered up and chased them for miles, halting now and then to dose the fugitive ranks with a little more of the same sort.

After Corinth the battery remained with the army on the Mississippi. There was more marching than fighting for many months, but when Vicksburg was closely invested the boys got a chance to show their metal in another line of work. On the 19th of May, 1863, the battery was assigned to a hill in front of three active Confederate forts, of which Fort Hill was one. In order to reach the position the guns were moved down a steep incline under a concentrated fire from the enemy's forts. Then the cannon, with twelve horses to each and men tugging at the wheels, were rolled up the height to the shelter of the crest.

At a signal to advance the whole armament crossed the ridge into full view, and the enemy's forts again directed their hot fire upon the little band. In the teeth of that fusillade the muzzles of the guns until they had hurled back over 500 rounds of shot, every discharge being aimed with coolness and precision. The battery fought through the campaign and afterward served in Arkansas, but never again met an enemy so reckless as that in front of the Iuka Pass.

The Eleventh Ohio was organized in Cincinnati in 1861 from recruits gathered in Athens, Butler, Hamilton, Vinton and Wyandotte counties. The men were specially equipped and made a fine appearance in camp parades. Mrs. Gen. Fremont presented the company with a silk guidon when it reported for duty at army headquarters in St. Louis. Such incidents were common in those days, and certainly no one suspected that that little banner would some time float over the bloodiest single field battery contest on record. GEORGE L. KILMER.

MANY ENTRIES MADE.

Tomorrow's Races at the Driving Park Give Promise of Being Exciting and Interesting Events.

W. T. Bailey's Favorite Ottawa Chief Will be Pitted Against W. P. Heimbach's Old Reliable, Sweigert.

Messrs. Mendenhall, Sargent, Hartley, Howard and Others Will Enter Horses in the Running Race.

The races for tomorrow promise to be more interesting than those of any day of the past successful meeting of the Duluth Driving Park Association. There has already been a goodly number of entries deposited. In the 2:35 class trot, is W. C. Doherty's brown gelding Cyclone, T. J. Walsh's Zaywood, W. H.
Colson's Major Boy, and others. In the 2:40 pace Mr. Toomey will start his pacer, Mission Boy, Dr. Davis names his favorite sidewheeler, Dock, and there are several other first money candidates. The free-for-all trotting race will be a fast and exciting contest. W. T. Bailey will start his fast gelding Ottawa Chief, and W. P. Heimbach will undertake to paralyze the aforesaid smoothgaited equine with his Idol Swigert.

The most interesting race of the day promises to be the free-for-all running race. In it are all the best saddle horses of the city, and they are all out to win. Mr. Mendenhall, Jr., will have the mount on his favorite, brown mare, and is ready to bet the price of a season ticket to next year's circus that he will be in the front row of the procession at the finish. This race will probably have eight or ten starters, and as they are all local stars they will be an amusing lot. Among those booked to perform are W. C. Sargent, C. G. Harley, E. D. Howard, C. H. Purcell and Mr. Butchard. B. J. Sawyer has promised to send a horse for each of the races over from his farm at Glenwood, Minn., and if he should come he will add to the entertainment more than a little, as he will have to team his own trotters
as the others do.

A bicycle race will be arranged if any entries are made. The grand stand is now entirely covered and will be thrown open to everybody.

PERSONAL.

A. R. Plough and G. W. Bull, of the St. Paul & Duluth road, are in the city today.
F. E. Seale, of St. Cloud, is in the city on political business.
D. W. Grant, of Faribault, is at the Brighton today.

Philadelphia after a short visit in Duluth.
H. S. Swift has taken the position of agent for A. H. Andrews & Co., of Chicago, for Minnesota and Dakota with headquarters in Duluth.
R. B. Doane has returned from a two weeks' visit in Washington. On his return home he visited Baltimore, Pittsburgh and Chicago meeting organizers of the principal churches of those cities, and obtaining from them choice lists of octavo sacred music for the use of the choir of the First Presbyterian church, of Duluth, of which he is organist.
General Manager F. S. Wardwell leaves next

Jones' Side of It.

R. F. Jones says the statements made in connection with the Turner case have been most of them untrue. Turner assigned a batch of bills, $93 in amount, to the Driving Park association to pay a bill of $100. He then collected some of them himself and the association was out. The Minneapolis police were not ified to secure Turner and get instructions from Jones who was then in Minneapolis. This was on Saturday. On Tuesday Turner got here and made the statement that he was given a tip by the police at Minneapolis to come up and settle. Treasurer Hoopes settled the account for $38. Jones denies that he ever owed Turner anything and says he never had any dealings with him whatever.

A BULGE IN WHEAT.

Trading Was Active and Prices Advanced Quite Rapidly.

Trading was very large in both cash wheat and futures on the Duluth board today, and prices rapidly advanced owing to higher cables, strong foreign demand and heavy exports,
the closing being 1 1/4 to 1 1/2c higher than yesterday,
as follows:

No. 1 hard, cash, 75 1/2c; October, 75 1/2c; December, 77 1/2c; May, 83 1/2c. No. 1 northern,

NOT A TANGIBLE CLUE

The Perpetrators of the Attempt to Blow Up the Mansion House at Homestead Not Found.

The Carnegie Steel Company Has Offered a Big Reward But the Mischief is Probably Safe.

Members of the Advisory Committee Say It Was a Dastardly Plot to Injure Their Cause.

HOMESTEAD, Pa., Oct. 8.—Although the detectives and the entire force of deputy sheriffs have diligently searched for the perpetrator of the attempt to blow up the Mansion house yesterday, they have been unable to discover a tangible clue to work on. From present indications the running down of the miscreant will be difficult. The members of the advisory committee say they are intensely anxious to have the culprit run down, as they feel that when the matter is fully cleared up, one of the most dastardly plots to injure their cause will be shown.

The arrest of the supposed Richard C. C. at Altoona proves to be another case of wrong man arrested. The man in custody is a brother of the individual wanted, and an additional information against the Carnegie company charging false arrest will be made. The usual Saturday afternoon meeting of the locked-out men will be held in the rink this afternoon.

The Carnegie Steel company, limited, has offered a reward of $1000 for the arrest and conviction of the man who threw the dynamite bomb into the Mansion house yesterday.

THE CHECK WAS FORGED.

A Man Named Howard Seems to be the Forger.

COLUMBUS, Ind., Oct. 8.—A forged check for $1400, drawn and signed by S. J. Smeltzer, Sr., sheriff of Bartholomew county, Indiana territory, payable to and endorsed by George B. Howard and A. C. Waldon, drawn on the First National bank of this city, was cashed by the Lincoln National bank, Washington, D. C., and sent here for collection today.

Howard stopped here for a short time several years ago and put on a great many airs. He afterwards did business at Mount City, Ill., and it is alleged that he was sent to the penitentiary later for pension irregularities.

MILLS ON THE STUMP.

Will Speak in Illinois Tuesday and Then Come to Minnesota.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Oct. 8.—Senator R. Q. Mills arrived here yesterday from Texas. His health is improving rapidly. He refused to discuss the situation in Texas, but said the split on the state ticket would in no way affect the vote for Cleveland, which would be larger than ever.

He does not believe either the Republican or the People's party will carry a Southern state. Senator Mills will speak at Greenville, Ill., on Tuesday, and from there will go to Iowa and Minnesota as the national committee may direct.

HIT BY A HEAVY SEA.

Eight Men Badly Injured During the Furthest Bismarck's Voyage.

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—On Oct. 4 the steamer Furthest Bismarck, in latitude 48. 47, longitude 164.5; experienced a severe storm accompanied by a tremendous sea, during which eight men were injured.

They were the engineer's assistants, and were on the lee side of the vessel when struck by the sea which rolled on board, washing them about the deck gangway. Three of the injured men had their legs broken.

During the whole voyage the Furthest Bismarck experienced stormy weather with northeast gales.

SUED FOR DIVORCE.

Dora Wiley Has Started Suit Against Her Husband.

CHICAGO, Oct. 8.—Richard Golden, the well-known comedian, now playing at the Haymarket theater, has been sued by his wife Dora, known on the stage as the "Sweet Singer of Maine," for divorce. In her bill Mrs. Golden charges her husband with cruelty, unkindness and infidelity.

American Generosity.

LONDON, Oct. 8.—The Daily Chronicle says of the gift of $100,000 to the Royal institute from Thomas Hodgkins of New York: "If there is so much shoddy wealth in America there is also no country where men give so largely to the highest public purposes. The gift of Mr. Hodgkins will meet with general expressions of gratitude which will be all the deeper because the donor is an American."

No More Appointments.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—The presidential election occurs one month from today, and the statement is made at the executive mansion that the president will not in the interval make any appointments not absolutely necessary to the smooth running of the government.

Bad Freight Wreck.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Oct. 8.—A freight train on the New England road was wrecked last night just east of here. Many cars were piled along the side of the track, and traffic was blocked for several hours. The loss will amount to thousands of dollars. No one was injured.

To be Worked to the Limit.

Capt. J. H. Cundy, superintendent of the Cincinnati, has received instructions from F. A. Bates, manager of the Standard Ore company, to put as large a force as possible on both the Cincinnati and Hale mines, as he has made arrangements for the sale of the entire product of both mines for next season. Both properties will be worked to the limit.

EXTRA.

HOUCK FOUND NOT GUILTY

The Verdict Was Returned in the District Court Shortly After Five O'Clock This Afternoon.

The jury in the Houck murder case returned their verdict at 5:05 o'clock this afternoon. Their verdict was "not guilty."

The verdict was returned before Judge Ensign, as Judge Stearns had left the court house. When it was announced Houck did not display any marked emotion.

THE RESULT OF JEALOUSY.

A Private Shot a Sergeant on Account of a German Girl.

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—A shooting affray occurred this morning on Bedloe's island, which resulted in the probably fatal wounding of Sergeant Vann and the wounding in the arm of Private Patrick King, who was walking behind Vann when the shooting was done.

Private Miller was the one that did the shooting. He had been jealous for some time of the attentions paid by Vann to a German girl, who was employed by a saloon keeper on the island.

Vann had just returned from the city and was approaching the quarters of the company to which he belonged when Miller, who was sitting on the veranda, suddenly sprang to his feet and without a word raised his carbine to his shoulder and fired.

The bullet went through Vann's chest and then through the left arm of Private King. Both of the wounded men are in the hospital. It is thought that Vann will die. Miller has been placed in the guard house. Company A was transferred from Fort Lewis, Col., to Bedloe's island a couple of years ago.

THE STEAMER IDAHO SAFE

A Message From the Captain Announces She Is Safe in the Port of Bayfield.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Oct. 8.—The owners of the passenger steamer Idaho, bound down from Duluth, supposed to have been lost on Lake Superior in yesterday's storm, say they have a message from Capt. Brice that the steamer is safe in the port of Bayfield, Wis.

Blowing a Gale.

SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich., Oct. 8.—[Special to The Herald.]—There are about twelve boats reported lying under Whitefish point. It is blowing a gale from the northwest on Lake Superior. Up: Roanoke, 7 p. m.; Manola, 8:30; Spokane, 9:30; Wheeler, Ashland, 10:30; Monahanset, Mont Blanc, Glad Tidings, 7:30 a. m.; Fedora, Cadillac, 8. Down: Bartlett, 104.8 a. m.; Maritana, 9; Matao, Canada, 9:30.

Fusion in Wyoming.

CHEYENNE, Wyo., Oct. 8.—It is reported officially from Democratic headquarters in this city that fusion with the Populists has been perfected. The Democrats will support Weaver, electors, and the People's party will support the Democratic state ticket.

Paper Prices Advanced.

CHICAGO, Oct. 8.—According to a local manufacturer the stock of paper is running short and prices have advanced to per cent, and the end is not yet. This is not due to any "corner," but to the stoppage of the supply of rags from abroad.

PERSONAL.

H. R. Fisk, Jr., is in Chicago. Bert Sawyer, of Minneapolis, is in the city today. Maj. J. H. Upham has returned from his trip to New York.

B. J. Sawyer, of Minneapolis, is in the city attending the races today.

To be Worked to the Limit.

Capt. J. H. Cundy, superintendent of the Cincinnati, has received instructions from F. A. Bates, manager of the Standard Ore company, to put as large a force as possible on both the Cincinnati and Hale mines, as he has made arrangements for the sale of the entire product of both mines for next season. Both properties will be worked to the limit.

CANDIDATES SCARCE

Nobody Appeared to Want the Nominations Very Badly at the Democratic Convention This Afternoon.

John Jenswold, Jr., One of the Popular Nominees, Was Endorsed According to the Fusion Deal.

A. S. Wilson and J. Adam Bede Named as the Other Candidates, Morris Thomas Having Declined.

The delegates to the Democratic legislative convention were very tardy this afternoon, and it was 3 o'clock before it was called to order. At 2:30 o'clock J. Adam Bede held the fort alone in the council chamber. A little while later Morris Thomas, C. P. Maginnis, E. H. Hall and others filed in and the others came dragging along soon afterward. There was a total absence of program or vote, principally because there was nobody who wanted the nominations. Morris Thomas was conceded a nomination if he wanted it, but there was a hustle to get another man who would accept.

After skirmishing for a long time the convention was finally called to order by C. P. Maginnis. G. L. Spangler named J. Adam Bede for temporary chairman. He was unanimously chosen. J. C. Heslian was proposed for temporary secretary and chosen.

Morris Thomas, E. H. Hall and F. L. Ryan were named as a committee on credentials. There were no contests. John Jenswold, Jr., and he was unanimously nominated for the legislature. C. P. Maginnis placed in nomination Morris Thomas and A. S. Wilson. J. Adam Bede was then nominated and he and Mr. Wilson were declared the nominees.

HEARD IN SPECIAL TERM.

Numerous Civil Cases Disposed of by Judge Stearns.

Judge Stearns held the special term calendar of the district court this morning. The case of the American Exchange Bank vs. M. Fink was stricken from the calendar. Helmer vs. White & Co., Bowman vs. D. H. Merritt et al., Easton vs. Wire Manufacturing Co. vs. Atlas Iron & Brass Works, Frank Blakmar vs. O. S. Langellier and George King et al. vs. F. E. Parker were continued, and the case of the Northern Pacific Railroad vs. Duluth Transfer Railway Company was set aside a week. The mortgage sale in Frederick vs. C. Mills et al. was continued.

The Tolleson divorce was granted. The motion in Sherwood vs. Powell was denied. The assignee in the matter of the insolvent firm of J. S. Anderson & Co., was discharged. A forty days' stay of proceedings in Marble vs. Bang was ordered. Judgment was ordered on the referee's report in Gust Headquest vs. T. O. Hobe. The former order in Alexander McKellop vs. Duluth Street Railway company was made absolute. Yocum vs. Smith was reported settled.

Judgment against the garnishee in Forbes vs. Sullivan was ordered. In Carlson vs. Bjork judgment was ordered on a mechanics' lien. In the Missouri, Kansas and Texas Trust company vs. C. G. Philstrom et al., the sale under a mortgage foreclosure was confirmed. In Fargusson vs. Clarkston et al., the proceedings were dismissed as to the defendant Clarkston; and in the Pabst brewing company vs. O. J. Olson et al., a judgment on a mortgage foreclosure was taken.

After the trial of the few civil cases set for Monday and the sentencing of several prisoners the September term of the district court will stand adjourned and all unfinished business taken up at the November term.

Before Judge Stearns George Sovey, for selling liquor without a license, was sentenced to pay a fine of $35 and to be committed to the county jail for thirty days, and to be further committed until the fine is paid, not exceeding six months. Before Judge Ensign the case company vs. A. H. Heddler & Co., was heard and ordered submitted on briefs. In Geo. R. King vs. F. E. Parker, judgment was ordered for the plaintiff. A. N. Peterson, for selling liquor without a license, was arraigned and given until Monday afternoon to plead. His bail was fixed at $300 and the court adjourned until Monday morning.

LAKE FREIGHT RATES.

The Market Has Only Been Fairly Active This Week.

The ore movement this season is very much ahead of expectations, but a slow foreign demand has restricted the lake movement of grain. On this account, therefore, according to the Marine Review, the freight market has been only fairly active during the week, and at this writing grain rates are not strong at 2 cents on corn from Chicago and 3 1/2 cents on wheat from Duluth to Buffalo, with ore freights $1.20 from Ashland and Two ore freights $1.20 from Marquette and 75 cents from Escanaba to Ohio ports. The volume of coal shipments is large in comparison with previous years and there are no signs of any marked improvement in freights on cargoes bound up the lakes.

A Destructive Blaze.

RALEIGH, N. C., Oct. 8.—A disastrous fire occurred at Clinton this afternoon. It originated in a store occupied by the Farmers Alliance and swept the whole block. It crossed the street and burned several buildings, including the county jail. Loss $100,000.

ALL HONOR TO OUR PATRONS OF THE GREAT NORTHWEST.

Thanks to the appreciation of the people of Superior, Duluth and vicinity of our efforts in their behalf, the week of our FIRST GRAND FALL OPENING has been a PRONOUNCED and ASTONISHING SUCCESS. As we promised when first announcing its date, the opening of our new establishment has marked another epoch on the glorious pathway of successful mercantile progress. We have more than vindicated our modest claim to having the finest store-rooms and the largest, most complete and best selected line of Medium, Fine and High Grade Dry Goods, Cloaks, Carpets and Draperies, Millinery and Shoes of any establishment west of Chicago and second to none in the "World's Fair City." Of over 50,000 visitors who thronged our aisles and tested the capacity of our enormous Emporium during our Opening Week, not one expressed any sentiment but surprise, satisfaction and pleasure. No comparisons were drawn, except with two or three of the largest establishments in New York City, and none but were flattering to the "Peoples Popular Store of Superior," while thousands frankly stated that never in their lives had they seen so elegant and complete a mercantile establishment.

The attendance on Wednesday of over 2000 ladies of Duluth, West Duluth, Oneota, Stowell and Hazelwood, and their unbounded manifestations of surprise and pleasure at the Magnitude, Magnificence and Variety of our stocks could not fail to prove most gratifying to the management. We consider all that was done for their entertainment and their transportation over and back, more than repaid by their evident and kindly expressed appreciation of our efforts on their behalf. We hope to be favored with future visits under circumstances which will permit of more particular and personal attention to each and all of them, and will spare no pains to always make their calls profitable as well as pleasant.

To the hundreds of ladies who were unable to be waited upon during the rush, we can only say WE REGRET THE UNFORTUNATE CIRCUMSTANCE. We were entirely unprepared for such an avalanche of visitors and did the best that could be done under the circumstances. 100 experienced clerks were in attendance, but with over 1000 customers constantly on the floors at once, 500 salespeople could hardly have satisfied the requirements. On all future occasions this error will be remedied as far as possible.

Our appreciation of this liberal patronage, which has made our "Grand Opening" the mercantile phenomenon of the entire Northwest, will be testified to by giving

DR. FORBES' TRIUMPH

He Has Been Restored to His Former Full Relations With the Methodist Episcopal Church.

The Doctor Will Now Be Assigned to a Charge and Placed on the Supernumerary List.

An Affecting Scene at the Meeting of the Conference When He Pleaded His Own Cause.

Rev. Dr. Robert Forbes has scored another victory over his persecutors. Justice has been done him by the Methodist Episcopal conference, and he is now an active member of the conference with supernumerary relations. The matter was decided by the conference in Minneapolis yesterday after the liveliest session this year. There was considerable feeling on the subject and the debate ran so high that Bishop Goodsell had frequently to call the brethren to order.

The committee reported in spite of the grave charges which had been made against Dr. Forbes that he ought to be exonerated from all blame, and that he should again be made an active member of the conference with supernumerary relations. The committee reported that after giving the matter careful consideration it had decided to recommend that his character be passed, as his health was improving, and that he be placed as an active member of the conference with supernumerary relations. The report was the cause of a lively debate.

Rev. William McKinley speaking against accepting the report, said: "There is no question which has been considered by me any more carefully and prayerfully than this. If we accept this report we acquiesce in the statements made in it. We practically say that in our judgment Dr. Forbes is sound of mind, sound of judgment. We must face the fact that in so doing we do not refuse, but accept as true, the grave charge made by Dr. Forbes against his wife, and against an official member of this church. They are not here to defend themselves, and the committee has not heard their side of the case. To accept the report of the committee under the circumstances is to render ex-parte judgment. I do not think we are present to vote that way. We should consider that the wife has rights as sacred as those of Dr. Forbes. The official member has as sacred rights as Dr. Forbes. He has made grave charges against these people and he withdraws none of them. If a man makes a statement he should be prepared to prove it. We should take no action that would commit us to either side of the case. Go slow about this matter or you lay yourselves open to the same situation with regard to other families."

In answer to Rev. Wm. McKinley, Rev. J. B. Hingley, of the committee, said: "The committee was engaged eight hours on this case. We questioned many witnesses, but did not hear the story of Dr. Forbes' wife, because she is in the East, and the member of the church implicated is in the West, so we could not hear his side of the story. We took all the testimony possible that came under the range of our consideration. More than a year ago Dr. Forbes was declared insane and he was treated. The conference refused to receive his statements. Since then he had improved mentally and physically, and while the committee was not prepared to pass upon the subject as experts, its members were prepared to recommend that their affected brother be taken into the service of the church again and assigned to work."

Mr. Hingley referred to the report as a compromise on the part of the committee, the best they could submit under the circumstances.

Rev. Thomas McClary said either Dr. Forbes was insane, or sane and bad, or one of these three conditions presented itself and must be faced.

Presiding Elder McKinley spoke of the work of a committee a year ago which had urged Dr. Forbes to become reconciled to his family and drop the charges, or else remove and keep away from St. Paul and abstain from the use of tobacco, which affected his nervous system.

Rev. L. F. Merritt put in an urgent plea in behalf of Dr. Forbes. Mr. Merritt said he had been a witness to the parting of the family, and heard the wife and eldest son say Dr. Forbes had always been kind to them. "I am sure as any man on this floor," Mr. Merritt stated with emphasis, "and I am willing to become surety for him before any court or jurisdiction for his good behavior. He has been a manly man for the past nine months, and we have no right to keep him a prisoner in Duluth or say where he shall not go."

At this point Bishop Goodsell remarked that the range of the debate was exceeding the proper limitations, and should be confined to a discussion of the question on the adoption of the report. Assent to this statement came from all parts of the church.

Rev. Dr. Holman said a grave and perplexing question was being raised. If Dr. Forbes was insane he should be continued in the supernumerary relation until he was declared fitted for work, and in order to do this he (Holman) was ready to head a subscription paper with $100 to support him another year. The committee had refused to answer the vital question, is Dr. Forbes sane or insane, and how, therefore, could the conference act intelligently on the question of his fitness for work.

He then asked if the committee knew from the authority of the court whether

Dr. Forbes had been discharged from the asylum as cured. This brought out the answer that he had been released as not dangerous. Dr. Holman then moved, as a substitute, for the report, the Dr. Forbes be continued in the supernumerary relation.

Rev. David Tice said he had known Dr. Forbes twenty-two years and had great sympathy for his brother, but it was impossible to vote that he be given an appointment until the sanity question was settled. "If his accusations are true he should have faced them like a man," Mr. Tice said.

This brought out explanations of an investigation begun last year, at the request of Dr. Forbes, but from which nothing came, the matter being dropped soon after it was taken up at the request of Dr. Forbes.

At this point Rev. H. C. Jennings moved that Dr. Forbes be heard and allowed to make a statement, and the man around whom so much interest centered walked with a firm and rapid step from the rear of the church to the front of the altar. He was greeted with applause and immediately after a death-like stillness prevailed, so eager were all to catch his every word. With the first sentence Dr. Forbes broke down and wept piteously the while, handing his handkerchief in a nervous manner, hastily removing it from his pocket to his eyes and then back to his coat, repeating the motion frequently.

"Such a scene, such a trial as is before me, would be apt to drive any man insane," were his first words, uttered between broken sobs. "I carried in secret the awful sorrow which has nearly wrecked my life, and did the work of residing elder two years before I confided it to a brother, and then he betrayed me." Dr. Forbes continued in a husky voice. "He did it innocently, however, and he is not here today. If I ever was mentally unbalanced it was because of the publicity given to this affair. When I am at work way off North among the miners, isolated from every one, it seems to me every one is pointing his finger at me and saying 'He's insane.' Many false rumors have been sent out about me. It was said I had mortgaged my household goods to secure money with which to speculate. This is not so. I insured them to keep them for my family."

He then in a terribly earnest and highly dramatic manner reiterated the charges against his wife, adding that he would not attempt to prove them even if the most positive evidence was in his possession. Dr. Forbes said he was homeless, and for eighteen months had not had, of his own, a pillow to lay his head on or a chair to sit in. Time and again he had wished that he might sink into obscurity or final oblivion in death. The very man whom he charged with breaking up his home was a petted and pampered member of the official board of the very church he had worked so hard to build up. If the accusations were not true, why did not this man cause his (Forbes') arrest on a charge of slander, or on other charges? Why had he not done this? Dr. Forbes said he had had this man in his house a whole year before his suspicions were aroused, and then he bade him depart quietly and without explaining the reason for requiring him to leave.

Dr. Forbes spoke feelingly of his family and said his last acts before the breaking up of his home was to entreat his wife not to leave and send his family to the four winds of heaven. That, he told her, would be the crowning feature of disgrace. Dr. Forbes then made an impassioned plea for active relations with the church, but placed himself in the hands of the conference and said he would accept his fate from the hands of his brethren. He spurred the offer of assistance made by Dr. Holman, and stretching out his right arm said he had strength and willingness to labor, and if necessary he would work on the streets for a living.

"Take me out on the street," he exclaimed, while tears rolled in streams down his face, "place a regiment of soldiers before me and command them to fire into this body over an open grave, but do not put me back into an asylum with a thousand howling maniacs."

Dr. Forbes spoke about half an hour, and during the recital of his troubles men and women in all parts of the church wept in sympathy with him. It was a solemn and pitiable spectacle, one that has never had a parallel in the history of Methodism in Minnesota, probably in the world. When he had ceased speaking Rev. Dr. Chaffee, Peter Clare, Dr. Bridgeman, H. C. Jennings and J. H. Dewar spoke in favor of the substitute and the adoption of the report. The debate was closed by a motion by Rev. H. C. Jennings to lay the substitute on the table; the substitute being that Rev. Dr. Forbes be continued in the supernumerary relation. The vote was: Yeas, 80; nays, 28.

The report of the committee recommending a supernumerary relation and an appointment for Dr. Forbes was then adopted, yeas, 101; nays, 8; the result being received with enthusiastic applause.

THE ADVANTAGES OF DULUTH.

A Boston Newspaper Man's Sketch of the Zenith City.

In a recent issue of the Boston Transcript appears a three-column article on the commerce of the great lakes and the chief ports through which it passes, written by Herbert Heywood, who visited Duluth ten days ago. He thus describes the trip from the Soo to Duluth: "As our ship rose in the fast-filling lock I boarded her, and we were soon out of the long canal and floating on the deep waters of that cold, ice-basined lake. Superior. At least it is supposed that the bottom, and sides of this lake are covered in ice, for that is the only way to account for the extreme coldness of the water even in midsummer. A day on this lake, and then a morning glorious as can only be seen in the Northwest. We were nearing port. A sparkling city extended up the hillsides as if laid out for display. I involuntarily exclaimed, 'So this is Duluth, the city of my dreams, the 'Zenith' city of the un-bled sea,' according to Proctor Knott. 'You have never been here before?'" a thoughtful looking man with serious eyes encircled with gold-bowed spectacles, who had come aboard at Marquette. "You see these wharves and docks? We have ten miles of them, and a water front of twenty-five miles. I have heard people say that it compared favorably with Boston or New York, considering that our city is really but six years old in development."

The Duluth man was scoring me beautifully, but he did it in such a calm, dispassionate way that it pleased me. "You are from Boston?" he queried, though why I can't tell. "I am, sir. 'Come up street with me, and I will show you a few points that may be of interest to you.' As we walked away from the crowded dock, across the viaduct and up the main street, he continued, 'You may have heard that the Soo line and Canadian Pacific have dropped the Boston and Duluth freight rate from $1.20 to $1.51 per hundred to meet the water competition and establish a heavy through business with the Northwest. Now, there is a chance for you Yankees to locate branch houses here and get a share in the jobbing business of the Northwest that St. Paul and Minneapolis have hitherto held.'

"What, compete with those old established houses that have held the trade for years?" "Why not, when we are just as near the retail merchants in Minnesota, Dakota and Montana, and have the enormous advantage over the Twin cities in that we save railroad freights of 300 miles from Chicago, a large item in a heavy jobbing business, that often turns the balance sheet?"

"Will not say that we will compete with and outdo the city of Chicago, because you have not been in this section long enough to believe me. But I will give you one point to think about. We are nearer to all points in the Northwest by over 300 miles than Chicago. We are nearer Omaha and Denver by 100 miles. We have railroad connections with all these points and facilities that are constantly improving. There is an economic problem; just figure it out for yourself."

"Now, my friend, you are going down to the hotel. I have a nest up on the hill, but before we part, possibly forever," and something almost akin to a smile passed over his thoughtful features, "let me mention two items of comparison between Chicago and Duluth. Chicago's wheat receipts for the year ending Dec. 31, 1891, were 42,000,000 bushels. Duluth's wheat receipts were 40,000,000 bushels. For the crop year ending the 31st of last month (August) Duluth received 51,000,000 bushels. I have not yet heard from Chicago," he added, with a suggestive adjustment of his gold-bowed eye-glasses with his left hand, and a very warm grasp with the right hand. "If Duluth is the abode of such men," I reflected, as I stood still, twined my mustache and gazed up the steep incline that my learned acquaintance was deftly climbing, by the assistance of the ladder-like cleats on the wooden sidewalk, "then Duluth must be the city of Destiny."

The stream of passengers was moving by me down the street when the affable steward of our vessel stepped aside and greeted me with, "You ain't lost already in this city, are you, sir?" "Oh, no, I was just thinking," I said. "Of what? Deep-water Thompson has been telling you," he said, and laughed uproariously. "Who's that?" I asked eagerly. "Deep-water Thompson? Why, he's the secretary of the Duluth chamber of commerce; the framer of the retaliation bill that shuts out Canadian vessels from the Soo canal; the agitator of ship canals and a twenty-foot waterway through the lakes, and so forth. Oh, you will hear more of him before you leave town." Then he, too, rushed on toward the luring enticements of the throbbing heart of Duluth.

The sight of many an eye has been irreparably ruined by the wrong adjustment of cheap spectacles. Dr. Matthez's presence in Duluth at the Spalding Hotel, Parlor D, offers the best security against such dangers. Scientific adjustment of perfect glasses and fitting frames to the eyes and face. Examination free. Dr. M.'s stay is limited to a short period.

COLUMBUS EXERCISES

Opening of the New York Celebration of the Four Hundredth Anniversary of America's Discovery.

The Event Was Ushered in Today by Special Services in the Various Jewish Synagogues.

The Rabbis Told Their Flocks of the Voyages of the Great Italian Navigator, Columbus.

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—After many months of preparation the great New York celebration of the 400th anniversary of the discovery of America by Columbus was ushered in today by special services in the various Jewish synagogues in this city. By Monday it is believed that hardly a house in the house in the city will be without some semblance of decoration in honor of the great event.

Today the rabbis will tell their flocks of the voyages of the great Italian navigator and his lessons; tomorrow the ministers and priests will tell the same stories to their congregations. This morning the Spanish and Portuguese congregation, the oldest congregation of Hebrews in this city, held services in the synagogue of the Fifth avenue and Nineteenth street. Rabbi Pereira Mendes officiated.

This congregation was formed 200 years ago by the Hebrews driven out of Spain in the famous expulsion of 1602, and the services this morning were out of the ordinary in consequence of the dual anniversary. The ancient ritual was read with traditional chants and the music consisted of melodies dating back prior to the expulsion. The rabbi delivered a special sermon.

In the sixteenth century street synagogue Dr. Rachman's subject was "Is Israel's Debt of Gratitude to Columbus and America?" In the Temple Emmanuel, Dr. Silverman addressed his congregation on "America, the Land of Promise." These are but few of the numerous exercises that are being held.

THE DALTON DESPERADOES.

Emmet Dalton, Who Was Wounded, Cannot Live Much Longer.

COFFEYVILLE, Kas., Oct. 8.—Trouble was narrowly averted yesterday when Sheriff Callahan indicated a desire to take Emmet Dalton, the wounded desperado, to Independence. Had he carried out the plan there would have been war, for although the citizens are willing that Dalton should receive all the care necessary they would not submit to his being moved. He cannot last much longer.

Mr. Broadwell and E. B. Wilcox, respectively brother and brother-in-law of Dick Broadwell, called "Texas Jack," arrived from Hutchinson yesterday. Wilcox said: "Although a cowboy we thought him to be straight and law abiding."

The funeral of Marshal Connelly took place yesterday. It was largely attended. The body was taken to Independence, the Missouri Pacific railway furnishing free of charge two coaches for the mourners. Cashier Ayers is still improving.

DEPEW WILL NOT SPEAK.

He Declines to Wait Until After the Midnight Hour.

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—It was announced yesterday that Dr. Chauncey M. Depew had declined to deliver the oration on Monday in Carnegie hall in connection with the Columbian celebration. He sent a letter to the committee over a week ago, but for some reason it has never been published and the matter kept a secret.

As a reason for the letter Mr. Depew said: "I suppose my turn to speak would have come on about 1 a. m. This musical program is very long and as they put me down for the 'amen' part I would have been obliged to open Tuesday's celebration."

KILLED AT A FUNERAL.

A Coach Thrown Down a Hill and the Coffin Smashed.

CREDE, Col., Oct. 7.—During the progress of the funeral procession with the body of a child of Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Bachelor to Jimtown, the forward coach containing the corpse, four women and the driver and another man, was precipitated down the hill, a distance of 150 feet, the coach turning over five times. All the occupants were injured, and one, Mrs. Likens, will die. The coffin was broken open but the body did not fall out.

THE CHOCTAWS RIOTOUS.

Fighting Over Disputed Rights to Offices and Property.

CHICAGO, Oct. 8.—Gen. Miles yesterday sent telegraph instructions to Col. Wade, commandant at Fort Reno, to send what troops were needed to suppress riotous disturbances in the Choctaw nation.

For some weeks the Indians have been fighting among themselves over disputed rights to office and property, and several prominent Choctaws were assassinated.

BAD PRAIRIE FIRES.

They Are Doing Much Damage South of the Missouri River.

MANDAN, N. D., Oct. 8.—A special messenger from Williston last night said the prairie fires south of the Missouri river extend thirty to 100 miles. Much of the range is burned and several ranches.

North of the river, the fire has burned over 60,000 acres. Live stock has been moved to other ranges.

Accepted the Honor.

LIVERPOOL, Oct. 8.—Mr. Gladstone today accepted the freedom of the city, which had been tendered him by unanimous vote of the municipal council. A prominent Conservative seconded the motion, which was made by a Liberal, to extend the honor to the premier.

THREE WERE BADLY BURNED.

A Family Caught in a Burning House in New York.

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—A kerosene lamp was upset in the room of Maurice Furman at 100 Seventh street, at an early hour this morning. The house caught fire and before a family living in the next apartment could escape, three of them were so badly burned that they were taken to the Gouverneur hospital. They were Racael Levine, 28 years old; Sarah Levine, 5 years; Ester Levine, 18 months old. The damage will not exceed $700.

THE INDIAN MURDERERS.

Two Full Blooded Chippewas Held by the Ashland Court.

ASHLAND, Wis., Oct. 8.—Old Cosonnee and his nephew, Money Penny, full blooded Chippewas, were held by the coroner's jury yesterday for the murder of Boneash and wife. The testimony of Joe Rain's wife gave clinching facts against them.

She was with Money Penny on the evening of the murder. She says the two met Cosonnee in his canoe lurking in ambush at the mouth of Wood river, passing the camp of Boneash and wife. Then Money Penny and Cosonnee put her in a canoe alone, making her go on while they turned back, presumably to the camp of Boneash and wife, where they committed the murder.

A BIG MINING DEAL.

The Controlling Interest of Four Black Hills Companies Bought.

DEADWOOD, S. D., Oct. 8.—One of the biggest mining deals in the history of the Black Hills is pending and will be closed up on the 11th inst., when final payment of the purchase price is to be made. The deal involved the transfer of a controlling interest in the capital stock of four corporations, the Mikado, Carthage, Calumet and Rose Hannibal companies. Each of the corporations is capitalized for $1,250,000. The mineral ground owned covers an aggregate of 110 acres.

The Deadwood and Delaware Smelting company, of this city, is the purchaser for a cash consideration, variously stated at from $250,000 to $500,000.

STOOD OFF THE OFFICERS.

Five Robbers did a Land Office Business in Illinois.

MONMOUTH, Ill., Oct. 8.—A gang of five robbers did a land office business in this county yesterday. The scene of operations was on board the trains on both lines of the Burlington. A man named Anderson, of Roseville, was relieved of $10 and a Galesburg man of $25. Several minor losses are also reported in this city.

Last evening the thieves were located in a west-bound passenger train. Officers attempted to capture them, but in true Jesse James style the bandits leaped from the train, flourishing their big guns in the faces of the waiting officers and made good their escape.

SERIOUS TROUBLE FEARED.

Gen. Weaver May Have a Hot Reception in Tennessee Today.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Oct. 8.—Gen. Weaver, who spoke at Goodlettsville yesterday to 500 people, will speak at Pulaski today. It is expected that several thousand persons, including a large number from other states, will be present.

Feeling is running high in Giles county, and there are still fears of trouble today, in the event Gen. Weaver attempts to denounce the people who have made serious charges on him in connection with certain acts while in command at Pulaski.

THE MYSTERY CLEARED.

A Wealthy Denver Man Became Insane While Going to Wales.

DENVER, Oct. 8.—The mystery surrounding the death of John Reese, the wealthy Denver man, who was supposed to have been murdered in New York, has been solved. He died in an almshouse in that city, which he had entered after escaping from an insane asylum in which he had been placed.

He became insane while on his way to Wales. His body was brought to Denver today by his son, who had spent several weeks in the East hunting for him.

DIED IN TWO MINUTES.

Suicide of a Leading North Carolina Cotton Buyer.

RALEIGH, N. C., Oct. 8.—David A. Beaver, for years a prominent cotton buyer here, committed suicide this morning at his room at the Yarbboro hotel.

He was drinking last night and at 2 o'clock this morning applied at the station house for protection, being then insane. Suddenly he drew a pen knife and stabbed himself in the right side of the neck. Death resulted in two minutes. His age was 45 and he was wealthy.

No Sealers Poaching.

OTTAWA, Ont., Oct. 8.—William G. Parmelee, commissioner of customs, has returned from a trip to James Bay. He inquired into the alleged poaching there of American whalers. He found that there was no such illicit traffic going on in the southern part of James Bay. Further north the Americans might engage in whale fishing, but he could get no information of their doing so to the south.

The Sault Traffic.

SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich., Oct. 8.—The traffic which passed through the Sault canal during the month of November amounted to 1,661,393 tons, of which 1,233,403 tons were eastbound and 427,990 tons westbound. The eastbound passengers numbered 1497, westbound 1472.

The contract for furnishing fixtures for the Methodist church has been awarded to the Phoenix Electric company.

HE WAS QUITE RIGHT.

A Citizen Who Voiced an Opinion Now Generally Held.

An Advanced Man's Views—The Proper Thing to do Nowadays.—A Discussion That is of Interest to Newspaper Readers.

"I would rather go to a man who knows all about one distinctive line of business and who practices that entirely, than to one who affects to know everything and whose experience in any direction is necessarily limited," said a prominent citizen recently in discussing the claims of physicians.

The gentleman who made the foregoing remarks a scholar and a scientist himself, by the way, gave utterance to an opinion now generally held by advanced men.

There can be no doubt that the specialists have every advantage over the general practitioner. A great many people understand this, and when they are troubled by a definite disease invariably seek the aid of a specialist. Indeed, it is the only thing to do, as in every instance, almost, where a patient takes a chronic disease to a doctor accustomed to treating only acute cases; he finds that the physician has neither time nor inclination to give him the treatment he requires.

It is often asked, "What do Drs. Copeland, Hunt and Drenning do?"

They do this:

They make a specialty of treating people afflicted with diseases of the nose, throat and lungs.

They require a small fee for a month's treatment—so small as to be within the reach of everybody—and they save to their patients the cost of a drug bill by furnishing medicines free.

Drs. Copeland, Hunt and Drenning are regularly graduated physicians and have a bill of health as clean as that of any physician in this city. Their training, their years of experience, their constant study of the character of diseases, splendidly equip them for their work.

They present to the public every week fresh instances of their ability and their mastery over their specialties. These testimonials are given in the hands of the persons furnishing them with the name, address and portrait of the patient, so that his words can be verified by anyone desiring to call upon him.

This is enough for those who care to do things right. After Drs. Copeland, Hunt and Drenning want to reach every man, woman and child in this city who has a disease of the nose, throat or lungs, and especially those who have been given up by other physicians, to submit the patient to the skill of the most earnest interest and of a strong determination to effect a cure in every case.

NASAL POLYPI.

This Annoying and Painful Affliction Described by a Victim.

(Nasal polypi are tumors that grow in the nasal cavities. They obstruct the passage of air through the nose, swell up in damp weather, give rise to frontal headaches, fits of sneezing and coughing, to asthma, facial neuralgia and pains in the neck and chest; they destroy the senses of smell, taste and hearing. The breath becomes fetid, the margins of the nostrils raw and excoriated, the eyes grow watery and the voice acquires a nasal tone.)

"I had tumors growing in my nose," said Mr. Thomas Barks, who resides at 17 Second avenue east, to the writer recently. "They had been growing there a long time," he continued, "how long I could not say. About a year ago I found that I could not breathe through my nose and I commenced to feel very bad. I had a dull oppressed feeling in my head, just as though there was an iron band about it."

"My nose was always discharging a thin sticky fluid, even at night I would have to put my handkerchief under my nose on the pillow to catch the drip from it."

"I was compelled to breathe through my mouth and my throat was inflamed and sore. At night I was awakened by an accumulation of phlegm in my throat which would choke me. In the morning I was all tired out, just as though I had not slept at all during the night. My tongue and teeth were coated with slime; I would be compelled to spend some time in hawking and raising to clear my throat. My appetite grew poor. My sense of taste and smell became bad. There were ringing noises in my ears, and I did not hear as well as formerly."

"My voice sounded as though I was talking through my nose, and I noticed that my nostrils were getting thick and puffed out on the sides."

"I went to a doctor and he charged me so much that I could not afford to let him treat me long, as I am a poor man and have to work hard for my living. Then I read about the Copeland Medical Institute and I went to their office."

"Dr. Drenning examined me carefully and told me that the passage of my nose was all stopped with little tumors or lumps of flesh, which he said came from neglected catarrh. Well, to make a long story short, the doctor didn't ask me how much money I had and then take it all, but he went to work as delicately and gently as could be, and he took those little lumps out of my nose one by one until he had taken twelve tumors out about the size of a bird's egg, and he didn't hurt me at all."

"When the doctor was through I found that I could breathe through my nose for the first time in over a year. Then he treated my catarrh and now I eat well, sleep well, and best of all, I feel well and strong as I ever did in my life. I want to say in conclusion that the physicians of Copeland Medical Institute did not charge me any more for restoring my health than the other doctor did for one visit I paid him."

The original copy of the statements published here from time to time, are on file in the office of the Copeland Medical Institute and may be seen at any time by those interested.

Testimony of Friends and Neighbors.
MR. ALEXANDER RHODES, room 41, 611 Hennepin building: "My trouble was catarrh of the nose. After being treated for one month at the Copeland Medical Institute I am confident of a cure. I feel like a new man."

MR. G. W. ROSE, New Duluth: "My trouble was rheumatism and catarrh. The physicians of the Copeland Medical Institute treated me. I am very grateful to them and can conscientiously recommend them to all in need of skillful medical service."

MRS. H. C. WARD, 717 Garfield avenue: "I can say to those suffering from catarrh that I have been treated by the physicians of the Copeland Medical Institute. I am sure that they done more for me than all the physicians that I ever tried before."

MR. CHAS. BLOSSOM, conductor on Superior street electric line, resides at 312 Nineteenth avenue east: "My trouble was catarrh of the head. Drs. Copeland, Hunt and Drenning treated me. I recommend all suffering as I did to try the physicians of the Copeland Medical Institute before they say catarrh is incurable."

MRS. ANNA IERLAND, residing at 516 Fourth avenue west: "I am thankful to Drs. Copeland, Hunt and Drenning for what they have done for me. I feel like a new woman."

MRS. SARAH JOHNSON, residing at 215 West Superior street: "Drs. Copeland, Hunt and Drenning cured me of lumbago—muscular rheumatism of the back."

MR. ALEXANDER McDONALD, who resides at 1122 East Fourth street, says: "I had had catarrh of the head, throat and stomach for eight years. The physicians of the Copeland Medical Institute have improved my condition so much that I feel that I will soon be entirely well."

MR. D. P. McDONALD, of 2428 West Superior street, says: "I am an enthusiastic believer in the skill of the physicians of the Copeland Medical Institute. They did for me what other physicians failed to do."

$5 A MONTH.

During October, catarrh and kindred diseases treated at the uniform rate of $5 a month, medicines free. For all other diseases the rates will be low and uniform and in proportion to the actual cost of the medicines required.

Treatment by Mail.

To the Public: The system of mail treatment pursued by Drs. Copeland, Hunt and Drenning guarantees the same effective results to those who desire to submit their cases through correspondence as to those who come in person. Their "question blank," if properly filled out, will diagnose your case in a thorough way, and as medicines are promptly shipped, those living out of the city have the same advantage as those who come to the office.

Write for the treatment by mail, medicines free, and rid yourself of the most painful and annoying disease in the catalogue of human ills.

NOTABLE CREDENTIALS.

The location of the offices of the Copeland Medical Institute in the city of Duluth is a permanent one. Their leases and contracts are for a term of years.

Dr. Copeland is a graduate of the Bellevue Hospital Medical College of New York City, was president of his class in that famous institution, and, after thorough hospital training and experience, devoted his entire time and attention to the special lines of practice named below. Passed through a similar course, Dr. Hunt and Dr. Drenning also devote themselves exclusively to the treatment of these specialties. Years of experience in their special lines, preceded by extensive hospital work, have fitted them in a notable degree for the practice of their profession.

The Weather.

U. S. WEATHER BUREAU, DULUTH, MINN., Oct. 8.—The storm that was centered over lower Canada yesterday has moved eastward and is now centered over New England. It was accompanied by heavy showers along the lakes and high winds, but it is about over now. The temperature fell somewhat in some sections and the warmest weather is reported from the N. E. coast, this morning, where the thermometer registers 30°, at several points, over the 700 ft. and Southwest it is in the forties, and north of Minnesota in the thirties.

An area of high barometric pressure over the Western part of the country will enter over Nebraska and Iowa, and a low is forming over the extreme Northwest, and will probably move east today and bring slightly warmer weather by tomorrow.

The highest temperature here yesterday was 51°, the lowest last night 25°. The mean yesterday was 48°, the average amount for the day.

DULUTH, Oct. 7.—Continued fair, slight change in temperature, northerly wind becoming variable.

Local Forecast Official.
 B. H. BRONSON.
 Washington, Oct. 8.—Forecast till 8 p. m. tomorrow: For Wisconsin: Fair Sunday, preceded by local showers in lower Wisconsin today; fresh S. and S. W. winds; warmer Monday morning; northerly winds. For Minnesota: Fair; warmer; winds shifting to southerly.

The Lake Waterway.

According to the census of 1890 there were 1,301,826 people in Minnesota, of whom about one-seventh reside in the Sixth district. The people living in this district are deeply interested in the transportation facilities afforded on the great lakes, at the extreme western extremity of which Duluth is situated. The farm products of the fertile section lying at the very gateway of this great inland ocean must be carried from Duluth to the Atlantic. Over the same route must come westward a vast proportion of the clothing and household articles as well as the coal and manufactures of all kinds which are required upon these farms and in the cities and towns in the district.

It is of the highest importance that all needed improvements be made at an early date in the connecting channels of this great waterway and in the harbors of the leading ports. Every dollar spent upon these improvements means a benefit of many dollars to the thousands of people living in the Sixth district, as well as to the residents in other parts of the Northwest. Improved transportation facilities will result in lower freight rates. This will give the farmer a better price for his wheat, because it will cost less to carry it from the farm to the seaboard. It will likewise enable him to get the goods and the fuel from the East which he requires at much lower prices. In 1887 the cost per ton per mile of transporting the freight which passed through the Sault canal was 2.3 mills. In 1890 by reason of the improvements which had been made in the waterways the cost per ton per mile had been reduced to 1.3 mills.

This remarkable reduction within three years in the cost of carrying freight is unquestionably due in great part to the increasing size and carrying capacity of the vessels. The increase in the vessels' size would not have been possible had not the channels between Duluth and Buffalo been deepened and otherwise improved. The entire lake traffic of 1890 was carried at a cost to the shipper of $22,041,008. Had this freight been carried by land at the average cost of carrying freight by rail, which the statistician of the interstate commerce commission states is 9.22 mills per ton, the service would have cost the public $157,000,000. Upon this basis, therefore, the saving to the public by water transportation on the lakes in a single year was $135,000,000. It should also be remembered that this saving to the public is in addition to the undoubted saving which has resulted from the effect on rail-freight rates produced by the competition of the water route.

In the great movement of flour and breadstuffs from the interior of the country to the Eastern market and to the seaboard for export, lake transportation is a predominating factor. In 1887 the average rate on lake freights on wheat from Duluth to Buffalo was 6.6 cents, while in 1890 it was only 3 cents, a reduction in three years of 3.6 cents. This will show the farmers of the Sixth district the great benefits which they must derive from the further improvement of the lake waterway. For all time to come the products of this rich district will pass through Duluth and over this waterway to the seaboard.

In considering the future development of this lake commerce, the question of deeper channels stands first and foremost. A twenty-foot channel between Duluth and Buffalo is an urgent necessity. With the completion of this channel must come the deepening of the harbors of the various lake ports. Duluth's harbor must be improved, and large appropriations will be required from congress for that purpose. At the same time there is a strong movement to establish deep-water communication between the lakes and the Atlantic ocean.

The whole sixth district, as well as Duluth, is vitally interested in this subject. Earnest and intelligent work in congress will be required in behalf of these important improvements.

The Sixth district must therefore send to congress a man who can ably represent it on these vital questions. Such a man is Maj. M. R. Baldwin. There is no commercial body in the country that has done more than the Duluth chamber of commerce in furtherance of this great work. As president of the chamber, Maj. Baldwin has labored hard in this direction. He has carefully studied all the points involved in these questions. He has fully informed himself regarding the needs of the lake waterway. He is prepared with facts and figures to show the members of congress from other districts the remarkable growth of our domestic and foreign commerce on the great lakes, the great benefits that the public have derived from the improvements already made by reason of reduced freight rates and the urgent need of liberal appropriations for further improvements that will result in still greater benefit to the people. He is fully equipped in this respect to do able service for the whole Sixth district.

Judge Searle and A. C. Parsons, the other candidates, have no special knowledge on this important subject. They are not competent at present to deal with it. Judge Searle has acknowledged that he knows but little about it. Wisdom therefore would dictate that Maj. Baldwin be selected by the people of the Sixth district to represent them in Washington. From the extremely favorable reports received from many parts of the district, The Herald believes that a large majority are of this opinion and that they will carry it into effect by voting for Maj. Baldwin next month.

The Low Wheat Prices.

The wheat trade is in a depressed condition at present. The market has a little flurry every few days, but it is only a flurry and it then settles back into its old rut. Of course there is considerable trading during the present month. October is usually characterized by a large movement of all kinds of grain to the seaboard prior to the closing of navigation and as the exports of wheat are now very heavy a firm tone will very likely prevail during the entire month.

Wheat prices, however, are lower than they ought to be, judging from a broad statistical standpoint, and it is difficult to find a good reason for the depression. From the commercial and semi-official returns of the world's wheat crop it is estimated that there is a shortage from last year of 50,000,000 bushels. The United Kingdom and the United States are the only countries carrying over much of a surplus. All other countries report a light or much below an average stock. It is noteworthy also that the world's crop of rye, maize and American corn shows a deficiency from last year of 32,000,000 bushels. The ocean visible of wheat is over 17,000,000 bushels less than a year ago. The estimated average weekly requirements of England and the continent are for the coming year 6,125,000 bushels.

All these facts would seem to warrant higher prices, and yet there are a number of circumstances which have a bearish effect on the market. One of these is the large shipment of wheat from the Black Sea, although it is said the greater portion of it has been taken by German, French and Italian buyers. Shipments by farmers to terminal points in this country have also been large, and the present large stocks of wheat at Duluth, Minneapolis, Chicago, and other centers must also be regarded as a constant menace to prices.

It may therefore be suggested that the situation would be improved if the farmers would hold back their wheat, instead of flooding the markets with the new crop, but this can hardly be urged with much safety, in view of the experience of last year. Then many of the farmers followed the advice of the "hold-your-wheat circulars," and when spring came and they sent their wheat to market they received lower prices than they could have secured earlier in the crop year. Any advice now, therefore, in this respect cannot be based upon a certainty that it will be advantageous to the farmers.

In another column today will be found an extract from an interesting three-column letter written to the Boston Transcript by a correspondent who recently visited Duluth. It was his first visit here and he was astounded at the vastness of the lake commerce, and was likewise convinced that Duluth has a great future and possesses advantages which invite the attention of those who are looking for the best trade center to establish a wholesale business.

The question of the United States as a nation taking hold of the construction of the Nicaragua canal is arousing considerable interest. It is a subject that will probably engage attention at the next session of congress. The Herald presents today a mass of information regarding this great project, the article being accompanied by maps showing the exact location of the canal and giving a table of distances that indicate its importance.

The election of Maj. Baldwin is now claimed by the St. Cloud Times to be an absolute certainty, as will be seen by its recent article on the subject reproduced in this issue. The Searle men already know this to be a fact and they are now endeavoring to bolster up their weak cause by a game of bluff and claiming everything. St. Louis county should make Maj. Baldwin's plurality overwhelming.

The statement is frequently made that the public domain of the United States is fast being exhausted and that soon all the vacant lands will be occupied. The last annual report of the general land commissioner, however, shows that there are still 567,586,784 acres of vacant lands in the several states and territories; There are 6,510,611 acres of vacant government lands in Minnesota.

The Saturday Herald continues to lead all competitors. Today's edition of sixteen pages is convincing evidence of this fact.

AMUSEMENTS.

"The Hunchback."

The audience that greeted Julia Marlowe at the Temple last evening was as flattering as on the evening previous and was far none cordial and demonstrative. This was owing doubtless to the play, for while "The Hunchback" has more of the incomparable lines that are characteristic of Shakespeare's productions yet it has more of the dramatic in the features that go to make a drama than has "Cymbeline" and therefore is more pleasing to the average theater goer. Miss Marlowe as Julia is charming. There may be actresses greater, but she has the power of warming an audience to her at once. Every action, every gesture and every pose is perfectly natural and seemingly unconscious, nothing studied or strained. Robert Taber as Sir Thomas Clifford reads his lines almost perfectly and acts the part well, his stagginess being his only failing. H. A. Weaver as "The Hunchback" was admirable. Miss Eugenia Lindeman as Helen was excellent, her love scenes with her beautiful cousin being especially good. Giles Shine as Fathom, the slow and deliberate footman, was comical. The company presents "Ingomar" at Superior this evening.

Take the Incline car tomorrow afternoon and enjoy the concert at the Pavilion and a ride on the Highland car.

RUNNING CHANCES

of the baby breaking your watch may not result in any damage to your timepiece and loss to your pocket, but there are risks and risks. Some risks you can run without much danger; others you cannot. Missing an early inspection of your stock of Domestic and Imported Novelties is one of the chances you can't run without incurring a loss. In this case two things are certain: This stock is superior to anything ever offered before, and it is most assuredly superior to anything else now shown in this city. It is sometimes a loss of money not to spend it and it is certainly losing money to miss securing some of these specialties.

RAILWAY RUMBLES.

The average daily earnings of a railroad locomotive are about $100.

The New York and New England road will try the experiment of employing girls on its dining cars instead of colored men.

The Big Four statement of earnings for the year ending June 30, 1892, shows a total of $13,818,116; operating expenses, $9,538,542; operating cost, per cent., 87.13; net earnings, $4,279,572.

In addition to the Cotton Belt's double daily express train service between Fort Worth and Memphis the company now furnishes a through car for Cairo for the accommodation of the northern patrons of the line.

The Central Pacific railroad has some monster engines in use on the western end of its route—those made at the Sacramento shops in 1883. Each of these gigantic locomotives weighs, exclusive of tender, 123,000 pounds.

The cost of the projected Central railroad in Illinois is estimated at $1,700,000. The rearrangement of the existing railway conditions in Hamburg and Altona will entail a total expenditure of $2,700,000, of which $1,000,000 has already been voted by the Prussian government.

The latest scheme in the line of burglar proof express cars is a revolving shield. Judging by the illustrations showing the contrivance the robber places himself in front of a hole through which the messenger shoots. There are no peepholes by which the intending robber can be located.

ONE PRICE AND THAT RIGHT.

AMERICAN STORE.

Have you bought your dress? If not, look sharp; the time is ripe in this, the place.

The October Number of Modes and Fabrics now ready. We charge nothing for it, and it's good.

CLOAKS AND DRESS GOODS AND TRIMMINGS.

Cloaks,

It has been a subject of comment by ladies passing up and down in the elevator that the Cloak room is always filled with a congregation of ladies. Though it is a bright room and comfortable, that is not the cause of these everyday gatherings. It is the CLOAKS—the Cloaks that are there. CLOAKS of a character and style so superior to any shown in this country; CLOAKS that appeal to the intelligence of every lady; CLOAKS not only GOOD and BETTER, but the BEST obtainable anywhere; CLOAKS created with the combination of the best fabrics and best workmanship and most skillful artists in the world. And the magnet is there, that all powerful reasoner—the price; the price is the smallest element in every garment. They are selling very speedily.

Dress Goods,

It sounded strange to hear Max O'Neil define Dress Fabric "as a causer of content or discontent, the king pin of womanly attire, the causer of the acme of bliss or the gloom of despair, an element to sooth the spirit and brighten the very existence of the female world," in fact, a question of good Dress Goods or bad Dress Goods, a question of being rightly dressed or wrongly dressed. Oscar Wilde said about his wife, "If poorly garbed she's miserable; in a garb that's right—a queen." We find a remarkable demand for the finest fabrics made: the English Hermines for Tailor Suitings; the French Melanges for Tailor Finished Dresses; the 54-inch Corkscrew Cloths, the 54-inch Broadcloths, the 54-inch Amazons, the 52-inch Drap D'Ete, the Melrose Cheviots in Grey Mixtures—and all these Imported Suitings sold so extensively in Eastern cities. We sell Dress Goods that are right, at RIGHT PRICES, is the cause of such a constant rush at the Dress Goods counters.

Dress Trimmings

Are in many respects similar to jewelry; yet old-styled Dress Trimmings are even more ridiculous than old-styled jewelry. A little Trimming of the right kind on the right cloth is indispensable this season, yet the wrong Trimming is worse than none, a hundred times over. Neat, dainty effects are the favorites, and some of the dresses Mme. Steiner is turning out show conclusively what a wonderful transformation can be effected by producing the proper gown correctly trimmed for the person that is to wear it. Trimming Velvets at from $1.15 up to $4 are selling considerably for the Zouave effects. They are very, very pretty.

NOTE: The cause of such an extensive trade here is because we sell good, reliable and stylish wares only, for less than is asked for inferior styles and wares. We find special sales and exaggerations unnecessary to sell our wares, and decline to exaggerate in any form.

ELEGANT SOUVENIRS GIVEN AWAY.

GRAND FALL OPENING

FREIMUTH'S

MONDAY, TUESDAY, WEDNESDAY AND THURSDAY,

October 10th, 11th, 12th and 13th

Is the date of our GRAND OPENING, and we are now ready for an active Fall Business. Come and see our remodeled establishment. For the last four months we have had carpenters, bricklayers, plasterers, elevator men, painters, paperhangers, etc., working almost night and day improving and enlarging, adding two more stories to our store, putting in elevators, building skylights and making many other improvements. We now feel satisfied that we have given Duluth as perfect a Dry Goods Store that any city of four times the size would be proud of. We have added a number of new departments and have enlarged our old ones. While busy at home making improvements, our buyers were just as busy in the market, picking up the cream of the manufacturers' product and securing besides hundreds of special bargains of merit and value.

We are determined to keep up our reputation for selling only meritorious merchandise at the lowest possible prices. Those are the two things that made our store so popular, and it will be the LOW PRICES and the RELIABLE GOODS THAT WILL MAKE OUR STORE ALWAYS THE POPULAR TRADING CENTER AT THE HEAD OF THE LAKES. Our present stock has never been equalled, neither in style nor quality, by us in any former season, and we will freely say that St. Paul or Minneapolis are not showing a larger or better class of Dry Goods than we are. WE INVITE A CORDIAL INSPECTION AND COMPARISON.

To introduce our different departments, and to make the people of Duluth and Superior better acquainted with the different lines we have added, we will offer during our opening in each and every department

Bargains Never Equalled or Heard of.

See tomorrow's paper for our List of Bargains.

WILL THEY DISAGREE?

That is Now the Question Asked By Everybody as to the Jury in the Houck Murder Case.

The Twelve Men Have Been Out Since Yesterday Forenoon and Apparently Are as Far Off as Ever.

Many Reports as to the Standing of the Jury But All Are Unreliable—May Be Out Over Sunday.

The jury in the Houck case is still out and so far as known with a good prospect of being out forever or reporting a disagreement. It was 10 o'clock yesterday morning when the twelve members filed out of the court room to commence their deliberations. The crowd of spectators waited until noon to hear the verdict, when they came back after dinner and waited until night but no jury came. At noon, in charge of a deputy he twelve were taken down to the Merchants hotel for dinner. At night they were taken there also for supper. All night they remained out and in the morning, about 6:30 o'clock, again went to the merchants for breakfast. Again this noon they were there at dinner, all looking rather weary and worn, and yet on some cases could almost be read a resigned determination to hold out.

There have been some reports this morning as to how the jury stands, but all these may be set down as improbable. The report says that seven stand for acquittal, three for murder in the first degree and two for murder in the second degree. As a matter of fact no one knows, not even the deputy sheriff guarding the door of the jury room, where seems to be a general opinion, however, that some are holding out for acquittal and will not compromise. It is quite probable that Judge Stearns will keep them out over Sunday. The trial has been a very expensive one for the county and it would be unfortunate if it comes necessary to go over the whole thing again.

A Distressing Accident.

Harry Brown, a son of Capt. W. H. Brown, of Duluth, was the victim of a most distressing accident early Wednesday morning thirteen miles out on the eastern county road. He and Bert McAmara left Tower the previous day to shoot partridges. McAmara's gun accidentally exploded, and the entire charge entered Brown's right lower hip with fearful results. He was removed to a neighboring homestead and was brought to Duluth. He will recover.

ONCE PUBLISHED A PAPER.

C. E. Shannon's Experience in Newspaper Work in Southern Minnesota.

Few people of Duluth know that C. E. Shannon was ever in the newspaper business. Well, he was, and that's why that look of deep melancholy sometimes overcasts his face. Judge Shannon was one of the early day publishers of the upper Minnesota valley.

One day a number of years ago, he and his partner were running a little paper at Minnesota Falls and they ran out of—not money—but news. There was absolutely nothing doing in the little town, and the editorial staff hunted in vain for something to fill the columns with. At last Shannon's partner said: "Let's take an hour off and go to our respective homes and think up the biggest lie we can and we will print the composition of the greatest merit." This was agreed upon and the newsless editors went to their homes to concoct a gigantic fake (that is what it is called nowadays) for the edification of their readers.

Judge Shannon did not get back to the editorial room for several hours, in fact he did not try to write a line. He staid at home and coaxed the mythical potato bug and the energetic squash worm to "come off their perch," and when he thought his partner was back at the office he went there and said to him: "Now I know you've got the biggest lie, so read it and we will publish it." The partner produced his manuscript and read a thrilling story of a flour mill which was run by water power, and which for some unaccountable reason stopped and refused to run any more, although the water still continued to flow through the race.

The millers were mystified and examined the burrs, the belts and every part of the machinery, but all things appeared to be O. K. Then the head miller (so the fake ran) ordered the head gate of the mill race shut down and lo! and behold! the "cassu belli" was soon apparent. The 400 feet of the race soon ran out of water and the entire distance was filled to a depth of eight feet with fish, and a gigantic cat fish had run its head into the turbine wheel and stopped the machinery.

The story was printed, and next day the farmers drove from near and far to get some of the fish which were spoken of as "being given away by wagon loads." They did not get any, and Shannon and his partner took a vacation for a few days. But the best joke of the fake was that the item was copied by newspapers all over America as a fact and was generally believed.

KITCHI GAMMI ELECTION.

The "Fun Chasers" as They Term Themselves Select Officers.

The annual meeting of the members of the Kitchi Gammi club was held Tuesday evening for the election of Some seventy-five gentlemen were present, G. G. Hartley presiding. On motion of Walker Ayers, Luther Mendenhall was named for president, being followed immediately by the mention of A. H. Viele's name, but the latter in a few cordial and appropriate words at once retired in the interest of Mr. Mendenhall suggesting also that the vote be cast unanimously for the latter gentleman. Mr. Ayers in a graceful speech presented the idea to the club, which the burst of applause told was most favorably received.

Meantime the recipient of this unsought honor comfortably seated before a blazing grate enjoying "all the comforts of home," little dreamed of the doings of his friends, until the following day. As Mr. Mendenhall has been instrumental in the successful establishment of the club, the election was particularly appropriate. The other officers are: G. G. Hartley, vice president; C. J. Kershaw, Jr., secretary; house committee, Walter Ayers, F. W. Paine; directors, Walter Ayers, E. C. Jones, C. J. Kershaw, Jr., C. D. Wright, F. H. Frisbie. The latter gentleman still continuing in general charge of the club management.

After the details of business affairs were settled a choice repast was served by Mr. Sheldon. Duluth is known as possessing many advantages, but its club is ahead of anything of its kind in any city of its size throughout the country. Now if the ladies may only come and go a little more freely at, say lunch and dinner hour, without any expression of "Why are you here," observable in masculine faces, things will have reached a charming degree of perfection.

Nothing Like It.

For some years past there has been many times asked why Duluth did not have a first-class art gallery. Such a place where connoisseurs of fine art could both exhibit their work and where others desiring to purchase could find a desirable collection from which to make a selection.

The La Vague Paint & Wall Paper company have attempted to fill this call of the people and will leave it for them to determine to what extent the want has been filled. Early in June last they commenced building a 4-story addition to their already commodious store. An art gallery 35 by 25 with skylight above handsomely decorated is about ready for an informal inspection of the public the coming week, due announcement of which will be made in the daily papers. It can be safely said that outside of Chicago there is nothing to be found like it in the West. It is the desire of the La Vague Paint & Wall Paper company to have the Duluth people generally call and inspect the gallery.

The ladies are especially invited to inspect the gallery at all times, and to make it a convenient meeting place when desiring to meet other ladies and shopping, etc. The coming week we shall have on exhibition a number of original paintings from the leading artists of the country, together with a choice selection of water colors, remarkable proofs, etchings, engravings, etc. A very choice line of mouldings have lately been received which we should be glad to have you inspect.

The City band will give a concert at the Pavilion Sunday afternoon. The Highland electric cars are running regularly. Take advantage of this opportunity and visit this beautiful property.

IRON ORE SHIPMENTS.

Nearly One Million Tons Shipped So Far This Season.

The iron ore shipments from the port of Two Harbors for the week ending Oct. 6, amounted to 38,956 tons, making the total shipments for 1892 from the various mines as follows:

Minnesota.....	415,625
Chandler.....	562,992
Florent.....	3,328
Zenith.....	11,046
Total.....	992,991

For an October week, the above tonnage is surprisingly good, and is in keeping with the record of the whole season, says the Two Harbors Iron News. In addition thereto the Sagamore, Mariposa and Minch were loaded Thursday night, making an aggregate of over 45,000 tons for the week, an excess of 15,000 over the tonnage promised for the week. Rough water at the lower end of the lake has delayed arrivals materially. It is probable that no night work will be done after next week. The night crew will be added to the day crew. It now requires five figures to express the Zenith shipments.

Hard to Overcome

It is a difficult matter to overcome prejudice. We speak from experience; for this is the only reason anyone can give for not using SNOW FLAKE BAKING POWDER; the U. S. Government uses it in preference to all others. We guarantee every can.

Final Assessment

For Sanitary Sewer Through Blocks 18, 19, 20, 21 and 22, Endion Division of Duluth.

Office of the Board of Public Works, City of Duluth, Minn., Oct. 8, 1892. Notice is hereby given that a contract has been completed for the construction of a sanitary sewer through blocks 18, 19, 20, 21 and 22, Endion division of Duluth, in the city of Duluth, Minnesota, from Fourteenth avenue east to Nineteenth avenue east; that the board of public works of said city will meet at their office in the city hall, in said city, on Tuesday, the 15th day of October, A. D. 1892, at 10 o'clock a. m., to make an assessment of the sum of three thousand seven hundred six ($3,706) dollars and fifty-two (52) cents upon the real estate benefited by such sanitary sewer, for the purpose of raising money to in full defray the expense thereof.

The following lands situated in said city, viz: The north half of blocks 18, 19, 20, 21 and 22, Endion division of Duluth, are deemed benefited by said sanitary sewer and will be so assessed unless cause be shown why any of them should not be so assessed.

LAND OFFICE REPORT

Recapitulation of the Transactions in the Local Office Here During Three Months Just Ended.

One Hundred and Seventeen Cash Entries and 454 Homestead Entries—Resume of Other Business.

Arrivals and Departures of Passenger Trains During September—Missabe Road Now on the List.

The quarterly report of the United States land office for July, August and September was completed yesterday. The figures are about $2000 in excess of the corresponding quarter last year and shows a remarkable increase in business. There has been quite a demand for lands supposed to contain mineral deposits. At several times there was such a demand for the same pieces that there was a decided rush.

There were 117 cash entries, covering 657 and 65-100 acres, amounting to $12,882.28; 154 homestead entries, covering 59,033 and 11-100 acres, amounting to $5527.63; 7 declaratory statements, $14; 12 soldiers and sailors' declaratory statements, $24; 3 military bounty land warrants, covering 320 acres, $8; 20 final homestead entries, covering 2531 and 25-100 acres, $67.70; plats and proofs, $351; total, $18,074.40.

WANTS ITS COKE USED.

Lehigh Valley Company Sues the West Duluth Furnace Company.

The Lehigh Valley Coal & Iron company has brought suit for $20,000 against the West Duluth Furnace company. The plaintiff was furnishing coke for the defendant, but the latter learned that it was receiving coke of inferior quality and at a higher cost than it could be obtained for in the East. The examination was held before Court Commissioner Steele in Superior yesterday. The suit grows out of a contract held by the Lehigh company to furnish coke to the Furnace company. The defendants claim that while the agreement calls for Connellville coke, the coke received is made from a combination of Connellville and Reynoldsville coke, which is practically worthless to them. On this ground Messrs. Crerar and Himrod, president and vice president of the West Duluth Furnace company, hope to win the suit.

HIGH SCHOOL SOCIETIES.

Three Were Organized This Week and Elected Officers.

Three societies have been organized at the High school within the past week, the High School Literary society, the Lyceum League of America, and the High School Musical society. Of the literary society Robert Shannon was elected president, Margaret Faucette, vice president, Bert Shaw, treasurer. The Lyceum league elected the following: President, Cortland Holliday; vice president, William Morris; recording secretary, Maud Smith; corresponding secretary, Rena Smith; treasurer, M. Stevens; standing committee, Messrs. Johnson, Morris and Connors. Of the musical society, A. F. M. Custance is president and director, Clarence Foyler, vice president, Emma Snider, secretary.

Superior Happenings.

Alderman A. A. Cross, of Superior, superintendent of the Great Northern elevators, is to succeed John Mather as manager of the Superior Water Light & Power company when the latter goes to Seattle to take charge of the water company there.

A wreck occurred in the Eastern Minnesota yards yesterday afternoon about 150 feet from the freight depot, where the Terminal line crosses the tracks of the Eastern. An Eastern switch engine was drawing some cars and a Terminal engine ran directly into them at the crossing. Three or four cars were thrown from the track and considerably damaged.

Water Connections.

The season is rapidly advancing and the time for making water connections is consequently growing shorter. During the present season the Gas and Water company has made more water connections than in any previous summer in the city's history. As will be seen by the company's advertisement in this issue, property owners who have not yet had such connections made will find it profitable to have the work done before the cold weather sets in. The company is also offering special inducements to every one to use gas for illuminating purposes.

A VARIEGATED AUDIENCE.

Judge Powell Has Some Women Before Him for Slander This Morning.

Judge Powell had a variegated audience in the municipal court this morning. Mrs. Adele Rena, a dark-eyed French woman, was up for striking Florida La Tour with a stick of wood. She admitted the charge, but as there were extenuating circumstances she was to have a further hearing before the court next Tuesday at 2 o'clock. She was released on her own recognizance.

Mrs. Clara Graham, Mrs. Geraldine Low and Miss Hattie Low were before the court on the complaint of Mrs. Eliza Jane Wood, who charged them with procuring to the West End neighborhood that Mrs. Wood was a woman of bad reputation and that she was living with four men and was not married to either of them. The accused pleaded not guilty and will be tried by the court Tuesday at 2 o'clock. On motion of the city attorney they were allowed to depart without bail on promising to appear when wanted.

That mythical John Smith, charged with being drunk, failed to appear and his bail of $15 was declared forfeited. John Carlson, John West, Mat Mathewson, M. Sullivan and Nick Burk, for imbibing too freely, took the usual option of $10 or ten days. J. J. O'Grady and Frank Woods were arraigned on complaint of Charles M. Nunnemacher for stealing twenty-four quart bottles of beer, and pleaded not guilty. A jury was waived and they will be tried Monday at 2 o'clock, with bail in each case at $25. Dan Ryan, for stealing a $15 pea-jacket coat, will be tried at the same time, the bail being the same.

The Duluth Presbytery.

The Presbytery for this district will meet at the Presbyterian church in Two Harbors Tuesday evening next. It will be opened with a sermon by the moderator. Wednesday will be devoted to the business of the session. In the evening a popular meeting will be held. Dr. Dr. Ringland will address the meeting on the closing of the World's fair on Sunday. Twenty-four ministers and elders will be in attendance, among them Dr. Adams, of Minneapolis, the synodical missionary.

Alleged Embezzlement.

Mrs. Mary E. Willner was arrested yesterday at the instance of Miss Tina Smith on the charge of embezzling $120. She has been in Miss Smith's employ at No. 120 West Superior street. She was arraigned in the municipal court and released on her own recognizance, the case being postponed for a week.

House for Rent.

And artists' materials. Engravings 20 by 24, special sale, to cents each. H. J. CAWCURT, 16 Second avenue west.

A Fact Worth Knowing.

Stigmatism, which is the inability to see lines running in the different directions equally distinct, is the principal cause of defective sight, and by far the most annoying, and is only detected and corrected by one who is thoroughly acquainted and practiced in the application of the scientific tests. In such cases not only must special lenses be provided, but they must also be mounted just the proper way, as the same fitted any other way will be positively hurtful. A divided responsibility in prescribing and providing glasses, leaves room for the specialist to blame the optician and the latter the former, thus causing the patient additional expense and annoyance, but one should be employed in such cases, one whose time is wholly occupied in making these tests, and who also provides the glasses, overcomes the difficulty and assumes the responsibility. Such is Dr. Mather, at the Spalding office, room D. His office is provided with all the scientific tests, and he is thoroughly competent and practiced in the use of the tests, and instead of subjecting the patient's eyes to a treatment which interferes with the sight for weeks, he, by his scientific ability, obtains the full correction. He charges nothing for preliminary examination. Those whose eyes trouble them from optical defect will secure permanent relief by applying to him, and will also save money. It is wise to make engagements to save waiting.

For sale.

A 5-year-old colt by Allie Gaines, that has trotted quarters by the watch in thirty-six seconds with only one season's handling. Three-quarter brother to J. B. ### Hon. Geo. R. Davis.

Director General of the World's Fair says: "I regard Bethesda water the best in the market." As a remedy for the kidneys and urinary organs Bethesda never fails. Thousands of sufferers have been cured by Bethesda water, since the discovery of its medical qualities in 1838. It is put up in sealed half-gallon glass bottles, reaching the consumer in all its sparkling purity. Sold by druggists everywhere. S. F. Boyce, Duluth, general agent.

COLUMBUS DAY PREPARATIONS.

Suggestions to the Public Schools for the Celebration of the Anniversary.

The official programme for the national school celebration of Columbus Day is now published. The first duty of each of our schools this fall, if it wishes to be in line with the other schools of America, is to begin preparations at once for its proper observance of Oct. 21, the 400th anniversary of the discovery of America. A few suggestions as to the first things to be done may be of some value.

Teachers, the superintendent and the school board should confer, that action may be harmonious and best results attained. The proposed celebration should be explained to each school at the earliest moment. It should be so presented as to awaken enthusiasm. Interesting topics relating to Columbus and the discovery should be suggested for special investigation. Such topics might be "The Map of the World Before the Discovery," "Important Inventions and Events in Europe Just Before the Discovery," "The Story of Columbus," "The Ships of Columbus," "What Columbus Expected to Find," "Geographical Growth of the United States," "Stories of South America," etc. The teacher should assign the address and the ode to those who can render them most intelligently. The flag salute and the songs should be persistently rehearsed.

Important committees of pupils should be appointed: First—A committee of invitation, whose duty is to see that the family of each pupil receives a special invitation to the morning exercises of Oct. 21, and also when they arrive to show them seats. Second—A color guard, whose duty is (1) to see that the school has a flag and a staff in proper condition; (2) to meet the veterans as they arrive and escort them with dignity to the principal in the school house; (3) to act as aids of the principal.

An efficient adult committee of arrangements should also be constituted. This committee must see, first, that seats are prepared out of doors in hope of fair weather, and that a room is also engaged for the exercises should the day be stormy; second, that fitting decorations and printed programmes are provided; third, that the local press is interested and invited; fourth, that arrangements are made with the veterans and other special guests for the parts they are to take.

But in all cases the school principal must make himself personally responsible for the work of each committee.

THE COLUMBUS AUTOGRAPH

The Great Explorer Handled the Sword More Skillfully Than the Pen.

There is a never ending dispute regarding the authenticity of the various portraits of Columbus. People who claim to know deny that the picture which is to adorn the souvenir half dollar is a correct presentment of the navigator's features, but whether or not the grounds on which they base their criticism are tenable will probably never be decided. Fortunately, however, the quarrel does not extend to a challenge of the verity of Columbus' autograph, a facsimile of which is given herewith.

To the ready pen wielder of the Nineteenth century the zigzag writing of the discoverer of America must seem queer indeed, but it should be remembered that in those days men wielded the sword and left the gentler arts to be preserved at the hands of priests and women. Most of the famed leaders of the Fifteenth century were unlettered and found it a laborious task to sign their names to important documents prepared by the monks who followed in their trains. Columbus of course was a man of great learning, according to the standard of his age, but the use of the pen was even to him a burden, and his famous diary was probably written as a matter of duty and not of pleasure.

It is curious to note that he formed the individual letters in the same bold yet uncertain style which characterized the chirography of Queen Elizabeth. "Bess of England" could swear roundly and steer the ship of state with firmness; Columbus could bring monarchs to terms and cope with mutinous sailors, but when either of them took pen in hand the unsteadiness of small practice distinguishes the manuscript or autograph.

Felipa, Wife of Columbus.

More than the compass to the mariner West thou, Felipa, to his dauntless soul. Through adverse winds that threatened wreck and nights Of rayless gloom, thou pointed ever to The north star of his great ambition. He Who once has lost an Eden, or has gained A paradise by Eve's sweet influence, Alone can know how strong a spell lies in The wifery of a woman beckoning land. And thou didst draw him, tidelike, higher still, Felipa, whispering the lessons learned From thy courageous father till the flood Of his ambition burst all barriers And swept him onward to his longed for goal.

Before the jewels of a Spanish queen Built fleets to wait him on his untired way Thou gavest thy wealth with wifely sympathy To build the lofty purpose of his soul. And now the centuries have cycled by Till thou art all forgotten by the throng That lauds the great Pathfinder of the deep. It matters not in that infinitude Of space, where thou dost guide thy spirit back To undiscovered lands, supremely fair. If to this little planet thou couldst turn And voyage, wraithlike, to its cloud hung rim.

Thou wouldst not care for praise. And if perchance Some hand laid out to thee a laurel bough, Thou wouldst not claim one wreath, but fondly turn To lay thy tribute also at his feet. —Annie F. Johnston in Harper's Weekly.

TWO TRAINS COLLIDE

A Freight and a Passenger Met on a Curve on the Panhandle Railroad in Ohio.

Engineer Nichols Killed, Being Caught Between the Boiler-Head and the Tender of His Engine.

Fireman VanHorn Jumped and Was Fatally Injured and Several Passengers Were Badly Bruised.

PITTSBURG, Oct. 8.—At 10 o'clock last night a freight and passenger train, both running at a fair rate of speed, came together on a curve about two miles west of Xenia, Ohio, on the Miami division of the Panhandle railroad. Engineer Joseph Nichols was caught between the boiler-head and tender of his engine and killed. Fireman VanHorn jumped from the passenger engine, but it is thought was fatally injured. The crew of the freight train escaped by jumping.

A number of the passengers were badly bruised, but none of them seriously injured. The accident, as far as can be learned, was not due to carelessness. It seems that while the freight train was shifting in the Xenia yards it parted, and owing to a steep grade the freight engineer could not stop his train, as the brakemen were left on the cars remaining in the yard.

THE EPISCOPAL CONVENTION.

The Question of Colored Bishops is Agitating the Members.

BALTIMORE, Oct. 8.—The report of Bishop Dudley, chairman of the special committee on colored work yesterday, is agitating the members of the Protestant Episcopal church convention very much. The committee comes out openly and clearly against the appointment of colored bishops.

Should the report be adopted, of which there seems to be little if any doubt, it will effectually dispose of the question for at least three years more. The report states that the commission cannot see wherein any change could be made in the canon law of the church that would make the church work more effective among the colored people. As the appointment of colored bishops cannot be made without a change in the canon law, it seems unlikely that the colored Episcopalians can get bishop representation.

It would, of course, be possible to change the canon law, despite the unfavorable report, but it is believed that this will not be done. The report goes on to recite the general work of the commission among the colored missions and concludes with a resolution to the board of missions that this commission be continued, but hereafter to consist only of Southern bishops of the church who best know the needs and wants of the negro. At present the commission is composed of bishops, ministers and laymen chosen from every section of the country.

The special committee of bishops on the Columbian celebration will soon hold a meeting and arrange a program of religious exercises for the celebration on Oct. 21. As the convention will still be in session here these exercises will be held in this city. They will probably be very elaborate and interesting.

The regular triennial sermon of the convention will be preached tomorrow evening at Emmanuel church by Bishop Coke of western New York. His subject will be, "The Growth of Christianity in this Country since its Discovery by Columbus."

A CRIMINAL SENSATION.

Washington Has a Female Robber Who Has Done Several Jobs.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—Washington is reveling in the enjoyment of the latest criminal sensation, a female burglar, who has burglarized several houses in this city recently. Her latest job was done at the residence of A. A. Connolly, 105 Ninth street northwest.

Mr. Connolly's mother-in-law was awakened suddenly by hearing a slight commotion in her bedroom. She saw a short and very black negro in the room. The latter had piled up a quantity of goods and was preparing to take them away, when the lady was awakened. The bold burglar, seeing she was discovered, made a hasty exit, taking with her a pocket book containing $1.50 in money and leaving the other articles piled upon the floor.

An alarm was given but the thief had made good her escape. Her description is that she is very black, short in stature and rather stout. This is the second female burglar on record in Washington.

THE REAL ESTATE CONGRESS.

Benj. Hardwick Chosen President of the Board of Control.

BUFFALO, Oct. 8.—The board of control of the National Real Estate association held a meeting yesterday afternoon and selected Benjamin Hardwick, manager of the New York real estate board, as permanent chairman.

The method of selecting vice-presidents was discussed, and each member was requested to formulate his views and present them at the next meeting, which will probably be held within sixty days, either at Buffalo or Chicago.

Went Through a Bridge.

WINNIPEG, Man., Oct. 8.—A special train of empty cars going out of Glenora for wheat broke through a bridge twenty miles from Winnipeg, yesterday morning, and a bad wreck of cars was the result. Engineer O'Donnell, Fireman Alcroft and Brakeman English got entangled in the wreck and were very badly injured, although it is thought not fatally.

Crisp to Speak.

ATLANTA, Ga., Oct. 8.—Speaker Crisp will leave next week to make three speeches in Kentucky and four in Michigan. He will then go to New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania and return to Georgia Oct. 29 to enter the campaign in that state.

THE PNEUMATIC SKULKY.

What It Has Done Toward Reducing Trotting Records.

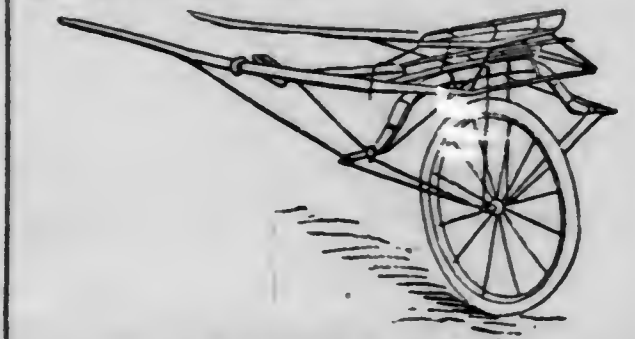

drive a trotting horse a mile on a regulation track inside of 2:05.

And now Budd Dobie, behind Nancy Hanks, has "been and gone and done it." The ordinary observer does not appreciate the important part played in the reduction of trotting records by the pneumatic tire, ball bearing wheels, up to within a short time seen only on bicycles. Now, however, the ordinary old style sulky is in the nature of a curiosity on a first class trotting track. Every trainer realizes that it means a handicap of something like five seconds, and consequently he uses the new style. This estimate of five seconds is based upon the performances of such old campaigners as Globe, Honest George, Jean Valjean, Junemont, Lobasco, Martha Wilkes, Nightingale, Richmond, Jr., So Long and Walter E., who had probably gone as fast as they could go under the old order of things. But the bicycle sulky caused an average reduction of about five seconds in the records of these days in and day out trotters.

There are many persons who believe that the speed producer has not been perfected. It is argued that a larger wheel will obviate the present danger to a rearing horse, and still further reduce the vibration of the vehicle, which the pneumatic tires have greatly lessened. There is of course no way known at present for decreasing the friction at the axles, as the ball bearings have brought this down almost to a minimum.

One of the greatest points in favor of the small wheels, however, is the fact that they can negotiate the curves of the trotting track much better and with less "swinging outward" from central force than the old time large wooden or steel hoops. Besides the pneumatic tires do not cut into the track at all, but instead almost seem to skim over the ground. Of course efforts are already making to improve upon the improvements. The ordinary bicycle sulky has two wheels, but an ingenious man of an inventive turn of mind declares that these will not last long and that they will soon give way to the unicycle sulky, which he declares will still further increase the speed of the fliers of the trotting turf. As will be seen, the one wheel in this sulky of the future is in the middle of the frame and will be balanced by the shaft resting against the horse's sides. One great point claimed for them, which would seem to be a valid one, is that they will reduce friction to a minimum.

THE UNICYCLE SKULKY.

The unicycle sulky may or may not be practicable, but if it should ever come into use, and do what its designer claims for it, based upon the wonders accomplished by its two wheeled predecessor, the two minute mark will speedily be passed.

The question of the superiority of the present racing sulky over the old is not a matter of theory; it is susceptible of demonstration, as may be seen by the following list, which gives the old and new records of horses who have recently trotted in less than 2:15:

NOTICE

To Build Sidewalks.

In accordance with a resolution of the common council of the city of Duluth, passed October 3, 1892, notice is hereby given to all owners and occupants of any and all lots or parcels of land adjoining the south side of Third street between Twenty-eighth avenue west and the west city limits to construct a sidewalk in said street adjoining their several lots at their own expense and charge before October 28, 1892. Said sidewalk to be constructed in accordance with plans and specifications on file in the office of the board of public works, and to be built to the established line and grade, or to a temporary line and grade to be given by the city engineer.

If the said owners or occupants fail to construct said sidewalk before October 28, 1892, or if any such work, or part thereof, is not done in the manner prescribed by said plans and specifications, or if said sidewalk is not built to the line and grade prescribed, then the board of public works of the city of Duluth will cause the same to be done, and the full cost and expense thereof, together with ten (10) per cent additional for cost of surveys, plans and superintendence, will be assessed against said lots.

Final Assessment

For Sanitary Sewer in Third Street.

Office of the Board of Public Works,
City of Duluth, Minn., Oct. 3, 1892.
Notice is hereby given that a contract has been completed for constructing a sanitary sewer in Third street, in the city of Duluth, Minnesota, from Seventh avenue east to Fourth avenue east; that the board of public works of said city will meet at their office in the city hall, in said city, on Tuesday, the 15th day of October, A. D. 1892, at 10 o'clock a. m., to make an assessment of the sum of four thousand three hundred seventy-seven (4377) dollars and twenty-three (23) cents upon the real estate benefited by such sanitary sewer, for the purpose of raising money to in full defray the expense thereof.

The following lands situated in said city, viz.: Blocks 73, 74, 75 and 76, Portland division of Duluth, and block 75, Auditor's rearrangement of a part of Portland division of Duluth, are deemed benefited by said sanitary sewer and will be assessed, unless cause be shown why any of them should not be so assessed.

To Build Sidewalks.

In accordance with a resolution of the common council of the city of Duluth, passed October 3, 1892, notice is hereby given to all owners and occupants of any and all lots or parcels of land adjoining the west side of First avenue east from the end of the present walk between Superior street and Michigan street to the railroad tracks to construct a sidewalk in said avenue adjoining their several lots at their own proper expense and charge before October 28, 1892. Said sidewalk to be constructed in accordance with plans and specifications on file in the office of the board of public works, and to be built to the established line and grade, or to a temporary line and grade to be given by the city engineer.

If the said owners or occupants fail to construct said sidewalk before October 28, 1892, or if any such work, or part thereof, is not done in the manner prescribed by said plans and specifications, or if said sidewalk is not built to the line and grade prescribed, then the board of public works of the city of Duluth will cause the same to be done, and the full cost and expense thereof, together with ten (10) per cent additional for cost of surveys, plans and superintendence, will be assessed against said lots.

HE HAS NOT DECIDED

Rev. Dr. Ringland Has Not Yet Reached a Decision Regarding the Presidency of Macalester College.

Has Been Urgently Pressed to Accept and Has Received Many Letters to That Effect.

The Annual Session of the Presbyterian Synod to Be Held in Duluth Next Week.

Being questioned today by a Herald representative as to what action he would take in the matter of his call to the presidency of Macalester college, Rev. Dr. Ringland said: "I just returned from St. Paul last night, and with reference to that matter can only say that I have been urged to accept, but I have declined to decide the question as yet. I have also received a great many letters putting the advisability and desirability of my acceptance in the best and strongest light."

"The annual meeting of the Minnesota Presbyterian synod," continued the doctor, "begins in this city Thursday, Oct. 13. It will be opened at 7:30 p. m. by a sermon from Rev. L. H. Morey, of Stillwater, on the public school question. In view of the late test of the admittance of the Catholic sisterhood into the Stillwater schools and Mr. Morey's quite extended discussion through the secular press with Archbishop Ireland, I assume he will deal with that aspect of the question."

"On Friday night, Rev. Arthur Mitchell, D. D., one of the secretaries of the board of foreign missions, will speak on that subject. He is a very eloquent and earnest man and his address will be a feature."

"On Sunday the various city pulpits may be filled from the synod upon application to me by Saturday noon. Sabbath afternoon at four o'clock there will be a meeting in the interest of the Christian Endeavor work. That evening there will be an interesting home mission address by Rev. J. McMillan, D. D., of New York. Rev. A. Vander Lippe, D. D., of Dubuque, Iowa, will also speak, taking the 'Exceptional Populations' phase of the Home Mission question."

"The synod will have before it the question of the division of the St. Paul Presbytery, which will excite sharp discussion. A special train over the Omaha road will leave Minneapolis at 1 p. m., next Thursday, and St. Paul at 1:30 p. m., reaching Duluth in time for the evening dinner hour. That train will be open to the general public as well as to delegates. In connection with the synod will be the Women's Home mission meeting, beginning Friday at 10 o'clock and on Saturday at the same hour the Women's Foreign mission meeting. A large attendance is expected from over the state and also foreign missionaries from Japan and other countries. Southern Minnesota has not met in Duluth since 1883 and great surprises as to development and growth await the visitors."

TO CRUSH THE ORES.

An Immense Crusher Put in at the Minnesota Mine.

The Minnesota Iron company has received a twenty-three ton crusher, the first ever built to crush ores in competition with soft hematites. Its jaws are large enough to enable it to take in a chunk of ore 20 by 24 inches and break it into pieces small enough to permit of its convenient and easy smelting. The powerful machine is to be located near the mouth of No. 8 shaft.

If the undertaking is a success, crushers will be put in at all of the shafts at the Minnesota, and the system eventually adopted by the Marquette companies, which are now watching the developments in Tower with great interest. If the crusher is found practical and the system is demonstrated a success, says the Iron Journal, it will serve largely to place the hard ore mines again in supremacy, as its product is higher in iron and carries less moisture, hence a more desirable ore.

DULUTH BUSINESS UNIVERSITY.

The Night School Has Opened With a Large Attendance.

The night school opened at the Business university on Monday evening, Oct. 3, with a large attendance. Many who could not enter at the opening have arranged to enter at a later date, and from present indications it is every reason to believe that before the 1st of November at least 100 students will be enrolled for the night school alone. It is gratifying to know that Duluth has so many ambitious young people, who rather than spend their evenings to no advantage, will go where they can obtain a useful, practical education. Students may enter with equal advantage any school evening during the term. Location 105 and 107 West Superior street.

Democratic Judicial Convention.

A Democratic convention for the Eleventh judicial district will be held at 2 o'clock p. m. The several counties of the district are entitled to representation as follows:

St. Louis..... Delegates, 3

Carlton..... " 3

Cook..... " 1

T. E. BOWEN, Chairman.

THE VERDICT

Rendered in Favor Of Lutes Bros.

Duluthians have read a great deal of the merits of different laundries lately.

One is Advertised

As the largest in the state; another does the only first-class work in the city, etc., etc., each one contradicting the other. But here are a few facts that not only speak for themselves, but cannot be contradicted.

LUTES BROS.

Operate More Machinery

Employ more people and do more business than any other laundry in the city. Another Splendid Endorsement

of our work is the fact that we do fully 50 per cent of what is termed "Enrichment" Trade.

LUTES' LAUNDRY,

Gypsy Fortune Teller Wanted.

Information is wanted that will lead to the discovery of the whereabouts of an old lady who represents herself to be a Gypsy fortune teller, and who has been in Duluth for about two months. Description is as follows: Five feet ten inches high, very slim build, sharp nose, and sharp features, dark sallow complexion, small brown eyes, had a drawing finger rings on each hand, large gold ear-rings made of five dollar gold pieces, black shawl, large, wide brimmed black hat, trimmed with red and black ribbons. Carried a brown leather grip. Has with her a daughter 15 or 20 years old, who wore red or black dress. Was last seen on West First street going east at 2 p. m. on Wednesday, Oct. 5th. Supposed to be living in boarding house or furnished rooms. Send all information to the Northwestern Detective agency, who will promptly pay $50 reward for knowledge of her whereabouts.

R. A. BENSON, Rooms 1-2 Banning block, 131 West Superior street.

More Treasure Hunting. A search is being made in the courtyard of a former convent in the City of Mexico for $3,000,000 in coin believed to have been buried by nuns.

FORECAST FOR OCTOBER 8

Local forecast till 8 a. m. tomorrow: Continued fair, slight change in temperature; northerly winds becoming variable.

WHEAT PRICES DROPPED.

Large Receipts and Other Bearish Features Were the Cause.

The wheat market opened 1/4c lower this morning on first sales of cash, May and October and ruled very dull in the early hours with slightly declining tendencies up to noon. October No. 1 northern sold early at 72 1/2c down to 72 1/4c. Cash wheats were stronger than futures, and No. 1 northern, which sold early at 72 1/2c advanced to 72c before noon. May No. 1 northern declined hands at the start at 81c but eased off during the morning. The session throughout was dull and the close was 1/4c to 3/8c lower than yesterday. Cash wheat receipts reported better prices, but large receipts at primary points and the belief that the wants of foreign countries will be less than previously figures demoralized the market. The stock of wheat in store here will show an increase of about 375,000 bush during the week. Following were the closing prices:

No. 1 hard, cash, 74 1/2c; October, 74 1/2c; December, 75 1/2c; May, 83c. No. 1 northern, cash, 72 1/2c; October, 72 1/2c; December, 73 1/2c; May, 80 1/2c. No. 2 northern, cash, 67 1/2c; October, 67 1/2c; December, 68c; May, 75 1/2c. Rejected, 52 1/2c. Rye, 53c bid.

Car inspection today, 444. Receipts—Wheat, 366,379 bush; rye, 754 bush. Shipments—Wheat, 353,716 bush. Cane on track, 425 last year, 322.

Outside Markets. CHICAGO, Oct. 8.—The close: Wheat, October, 74 1/2c; December, 75 1/2c; May, 82 1/2c. Corn, October, 43 1/2c; December, 44 1/2c; May, 45c. Oats, October, 31 1/2c; December, 32 1/2c; May, 33c. Pork, October, 41 1/2c; November, 41 1/2c; January, 42c. Lard, November, 57 1/2c; January, 57 1/2c; 20.

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 8.—Wheat: May opened at 72 1/2c and closed at 72 1/2c. On track—No. 1 hard, 73c; No. 1 northern, 71 1/2c; No. 2 northern, 66 1/2c.

Weekly Bank Statement. NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—The weekly statement of associated banks shows the following changes: Reserves, decrease, $2,455,520; Loans, decrease, 1,667,400; Specie, decrease, 14,000; United States bonds, decrease, $436,000; Deposits, decrease, 4,173,100; Circulation, decrease, 36,500.

The banks now hold $1,397,575 in excess of the requirements of the 25 per cent rule.

DULUTH STOCK EXCHANGE.

Trading Was Quite Active and a Better Feeling Existed.

There was considerable activity upon the exchange today, and 1654 shares were sold. The listed stocks are attracting attention, and there is more inquiry for both listed and unlisted stocks from abroad, and some sales of the latter have been made at satisfactory prices. It looks as if a better feeling in the market. Follows were the last sales:

FIVE O'CLOCK EDITION.

THREE CENTS

A Duluth Clothing House Exclusively Owned and Controlled by Duluth Men ESTABLISHED 1881.

Our store is open every Monday and Saturday Evening and closed other evenings at 6:30 p. m.

If we Should Say That the Evidence of Success Commands Success,

We should not be gainsaid. If we should add to this that a July day is not the one best calculated to make a trade in winter suits boom, you would agree with us. If we should go a step further and assert that we were in a whirl of active business on Saturday, that the old store groaned with its changing load of humanity that surged in and out, you could easily ask the neighbors round about if this fact were also true. In conclusion of these premises, if we also said that the boys were uncontrollable in their delight over the presents that are given with the suits, why there isn't a lad in Duluth that wouldn't endorse the assertion.

It was a warm day Saturday—not at all favorable for fall business, and yet we were just as busy as could be, and attend to everybody comfortably. This is that evidence of success that will make the old store before winter ends bigger than ever before and a wonder among men.

What Does It?

BEYOND COMPETITION, that's the secret; to outstrip competition so far that it is lost in the dust of the time that intervenes between us and it, is what has carved out for the old store an entirely unique and alone position. Any house that can do the business that we did on Saturday is admirable, but any house which can do it against the odds of unsuitable weather is a marvel.

We sold those $50 Knock-About Suits for Boys, with Pocket Knives and such things thrown in, in one hour, and if there'd be enough to last out the afternoon. We sold Cheviot Suits at $12 and upward until the mind could think of nothing but Cheviot.

The old store has outlived criticism in living a life of practical usefulness. It gives more and better than you can find elsewhere—and it gives many things that you can find nowhere else.

CHARGES OF TREASON.

A Strong Address Delivered to the Grand Jury by Chief Justice Paxson of Pennsylvania.

Homestead Strikers Had No Right to Control Others in the Enjoyment of Their Rights.

When Armed Men Defy the Law it is Levying War Against the State and is Treason.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Oct. 10.—Chief Justice Paxson, of the supreme court, this morning charged the grand jury in the cases of the Homestead strikers charged with treason. The charge contained over 500 words and embraced a graphic resume of the circumstances leading up to the riot at the Carnegie mill and the subsequent charges of treason lodged against thirty-three union men. The chief justice's charge is considered by members of the Allegheny county bar as unfavorable to the defendants. The justice said:

"We can have some sympathy for a mob driven to desperation by hunger as in the French revolution, but we can have none for men receiving exceptionally high wages in resisting the law and resorting to violence and bloodshed in the assertion of imaginary rights, and entailing such a vast expense upon the tax payers of the commonwealth. It was not a cry for bread to feed their famishing lips, resulting in a sudden outrage with good provocation; it was a deliberate attempt by men without authority to control others in the enjoyment of their rights."

"The existence of such a state of things in a government of law indicates a weak spot. It is not in the law itself; it is sufficient for the preservation of order, all that is needed is its proper enforcement. To accomplish this, it is only necessary that every one connected with its administration should do his duty. This duty is as solemn and imperative with a jury in the box as it is with the judge upon the bench. I am glad to be able to say, as a result of my experience in the criminal courts, that I have seldom known a jury to falter in the performance of a duty when that duty has been clearly and fairly presented to them. If jurors fail in this respect the courts can accomplish nothing, and the result is anarchy."

"It is much to be feared that there is a diseased state of public opinion growing up with regard to disturbances of this nature and an erroneous view of the bearing upon these questions has found lodgment in the public mind." In defining the law Justice Paxson said: "When the company shut down its works and discharged its men, it was acting strictly in the lines of the law; it could not compel the men to work, nor could the men compel the company to employ them; no arrangement could be made in such regard except in the nature of a contract agreed upon by the parties. Upon this subject their rights were mutual."

"The company had the undoubted right to protect its property; for which purpose it could lawfully employ as many men as it saw proper and arm them if necessary. Many of our banks and places of business are guarded by armed men. The law did not require it to employ watchmen the men from whom it anticipated the destruction of its works. The right of the men was to refuse to work, unless their terms be acceded to them, and persuade others to join them in such refusal, but the law will sustain them no further. The moment they attempted to control the works and to prevent by violence other laborers from going to work, then they placed themselves outside the pale of the law. It cannot be tolerated for a moment that one laborer shall say to another laborer 'you shall not work unless I see fit to wage without my consent' and then enforce such command by brutal violence upon his person."

"It is the duty of the state to protect every citizen within her borders; in this there is no distinction between the laborer and the capitalist; it protects each with equal impartiality. When the state fails to do this, it fails in its duty as sovereign commonwealth to protect with a firm hand the individual laborer from tyranny and unlawful demands of organized labor. The law should be enforced from the Delaware to the Ohio that the humblest laborer can work for whom he pleases, and at wages he sees fit, undeterred by the bludgeon of the rioter or the pistol of the assassin."

"You will also observe that the offense charged treason against the state and not against the United States. It is a matter with which the latter has nothing to do and over which it can have no jurisdiction. A mere mob, collected upon the impulse of the moment without any definite object beyond the gratification of its sudden passions, does not commit treason although it destroys property and attacks human life. But when a large number of men arm and organize themselves and engage in common purpose to defy the law, to resist its officers and deprive their fellow citizens of the rights to which they are entitled under the constitution and laws, it is a levying of war against the state and the offense is treason."

"Where a body of men have organized for a treasonable purpose, every step which any one of them takes in part execution of the common purpose is an overt act of treason. Every member of such asserted government, who has participated in such usurpation, has committed treason against the state. It is a maxim of criminal law that a man must be presumed to have intended that which is the natural and probable consequence of his acts. We have reached the point in the history of the state where there are but two roads left to us to pursue. The one leads to order and good government, the other leads to anarchy."

SHE CUT HER THROAT.

Suicide of an Actress Owing to Marital Troubles.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 10.—Soon after Actor Gallagher awoke this morning in the theatrical boarding house of Thomas Herly, No. 102 Race street, he found the dead body of his wife Ada on the bedside beside him. She had cut her throat during the night with a razor. Temporary insanity, coupled with marital incompatibility, are the supposed causes for the deed. The suicide's stage name was Ada Devereau. She came from Allegheny, Pa.

WILL FUSE IN MINNESOTA

Four of the Democratic Electors to be Withdrawn and Four of the Populists Endorsed.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Oct. 10, 2:30 p. m.—A telephone message just received from the state capitol says the managers of the Democratic ticket of this state are to withdraw the names of four of their presidential electors and will endorse four of the People's party electors. Today is the last day for filing certificates with the secretary of state.

THE DEMURRER SUSTAINED.

Judge Nelson Decides in Favor of the Indicted Lumbermen.

ST. PAUL, Oct. 10.—Judge Nelson, of the United States court, today sustained the demurrer to the indictment in the case filed against the Mississippi River Valley Lumbermen's association for alleged conspiracy among unlawful combinations in restraint of trade. Several lumber merchants in Minnesota, Wisconsin and Iowa were included in the indictment.

Justice Shiras Inducted.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—The opening session of the October term of the supreme court of the United States, with the attending circumstances of the induction in office of the new associate justice, George Shiras, Jr., filled the court room to overflowing today. Exactly at noon the members of the court were announced and took their seats, and then Associate Justice Shiras took the oath of office.

A Coming Fight.

Want the Union Scale.

BOSTON, Oct. 10.—A meeting held here yesterday by the members of the graphic union No. 13 decided that all newspaper offices in Boston should be asked to pay on and after Oct. 17 the union scale of 45 cents per 1000 ems.

IN THE DISTRICT COURT.

Three of the Tower Rioters Sentenced to Eight Months in Prison.

Before Judge Stearns this morning, H. H. Phelps was allowed $15 for defending Geo. Howard, charged with selling liquor without license. The case of the West Duluth Manufacturing company vs. the Church of the Holy Apostles, was continued. In Anna Bell McGowan vs. W. A. Wagner et al, the defendant's demurrer was overruled and he was given four days to answer. The case of the Marine National bank vs. Montague & Lazier was continued. The tax case of J. D. Boyd was then brought up and judgment ordered for $10.92. The court then adjourned sine die. All other cases continued.

Before Judge Ensign, James Mulcahy, for keeping a house of ill-fame, was sentenced to one year at hard labor in Stillwater. John Stanish, for rioting, was sentenced to eight months at Stillwater. John Plessic and Anton Joliet received the same sentence for the same crime. The bail of N. Peterson, for selling liquor without a license, was reduced to $250, and he pleaded not guilty.

In Gabrielson vs. Campbell judgment was ordered for the plaintiff for $50.55. Judgment for the plaintiff was also ordered in P. Burke vs. Arch Campbell, and the same in Ole Peterson vs. the same defendant. Andrew Martin vs. the same defendant was heard and submitted. In Chas. Bloomquist vs. the same defendant, judgment was ordered for the plaintiff for full amount claimed and he was allowed a lien of $120.

A TIN PLATE FACTORY.

English Capital May Establish One in Duluth or Vicinity.

Benjamin Orne, the New York capitalist, who is in the city with the Hocking Valley railroad officials, looks upon the head of Lake Superior as the best place in the country for iron making. "That this will be a great industrial center," he said, "cannot be questioned. The advantages are here and all the time. I represent English capital to the amount of nearly $1,000,000, which is intended to invest in a tin plate plant in this country. I have considered the head of the lakes and so favorable that I shall not close any deal until I have given Duluth and Superior a chance to bid for the plant. We will do nothing until after election."

BORDEN MURDER CASE

Stories of an Alarming Nature Told by Twenty Witnesses Found by the Government Detectives.

Some Man Got Lizzie Borden in Trouble and Her Father Threatened to Turn Her Out.

Lizzie Was Overheard Asking the Servant, Bridget Sullivan, How Much She Wanted to Keep Quiet.

BOSTON, Oct. 10.—The Globe this morning prints a dozen columns of the stories of the twenty witnesses in the Borden murder case who have given affidavits to the government. Some of these stories are of an alarming nature and are as follows:

Frank Burroughs, a well known New York city lawyer, will testify that eight months before the murder occurred, Lizzie Borden consulted him about the disposition of property in the event of a stepmother's death before that of her husband.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Chase and Mrs. Abigail Manchester will testify that on the night before the murder, while calling at the Borden house and before being announced, they had overheard Mr. Borden in another room threatening to turn Lizzie out of doors unless she would repeat the name of the man who "got her into trouble."

G. Romaine Pittston, a wealthy dealer in machinery supplies in New York, will testify that Mr. Borden detailed Lizzie's trouble to him and was advised to disinherit her unless she would reveal the man's name.

John H. Murphy, Mrs. Gustave F. Ronald, Peter Mahany and Augustus Gunning will testify to having seen Lizzie Borden at a window, where and when she must have been standing over the dead body of her stepmother at a time when her father was walking in the yard.

Mr. C. P. Simpson will testify that at the Borden funeral he overheard Lizzie asking Bridget Sullivan, the servant, how much money she wanted to keep quiet.

Private Detective McHenry will testify that, lying concealed in a bath room, he witnessed the quarrel in the matron room between the sisters and that Lizzie kicked Emma thrice, called her a foul name and said: "You wanted to see me hanged so you can come into the entire fortune. You are the one person whom I thought I could trust with my secret. Mrs. Regan, the matron, and one other, have deposited to the same effect."

The Globe promises to publish a certain piece of very important information recently gained by Officer Harrington, as soon as the interests of justice will not suffer by its publication.

NEW WHALEBACK STEAMER.

Keel Laid at Everett for a Passenger and Freight Boat.

The keel will be laid at the Everett shipyard of the American Steel Barge company next week, of a coasting vessel of the whaleback type, to be used in the passenger and freight trade between San Francisco and Puget Sound ports. She will be the first vessel of that style completed on the Pacific coast and will be called the Everett. She will be 300 feet long, 42 feet beam, and 26½ feet molded depth, and will be fitted like the Chas. W. Wetmore with five auxiliary spars. She will have accommodation for fifty first-class passengers, and a number of second class. She will have four boilers of Scotch steel, which will set much higher than any yet put into the whalebacks. Her engines will be triple expansion of 1800 horse power, and her general model will be something between the Pathfinder and the passenger whaleback now being built here. She will be out in June next.

FUSIONISTS TRIUMPHANT.

The Populist Convention This Afternoon Was Quite Lively.

The Populists had quite a wrangle at their convention at the city hall this afternoon over the question of endorsing the Democratic nominees. Those opposed to fusion were defeated by a vote of about two to one.

Henry Haskins then tried to get Paul Sharpy nominated for sheriff, but the convention declined and nominated Richard Long, the Democratic candidate.

HE IS NOW A DEMOCRAT

Wayne MacVeagh, who was Attorney General in President Garfield's Cabinet, Will Vote for Grover.

Letter to a Massachusetts Man Giving His Principal Reasons for Leaving the Republican Party.

The High Tariff and Pension Abuses are Some of the Things He Cannot Approve.

At the request of many readers, both Democratic and Republican, The Herald publishes below the letter recently written by Wayne MacVeagh, who was attorney general in President Garfield's cabinet, to J. W. Carter, secretary of the Massachusetts Reform club, in which he gives his reasons for deciding to leave the Republican party. The letter is as follows:

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 4, 1892.—J. W. Carter, secretary.—Your cordial invitation to address the citizens of Boston on the issues of the canvass happens to reach me just when professional engagements prevent my naming a time when I can do so, but you are quite right in concluding that I intend to vote for Mr. Cleveland. Entertaining the conviction I do, no other course is open to me, and I cheerfully accord to the supporters of President Harrison the same sense of public duty by which I claim to be actuated. As both parties have presented unexceptionable candidates there is no reason why the differences which exist upon questions of public policy should be discussed otherwise than in good humor and with entire respect for each other's opinions.

In the present campaign what may fairly be called the false alarms of the canvass will prove of little value because of the general confidence in the safe and conservative character of both candidates. The average voter knows that free trade is impossible in this country for the conclusive reason that the vast revenues now required to meet the expenses of the government will necessarily afford a far higher degree of protection to our established and prosperous manufacturers, than either Alexander Hamilton or Henry Clay thought desirable in the infancy of our weak and struggling industries. The average voter also knows that the irredeemable paper currency in use before the war can never reappear. On the other hand, he knows as well that no system of duties or imports, however inequitable, can prevent our continued growth in wealth, in manufactures and in population—a growth due to the incomparable gifts of providence, the intelligence and energy of the people and the blessings of free institutions.

While I am more than ever resolved to hold duty to country far above any ties of party, I find myself at present in general accord with the Democratic party and willing to trust its course in the future. The insight, the courage and the patriotism the masses of the party exhibited in compelling the nomination of Mr. Cleveland, when he was without a single officeholder to support his candidacy, seem to me to demand that I should meet them in the same spirit and act with them as long as they maintain that high standard of policy and of administration. It is the more easy to do so because the Republican party, securing its return to power four years ago by promising to preserve what I regard as a reckless and revolutionary policy, even overruling all the safeguards of legislation in the house of representatives in their haste to pass the force bill and the McKinley bill, both, to my mind, unnecessary and unwise measures.

The Force and McKinley Bills.
The opposition to the force bill is not only sure to create far greater evils than it could cure, but also subversive of the rights of the states, has become so earnest and widespread that it is said to have been abandoned; but it must not be forgotten that only two years ago such a measure was warmly advocated by President Harrison, earnestly supported by the Republican party and very narrowly escaped becoming a law.

There is no pretense, however, that the McKinley bill is abandoned. On the contrary, our express approval of it is demanded. No doubt that bill, which I cannot but think was an uncalculated disturbance of then existing tariffs, greatly benefited a few interests but certainly it greatly oppressed many others. Of the protected industries themselves many were then, as now, in far more urgent need of free raw materials than of higher protection; but with raw materials on the free list the bill could not have passed, for those having such materials for sale controlled enough votes to defeat it, and they were very likely to do so if their bounties were discontinued. The manufacturers of free raw material were therefore, obliged to join in the objectionable process of increasing prices by restricting production, thus adding to the number of trusts by which the price of the necessities of life is placed at the mercy of unlawful combinations of capital. It is not surprising that labor, believing itself to be oppressed, should rise in revolt and civil war has actually raged this summer in four different sections of the country. And, of course, the farmers, paying more for what they buy and getting less for what they sell, grow poorer day by day; and excellent farms in some of the most fertile sections of this most highly protected state will hardly bring the cost of the buildings upon them.

But the economic evils, however great, of the McKinley bill and the unreasonable system of protection it represents are of far less importance to my mind than the moral evils which follow in their wake. In deciding for what purposes the masses of the people may be properly taxed it must not be forgotten that taxes have a wonderful capacity for filtering through all intervening obstacles till they reach the bowed back of toil and resting there, and, therefore, the giving of bounties under any form of taxation is mainly the giving away of the wages of labor. The sad truth that the curse of the poor is their poverty is illustrated in nothing more clearly than the undue share they suffer of the burdens of taxation.

But apart from this consideration, ought not taxes only be imposed as required for public purposes, or may they also be imposed for the pecuniary advantage of such persons or classes as are able to control congressional action in their favor? It seems to me like a travesty on taxation to require, as the McKinley bill does, the farmer who grows corn in Indiana to pay a bounty to the farmer who produces sugar cane in Louisiana, or to require the farmer who grows wheat in Pennsylvania to pay a bounty to the farmer who produces maple sugar in Vermont. But it is nearer tragedy than travesty to tax the masses of the people to increase the wealth of the very wealthy owners of our protected industries.

Will Increase Corruption.
But even such inequality and injustice are the least of its evils, for while such a system endures, political corruption is absolutely sure to increase, as such a system not only invites, but it requires the corrupt use of money, both at the polls and in congress. It is of its very essence that "fat" shall be "fried" out of its beneficiaries. What shall happen to do this? The "frying" or who shall happen to distribute the "fat" upon any particular occasion is mere matter of detail; but while that system lasts both will continue to be done by somebody.

And the evils of a system of legislative bounties, so far from stopping, only begins with those bounties secure to the industries protected by the tariff. The disastrous course of the Republican party on the silver question is an apt illustration of this truth. It ought to be an honest money party, and it would be if it could; but while it demanded increased bounties for its favorite manufacturers, it could not refuse increased bounties to the silver producers, as the votes they control were probably necessary to the passage of the McKinley bill.

So situated the Republican party had no alternative but to pass the silver law of 1890, doubling the purchases of silver and requiring the building of more warehouses in which to store the useless metal. The total purchases made by the government amount to hundreds of millions of dollars and would not realize, if resold, one-half their cost, while the poison of a debased currency, whose work, however slow, is sure, is making itself daily more and more felt in every channel of business and finance and is inevitably driving gold out of the country and leading us to all the evils of a fluctuating and therefore dishonest currency based upon silver alone. The Republican party cannot take any effective steps toward repealing the bill, for the silver men are very likely if their bounty is stopped to so vote that the bounties of the McKinley bill will stop also.

Pension Abuses.
The abuses of the pension system furnish another apt illustration of the evils sure to follow such a system of legislation. If congress was to levy taxes upon the people to confer bounties upon certain classes of manufacturers, it was very natural that the pension agents should also join hands to increase their fees by an indiscriminate granting of pensions. The result is that a generation after the close of the war there is a steady increase of the vast sums passing through the pension agents' hands, until now the total amount staggers belief, and he who comes of itself a very serious burden upon the treasury. From the day of Lee's surrender until now no single voice has ever been raised against the most generous provision for every person who had any just claim upon the gratitude of the country; but surely there is neither reason nor justice in legislation which destroys all distinction between the discharge of duty and the shirking of it, between loyal service and desertion of the colors, between wounds received in battle and diseases contracted in the pursuits of peace.

There is still another great and increasing evil chiefly traceable, in my opinion, to the maintenance of the excessive tariff since the war and the constant meddling with it to make it higher, and that is the bringing to our shores of those vast swarms of undesirable immigrants who degrade American labor by their competition and threaten the stability of institutions based upon an intelligent love of country. Just as the duties upon imported merchandise have been increased, so has the grade of imported labor been lowered, until now, under the McKinley bill, there are coming here every month many thousands of more ignorant and therefore less desirable laborers than ever before. It is not easy to exaggerate the moral evils they are likely to inflict upon our social order and our national life.

As the Republican party is now definitely committed to the policy of taxing the people for the purpose of giving bounties to such persons or interests as can secure the necessary votes in congress, so the Democratic party is now as definitely committed to the policy of restricting taxation to the needs of the government for public purposes alone. The gulf fixed between these two policies of taxation is as wide and as deep as can well exist between political parties; and I am almost convinced that the other causes in which I am interested cannot hope for success until the avowed policy of the Republican party on this subject is overturned.

Until then the right of each state to control elections within its borders, will not be secure. Until then there is no prospect of our enjoying the single and stable standard of value which other civilized and commercial nations possess. Until then there is no hope of placing either our pension system or the regulation of immigration upon a just and proper basis. Until then the purification of our politics will continue "the iridescent dream" which high Republican authority has declared it must always remain. Until then any pretended reform of the civil service must prove, as it has proved these last four years, a delusion and a snare. And until then every ballot cast in the house of its pretended friends, all these good causes are, in the very nature of things, the relentless foes of a system of government by bounties to favored interests, and such a system is their relentless foe.

As I believe, for the reasons I have given, that the true welfare of the country would be promoted by Mr. Cleveland's election, it is my duty to vote for him; and as I recall the capacity, the fidelity and the courage with which he has heretofore discharged every public trust committed to him, the duty becomes a pleasure. Sincerely yours, WAYNE MACVEAGH.

ANOTHER COMBINE MADE.

The Steel Brake Beam Industries Consolidated.

DETROIT, Mich., Oct. 10.—A consolidation of steel brake beam industries has just been effected. There are but three companies engaged in the business, the largest being in this city, with another at Chicago and one at Pittsburgh.

The purpose of the combination is to bring about, it is said, a uniformity of price and reduction of expenses. The move will go into effect October 15, but no immediate change in the manufacture will be made, the works at the three cities above mentioned being operated as branches.

This plan will probably be carried out the first of the year, when there may be a centralization at Detroit. The total capital invested is about $2,500,000.

WILL SUE THE WORLD.

Harriet Monroe Mad Because Her Poem Was Published.

CHICAGO, Oct. 10.—Miss Harriet Monroe believes that she has cause for action against the New York World. It is said that as soon as the dedicatory ceremonies of the Columbian exposition are over and the commemorative ode has been publicly given, Miss Monroe will bring suit against the New York paper charging violation of the copyright act.

She was much displeased because of the unauthorized publication of the ode in the World and did everything in her power to prevent it. Since then she has investigated to find means of redress, and has been assured that she has a clear case against the publishers. Miss Monroe says the World printed her ode in a garbled form on Sept. 25, regardless of her notification that the matter was copyrighted.

WAS LITERALLY BOILED.

A Frightful Accident, Resulting Fatally, to a Detroit Machinist.

DETROIT, Mich., Oct. 10.—Thomas F. Jones, a machinist, met with a frightful accident Saturday evening, which caused his death yesterday. The dry dock company was testing the new steamer

Jones was engaged in taking the cap from her throttle valve, when it blew off and the heavy piece of iron struck him in the stomach, rendering him unconscious. He fell into the water, where the steam and hot water poured over him. The man was literally boiled about the neck and trunk, but lingered until yesterday afternoon.

THE MORMON CONFERENCE.

Fifteen Thousand People Present at the Closing Session.

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Oct. 10.—The sixty-second semi-annual conference of the Mormon church closed Saturday with 15,000 in attendance at the closing session. The reports of the various states in Utah, Idaho, Wyoming, Colorado, Arizona and Mexico, showed a total membership of over 200,000. Joseph F. Smith, whose recent return from a seven years' sojourn underground marked the origin of national party lines, delivered an address. It was decided to dedicate the new temple on April 6, 1893. This building was commenced forty years ago and has cost $2,500,000.

Waldo Silva Very Ill.

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—A cable to the Herald from Valparaiso says that Waldo Silva, who was president of the revolutionary junta which waged its successful war against the late President Balmaceda, is very ill and it is feared may die.

Hi Henry Dying.

GOWANDA, N. Y., Oct. 10.—Word has been received here that Hi Henry, the old-time musician and minstrel, is dying at Cleveland. His show life extended over forty years.

and labors faithfully and conscientiously in the upbuilding of Duluth and her varied enterprises. The Herald has as good telegraph news service as any paper in Minnesota. It is a member of the United Press Association and the Western Associated Press, the wires of the former running direct to the office of the Herald from every news center in the civilized world.

In politics The Herald is Independent, knowing that all political parties possess good and bad features it rejects the bad of each and advocates when consistent with its views the good. It upholds and denounces candidates for offices regardless of party affiliations and supports only such candidates whom it deems for the best interest of the community should be successful.

THE EVENING HERALD

The Weather.
U. S. WEATHER BUREAU, DULUTH, MINN.,
Oct. 10.—Fair weather still prevails in all sections of the country, and with the exception of a shower at Lander, Wyo., there has been no rain during the past twenty-four hours.
An area of low barometer has formed and is now central over South Dakota, and will probably move east today. An area of high pressure covers the Eastern states and South Atlantic coast.
The temperature is about normal over all sections, with the warmest weather in the Northwest, and the coolest north of Lake Superior.
The highest temperature here yesterday was 56°, the lowest last night 42°.

DULUTH, Oct. 10.—Continued fair today, and probably tomorrow slight change in temperature. East and northeast wind becoming fresh.
B. H. BRONSON,
Local Forecast Official.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—Forecast till 8 p. m., tomorrow: For Wisconsin: Fair, except local showers tonight or tomorrow in northern portion; southerly winds becoming variable; stationary temperature in eastern, warmer Tuesday morning in western portion. For Minnesota: Generally fair, preceded by local showers this afternoon and tonight; southeasterly winds, shifting to westward.

Facts and Figures.
The consolidation of the News and Tribune does not appear to have resulted in any increase of veracity. The amalgamated organ yesterday was a strong rival of Eli Perkins, in its alleged comparison of the Saturday Herald and the Sunday morning paper, and were not the public already fully acquainted with the unreliability of its statements, The Herald might very properly denounce its falsehoods in the manner that it deserves. It is content, however, to present the facts, and let the morning organ grovel in the depths of degradation to which it has plunged.
Referring to the two papers, the News
Tribune said yesterday:

"In all the paper (the Saturday Herald) contained ninety-six columns of twenty inches each in length, or 1,920 inches of space. The News Tribune of this morning is made up of ninety-six columns of twenty-one inches each in length, or 2,016 inches of space.
The News Tribune likewise claimed that yesterday's issue contained thirty-five columns, or 735 inches of pure news matter. All these statements are utter falshoods. Instead of having ninety-six columns, it had only eighty-four, and had nearly three columns less news matter than it claimed. Here is a table showing the extent to which this unvarnished morning paper attempted to deceive the public:

	What it Claimed.	What it Had.	Size of the Lies.
Total No. columns.	96	84	12
" " " " " "	2,016	1,764	252
News matter, in- ches.	735	672	63
Advertising, in- ches.	1,631	957	674

It will thus be seen that it had thirty-three columns less of advertising than it claimed. At the same time instituted a comparison with the Saturday
Herald, which was equally incorrect.
The following figures, which can be verified by any person who will take the trouble to do, show that in every respect the Saturday Herald largely surpassed
the Sunday morning paper:

	News- Tribune.	Herald.	Herald Excess.
Total No. columns.	96	112	16
Total No. inches.	2,016	2,240	224
Total No. pages.	12	16	4
News matter, in- ches.	672	816	144
Advertising, in- ches.	957	1,008	51
Unpaid advertising, in- ches.	102	68	34

In only one particular, therefore, did the News-Tribune exceed The Herald—in the amount of unpaid advertising. In the case of The Herald this unpaid advertising consisted of announcements of its own. The Herald published two and one half more columns of legitimate, bona fide, live advertising than did the News-Tribune. The Herald also printed over six and one half columns more of news matter than did the News-Tribune.
These figures are sufficient to show the base misrepresentation practised by the morning paper. Its statements about its circulation are equally unreliable, as The Herald prints and circulates in six days more papers than the morning sheet does in seven days.

The Herald does not rely upon the quantity of its news matter alone. Quality is of far more importance than quantity, and it defies comparison in that respect. The News Tribune thought the article in Saturday's Herald on the Nicaragua canal so good that it copied it entire. The morning organ is wont to refer derisively to "boiler plate" in The Herald. This would cover, in the Saturday Herald for instance, such matter as the Bill Nye letter. The Herald holds the exclusive right to publish the writings of this great humorist in Duluth. It pays for that right more money than the News Tribune expends for any article that it publishes. These letters are published by The Herald in advance of the Chicago Herald, the New York World,
the Boston Herald, the San Francisco Examiner, the Philadelphia Press and other leading and prosperous papers which have the Nye letter franchise in their respective territories and esteem it as one of their stellar attractions.
The Herald obtains these letters from a syndicate, whose list of contributors is the largest and most brilliant, and whose annual expenditure in the purchase and preparation of high class newspaper literature exceeds that of all other newspaper syndicates combined. From the same source, The Herald on Saturday published special articles (which had never appeared in print before and which were published by the Sunday newspapers in New York, Chicago and Boston) from the pens of well known writers like Ella Wheeler Wilcox, Liddle

Curtis, Lida Rose McCabe, Octavus Cohen, Wallace Wilcox, Mate Leroy and O. P. Caylor, the great base ball authority.

From the same syndicate The Herald receives weekly and publishes special articles written by J. H. Beadle, a noted journalist and traveler; Hjalmer Hjorth Boyesen, the well known novelist;
Julius Henri Browne, the veteran war correspondent; George L.
Kilmer, a popular writer of war stories; Walter Wellman, a leading Washington correspondent;
A. C. Wheeler (Nym Crinkle), the dramatic critic, and many others, and in addition a host of bright women writers, including Mrs. Frank Leslie, Fannie Edgar Thomas, Margaret Manton, Lillie Blake Devereaux, Kate Upson Clark, Eliza Archard Conner, Florence Finch-Kelly, Olive Harper and others. *
The News-Tribune could not obtain these articles at any price, because The Herald owns the sole right for Duluth, and that is why it sneeringly talks of "boiler plate." Its action is the result of jealousy and a jaundiced liver.

While thus expending large sums in obtaining special articles by noted writers, The Herald daily publishes more live news matter than does its morning contemporary, and it pays more wages every week for six days' work than does the News-Tribune for seven days' work. The Herald begs the indulgence of the public for referring at such length to these matters, but it believes that the people who read the papers are entitled to the facts in answer to the deliberate misrepresentations of the News Tribune.
In its own classic language, if it had sense enough to keep its mouth shut, it would not compel The Herald to show it up in its true light.

Wayne MacVeagh's Letter.
By request of numerous readers, and not because it sympathizes with thestate-ments and opinions contained therein,
The Herald publishes today the letter written by Hon. Wayne MacVeagh to the secretary of a reform club in Massachusetts, in which he gives the reasons why he has quit the Republican party and will vote for the Democratic presidential candidate next month. The Democratic organs are making considerable fuss over this alleged conversion of Mr. MacVeagh, and they are trying to make political capital out of it.

In this letter Mr. MacVeagh says he is "in general accord with the Democratic party" and proposes to vote the Democratic ticket in opposition to what he is pleased to call "the reckless and revolutionary policy" of the Republican party.
This is Mr. MacVeagh's privilege as an independent citizen of this free republic, but it is not very likely that his action will influence a single vote. Mr. Mac-Veagh is not a recent convert to the Democracy, as his letter pretends. He was a Democrat ten years ago, when after vacating the position of attorney-general in President Garfield's cabinet on the accession of Chester Arthur to the presidency, he bitterly arraigned the Republican party in a speech delivered at Philadelphia. In that speech Wayne Mac-Veagh declared that the Republican party, which he still claimed to belong had "but three principles, and I am earnestly and vigorously opposed to every one of them. Its first principle is the spoils system; I am opposed to that. Its next principle is the boss system; I am opposed to that. The only other principle of the party that I can discover, is the repudiation of the debt of Virginia. I am opposed to that.

This state of mind was the result of President Arthur's selection of another and abler man as attorney general. He may flatter himself with the belief that the public will regard this change to be due to the reasons set forth in his letter, but the fact is that he is a political sore-head who has left the Republican party for the sole reason that he could not obtain an office. Respectable and sincere Democrats can hardly extend a very hearty welcome to such a man.

At a recent Searle meeting in the western end of the district, C. F. Hen-dryx, who is traveling with Judge Searle and speaking in his behalf, "praised C.
K. Davis for what he had done for our waterways and then censured Baldwin for advocating their improvement." It is understood, therefore, that Judge Searle is opposed to improving the lake waterways? That seems to be the correct inference, because Judge Searle was present at this meeting and did not contradict Mr. Hendryx.

The Germania, the organ of the German Lutherans of Wisconsin, has come out flat-footed for John C. Spooner for governor and declares the Bennett law question settled forever. As the Germania was the leader in the anti-Bennett law fight two years ago, its action has naturally created a sensation in Wisconsin. It makes Spooner's election certain.

Frank Searle has decided not to run for the legislature in Stearns county. All his time is occupied in a vain endeavor to save Judge Searle from defeat, as the latter's chances, the St. Cloud Times explains, "are lately assuming a very shady hue."

Duluth's bank clearings last week showed an increase of 32.5 per cent over the corresponding period of last year. The increase in the bank clearings of St. Paul was only 12.3 per cent, and in these of Minneapolis only 11.7 per cent. If bank clearings be any criterion, Duluth is distancing all competitors.

A variety actor in Superior has been adjudged insane because he believes himself to be Edwin Booth. If all the actors in the country who consider themselves equal to Booth were adjudged insane, it would be necessary to double the capacity of the insane hospitals.

The verdict of the jury in the Houck-Haggerty murder case is another strong argument for those who claim that trial by jury is a farce. There are at least twelve men in St. Louis county who are not inclined to throw any protection around the lives of their fellow-men.

The New York World is likely to be defendant in a novel suit. A poetess threatens to sue it because it published her poem. There are scores of poets and poetesses in the country who will regard her as a mild lunatic.

There was not a single item of local news of any consequence in the Sunday morning paper that did not appear in the Saturday Herald. What the use of a morning paper anyhow?

There is no doubt that Knute Nelson will be elected governor, but the claim of the Republican state committee that he will have 51,000 plurality seems rather extreme.

Will Not Help Searle.
St. Cloud Times: The fact that Senator Washburn, of "wheat combine exposure" fame, has made a tour of the Sixth district in the interest of Judge Searle will not help the latter. In fact, it will have the opposite effect. The farmers of this district are aroused over the developments as to the combination which makes the price of wheat and controls the market. They propose to sit down hard on every one connected therewith, or any of their proteges.

P. Warren died suddenly last night,

ing. Supper and dinner will be served

RUNNING CHANCES
of the baby breaking your watch may not result in any damage to your time-
piece and loss to your pocket, but there are risks and risks. Some risks you can run without much danger; others you cannot. Missing an early inspection of can't run without incurring a loss.

In this case two things are certain: This stock is superior to anything we ever offered before, and it is most assuredly superior to anything else now shown in this city. It is sometimes a loss of money not to spend it
and it is certainly losing money to miss securing some of these specialties.

CRESPO IN CARACAS.

The Leader of the Insurgents in Venezuela
Has Now Put the Government Forces to Rout.

Is Now Installed in the Principal City of the Republic and Named Provisional President.

President Villegas and His Ministers Made Their Escape and Have Probably Gone to Martinique.

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—A cable to the Herald from La Guayara says Gen.
Crespo was accorded an enthusiastic reception upon his triumphal entry into Caracas yesterday. The streets were illuminated and the crowd cheered wildly.
Crespo marched into the capital in the morning at the head of the remainder of his army. When he reached the congress building he summoned his leaders and, after a conference, was proclaimed provisional president of the republic.
He is to hold the office until the regularly elected congressmen have had time to meet.

Crespo promptly issued a pronuncia-mento naming his cabinet as follows:
Foreign affairs, Pedro Ezequiel Rojas;
interior, Leon Colina; finance, Senor Pietri; war, Guzman Alvarez; public works, Munoz Tebar; instruction, Silva Gudolph; chief of police, Gen. Victor
Rodriguez; chief of telegraphs, Leopolda
Baptista; general in chief, Ramon
Guerra; governor of Caracas, Senor Andrade.

The rumor concerning the escape of Villegas and his ministers is confirmed. They sailed for Martinique.
Another body of Crespo's soldiers entered La Guayara yesterday.

THE GRAIN RATE CASE.
It Will Be Several Weeks Before a Decision Is Made.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—Flannery & Cook, of Minneapolis, have filed their reply brief in the grain rate discrimination case. This practically closes the case, although the Northwestern and Northern Pacific companies and the Milwaukee chamber of commerce were expected to send in briefs.

They will not be hindered filing, but additional briefs would make no difference, as all facts that can possibly be adduced are already being written—that is, the facts upon which the case turns are being briefed.

It will be several weeks before a decision is ready, and most of the commissioners will be absent all this month.

MANY SAILORS DROWNED.
Several Fishing Vessels Lost on the Banks of Newfoundland.

HALIFAX, N. S., Oct. 10.—Of the six fishermen reported missing from the Gloucester schooner Henrietta three were landed at Bay of Bulls, Newfoundland, by the schooner Knights Templar, and the other three are reported to have been picked up by a Newfoundland schooner.

The Newfoundland-schooner Reason has been missing since Aug. 15 and is given up for lost with a crew of ten men.
The schooner E. B. Phillips has sailed with an unknown vessel, lumber laden.
Her crew of nine men were lost. Seven Newfoundland vessels were lost during a recent gale at Labrador.

POOR BRITISH FARMERS.
This Year Will Be a Disastrous One for Them.

LONDON, Oct. 10.—In commenting upon a special account of the condition of the British crops which is published in its columns, the Times says: "The conclusion on the whole case is that the present year will be a disastrous one for the British farmer. The chief loss will be in wheat, while there will be no adequate set off in any other crop. The outlook for the winter is gloomy for all classes and it becomes a grave question how many farmers will be able to struggle through it."

Considering the continued shrinkage of wheat cultivation, the Times advises the farmers to turn their attention to high class dairy products.

was received last night of the death at Charleston, S. C., of George C. Geer, who was engineer of the Monitor in the engagement with the Merrimac during the late war.

Physicians Puzzled.
Many persons are unable to sleep on their left side. The cause has long been a puzzle to physicians. Metropolitan papers speak with great interest of Dr.
Franklin Miles, the eminent Indiana has proven that this habit arises from a diseased heart. He has examined and

WAS A FEARFUL TEST

Official Report of Capt. John A. O'Brien to the Barge Company on the Stranding of the Wetmore.

For Ten Days the Steamer Withstood One of the Heaviest Storms Ever Seen on the Pacific.

Capt. O'Brien and a Sailor Remained on Her All that Time and He Details Their Experiences.

The Herald gives today the first official report of the stranding of the steamer Charles W. Wetmore in Coos bay on the Pacific coast. It is the letter of Captain John A. O'Brien, who, with a seaman companion, was kept on board the disabled vessel for ten days. The wonderful strength of the whaleback steamer, exposed to the full force of the terrific and continuous storm, which lashed the Pacific into a fury not seen for many years, is clearly shown. The steamer Charles W. Wetmore was gutted August 31, loaded with 2,400 tons of coal in Coos bay near the little city of Empire. The crew of twenty-one men were rescued during a slight lull in the storm the next day, but Captain O'Brien and one sailor again visited the vessel, and then the storm raged at its height for ten days. Captain O'Brien is an experienced navigator and knows the coast very well. Before going on the Wetmore he was master of the Canadian Pacific steamer Premier which was sunk or disabled in collision with the steam collier Williamette. He is also the man who saved the steamer Umatilla in the straits of Juan de Fuca some years when she was abandoned by Captain North, Captain O'Brien then being the first mate. Following is the letter:

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Sept. 30, 1892. Dear Sir: Mr. Griffiths informed me that it was your wish that I should write you regarding the action of the weather on the steamer Charles W. Wetmore during the ten days that one sailor and I were on board, and during which time no boat was able to approach her, the lifeboats being beaten back every time they sought to near us.

Eight days of the above time a continual surf broke, striking first on the starboard quarter and making a clean sweep over all turrets bodily, every 7 1/2 seconds for the above eight days. From half tide to low water there would not be so much force to the sea, but at high water it was terrific. The seas of the first two days gutted the after house, just leaving the port side of house and chart room; also the pilot house, the debris of other rooms being piled up against the forward bulkhead of gallery and smokestack, was the means of protecting the chart room and pilot house. The hurricane deck, with water tanks and life raft, was doubled over somewhat but still standing when we left. At low water, just before leaving, I examined all the turrets and found all in perfect order; not a rivet as far as I see had started. It seemed to me surprisingly wonderful the strength which the vessel showed after the severe ordeal which she had gone through. No other merchant vessel in the United States could have stood half as much.

We were most of the time lashed to the rigging some 30 feet from the deck and at high water an almost continual spray would strike us. The privations of hunger augmented by intense thirst and the salt water you can well imagine. The deck of the forward turret started sufficiently to let small spurts of water in at every sea. This is owing to the overhang of the turret deck. In a former letter I stated that when we first left the ship the engine-room turret had started from the deck. From a later and more full examination I found this not to be so.

She is full of water fore and aft and now has a list to starboard of about eight degrees. At high water the main deck is about eighteen inches above the level of the sea and her bottom is pretty badly torn from the effects of the pounding on the hard bottom on which she rests. There is a tide rise and fall here of about six feet.

On the fore part of No. 3 hatch a stanchion on each side has partly forced its way through the deck, making somewhat of a large blister. She is resting on a hard sandy bottom and I do not think she will embed herself in it owing to her flat bottom. She is somewhat strained fore and aft. This I know from the fact that one fine day, two weeks ago, with the lifeboat's boat hook I entered the point of the same into many of the butts of her port side well under water.

In conclusion I would state that since the accident occurred I have learned that one of the large passenger steamers came near going ashore where we did. Captain Debnay stated that he was drawn close in shore by an unusual easterly current and was only saved by the fog clearing up. Words fail me, Captain McDougall, to express the deep sorrow that I feel over the accident, it being my first in sixteen years as a master, and I can only say, in extenuation that I did my best as regards courses steered, and never turned in a fog. Respectfully yours, JOHN A. O'BRIEN.

A Light Monday List.

In the municipal court this morning, John Causus, John Nislorp and Joseph Chambers answered quietly to the charge of drunkenness, were fined ten dollars and trimmings and committed to the county jail. Joseph Gustafson, with the charge of being drunk and disorderly, caught a twelve dollar fine and was given quarters with the plain drunks. P. F. Thornton, charged with an indecent exposure of his person, entered a plea of not guilty, whereupon his case was continued until 2 o'clock this afternoon.

Sickness Among Children.

Especially infants, is prevalent at all times, but is largely avoided by giving proper nourishment and wholesome food. The most successful and reliable is the Gail Borden "Eagle" Brand Condensed Milk. Your grocer and druggist keep it.

The Culprit Confessed.

It was in a country school. A small, bright boy had just been enrolled, and this was his first day. The little fellow had a habit of whistling when he was not thinking about it. The teacher pointed out a desk for him and gave him a lesson to be studying. He took his seat, propped his knees up against the desk, with his feet swinging down underneath and became absorbed in his lesson. After awhile he forgot about his lesson and began whistling merrily. The teacher looked up from his writing and asked: "Who's that whistling?" The small boy looked up quickly and then said innocently: "That's me. Didn't you know I could whistle?"—Detroit Free Press.

A New Patient.

Hippopotamus Amphibious—Doctor, can't you recommend something to reduce corpulence? I am—or rather I have a friend who is uncomfortably stout, and it struck me that we might confer on this matter to—mutual advantage perhaps.—Harper's Bazar.

Passion and Pants.

One of the most fascinating clubmen in town, who has a great big weakness for the fair sex and who delights in copying sentimental verses into their albums, met with a blood curdling check the other day. He was seated beside a lovely girl, who lent a coral and an attentive ear to all his burning words. Ordinary language was inadequate to express his emotion, so he scribbled on a slip of paper taken at random from his pocketbook:

Oh, darling, I hearken thy heart beats,
Art thou listening, sweet one, unto mine?
I love thee, I love thee, I love thee,
You fire up my pulses like wine.

The foregoing may not be strictly correct, but the verses were of that character—extremely warm and correspondingly booby. The poor sweet girl took them with a tear in her eye, and with a glance of ineffable tenderness at her adorer concealed them in the folds of her dress. The next morning, in the cold, gray, realistic light, the chairman got a letter. It was brief, but to the point. It said, "When next you write sentimental verses to me, please do not let your romantic nature make you careless." And the unfortunate man read on the obverse of the scrap where he had indited his soul thrilling lines:

"Mr. —, Dr. To cleaning and repairing six pairs of pants, six dollars." And worse still, the bill was unrecipited. Even Ovid, immortal bard of love, would have the vim knocked out of him by such a contretemps.—San Francisco News-Letter.

Life's Fitful Hay Fever.

"I thought you knew better than to say 'had saw'."
"I do, sir."
"Didn't I hear you say it just now?"
"Hardly!"
"I surely did."
"Where?"
"Here. Not a minute ago."
"I said 'had saw'?"
"You did."
"Do you deny it?"
"Of course I do."
"Confound you, don't you suppose I know when I hear a man say 'had saw'?"
"Confound you, can't you tell when a bird got a cold in his head? I was talking about a haddasaw, blade you!"—Chicago Tribune.

Reasonable.

It is a tiresome thing to the young, their elders must confess, to be told often that the last generation were better looking and knew much more at the same age than the present generation.

A boy of thirteen in a public grammar school was reproached by his master for his slowness.

"When I was thirteen," said the master, "I was at least two years further advanced than you are. How do you account for that?"

"I've heard my father say," replied the boy a little diffidently, "that they used to have a great deal better teachers than they have nowadays!"—Youth's Companion.

Prepared to Rescue.

Willie's Mother—Your hair is wet, Willie. Where have you been?
Willie—In the pond, mamma. I jumped in to rescue little Tommy Squeers from drowning.

Willie's Mother—My noble boy! Was Tommy in swimming?
Willie—No'm. But he was going to go in.—Chicago News-Record.

Like Sheep.

He said if she would give him a kiss he would not ask for another.
"But, dear," she said regisly, "what if I wanted another?"

"Oh, that will be all right," he assured her. "Kisses are like sheep; when one leads the others follow."—Detroit Free Press.

Well Protected.

A. S. WILSON DECLINES!

He Positively Refuses to be a Candidate for the Legislature Under any Circumstances.

Meeting at Morris Thomas' Office to Fill the Vacancy Adjourns Without Doing Anything.

The People's Party is in a Far From Harmonious Condition Over the Idea of Fusion.

A. S. Wilson, who was nominated for the legislature Saturday, by the Democrats, has absolutely declined to make the run. He had said before the convention that he would under no circumstances accept, but the Democrats evidently thought he might weaken after he had received the nomination. The legislative committee whose duty it will be to fill the vacancy was appointed by Chairman J. Adam Bede of the convention this morning. The members are: James Hart, chairman; R. D. Dow, George L. Spangler, of Duluth; P. O. Noben, of West Duluth; James A. Grierson, of Tower; M. F. Hannon, of Two Harbors, and J. A. Macfarlane, of Grand Marais.

The committee met this morning at the office of Morris Thomas to consider the question of nominating a legislative candidate in place of Mr. Wilson. After considerable talk nothing was done and it was practically agreed to await the outcome of the People's party adjourned convention this afternoon. The understanding between the sachems of both organizations when the question of fusion was settled was that the People's party should name one candidate for the legislature and the Democrats two. This program was not carried out the Populists nominating two, John Henswold, Jr., and K. O. Baistad. It is quite probable that the latter will be withdrawn, and he is said to be willing himself to be dropped out.

There was considerable talk among the politicians this morning as to the action of the People's party convention this afternoon. There is a faction which does not want fusion, and has been making threats of preventing it. Some of these are alleged by the Populist leaders to be working in the interest of the present county officers, and others to want the offices themselves. Among the former is classed Henry Haskins, who is regarded as the chief disturber. One of the men who is particularly anxious to see fusion defeated, at least as far as the office of treasurer is concerned, is Rev. George H. Kemp. He wants to be county treasurer himself, according to reliable reports.

The convention was called to meet at 2:30 o'clock and the session may be as long as the former one.

THEY DO NOT LIKE IT.

West Duluthians Are Considerably Worked Up Over the Verdict.

When the news of Houck's acquittal reached this place Saturday evening, people would not believe it possible and when The Evening Herald's extra came out, the decision was the all-prevailing topic. Knots of men gathered along the streets and earnestly discussed the matter, and it is only fair to say that no jury in St. Louis county ever came in for more roasting than that in the Houck case. No open threats are made against Houck, but the feeling here is very bitter against him and he will hardly presume to return should he be acquitted in the Murphy charge. It is sarcastically suggested that the authorities settle with him at once, else he will bring heavy condemnation against the county for false imprisonment.

West Duluth Briefs.

Mr. and Mrs. Alven Welen left today for a winter's visit at their old home in Goteburg, Sweden.

Company G will probably hold an election this evening for the purpose of electing a new captain.

Albert Elston, of Verdale, Minn., is a guest of his brother Edward.

The Terrible Sea.

They were seated upon the rocky cliffs overlooking a bit of dangerous shore, where a ship had foundered the night before.

The restless waves beat upon the irregular sea-wall and sent great flecks of foam high into the air.

Slowly going to pieces upon the cruel rocks, the good ship tossed in her agony as a delicious patient tosses on his bed of pain.

Ever and anon the green waves dashed over her and drove her firmer into the giant grasp that was crushing the life out of her.

The crew had been safely brought to land, and the ship was left to the boisterous caresses of the heartless ocean.

As the young man gazed upon the terrific scene of wind and wave and helpless ship, an avestruck silence sealed his lips.

After a few moments thus he turned to the beautiful girl beside him.

A faintly perceptible smile shone in and out amid the pink and white of her lovely face.

He saw in it the sunshine that lives eternal in the faces of the angels.

She put out her soft white hand and touched his arm.

His hand had tenderly upon the cruel waves dashed high, "does the sea wear pants?"

Algeron shuddered and would have fallen, but his will was strong, and he stood fast.

"Why do you ask that?" he said, with no answering smile to hers.

"Because, dear," she answered timidly, "because I thought it must, it makes so many breaches over the wreck down there, don't you know?"

Then Algeron fell to the earth with a dull thud.—Detroit Free Press.

His True Title.

A man who lived near the Barrys was devoted to the harp, and "practiced" with commendable assiduity. But some people do not enjoy music.

The other night Miss Barry said: "Uncle Charles, the Bible says 'harper,' but I notice that the newspaper critics usually write 'harpist.' I wonder which form is the more correct. If you were speaking of Mr. Cross, in the next house, which should you call him, a harper or a harpist?"

"Neither," said Uncle Charles, with the utmost promptness, "if I called him anything I should call him a confounded nuisance."—Youth's Companion.

What She Was.

One evening during a diplomatic reception at the White House, among the guests was a woman whose perfect neck and arms were the admiration of every one. Mme. de Struve's escort, in justifiable pride at the loveliness of his own countrywoman, commented as she passed, "There goes a perfect type of American beauty." Without hesitating the minister's wife, looking down at her own dark hued neck, responded, "And I represent a perfect type of Russia leather."—Argonaut.

Couldn't Wait.

Dashaway—After I took Miss Summit home from the theater the other night I wanted to kiss her so much, and I think she rather wanted me to, but she had her veil on.

Clevertown—Why didn't you ask her to take it off?

Dashaway—Because I wanted to get home in time for breakfast.—Clook Review.

The hypophosphites of lime and soda combined with cod-liver oil in Scott's Emulsion improve the appetite, promote digestion, and increase the weight. They are thought by some to be food; but this is not proved. They are tonics; this is admitted by all. Cod-liver oil is mainly a food, but also a tonic. ### Impaling a Stranger.

Uncle Zeb, who had just come in from Uptecreek and brought his appetite along, stared hard at the waiter.

"Do you call this a bangup eatin house?" he asked.

"It's about as good as any in the city, I think, sir," replied the waiter stiffly.

"Then I'd like to know," said Uncle Zeb, bringing his fist down on the table with an emphasis that made the dishes rattle, "why in thunder you can't furnish a few molasses to eat on this pie!"—Chicago Tribune.

To Bring Over Art Works.

The secretary of the navy will detail one of our old wooden warships to transport from France and Italy the works of Americans residing abroad after the juries in Paris, Munich, Rome and Florence have completed their work. The United States steamship Constellation will sail from Havre about the first week of November and from Genoa about the middle of the following month with specimens of the finest works of art. The vessel will arrive in New York in January, and the pictures will at once be transferred to their proper places in the Art palace. The assistance which the government at Washington is lending in the interest of this department is most encouraging and will be the means of stimulating foreign exhibitors.

Brazilian Coffee.

The receipts of coffee at the port of Rio de Janeiro for the crop year ended June 30 was 3,718,890 bags, against 2,413,648 for the crop year 1890-1. The receipts of coffee at Santos for eleven months of the crop year 1891-2 was 8,514,458 bags, against 2,911,996 for the corresponding period of the year 1890-1.

Both Ran Away.

Henry Young, of Greenbush, Me., was out blueberrying near his clearing, and got onto a large hemlock tree to walk along over a rough place. The tree lay about four feet above the ground in the middle, and at this point Mr. Young slipped off the tree and fell onto a large board that was taking a nap. It would be hard to tell whether the man or the bear was the most frightened, but neither stopped to show fight.

Why Boston Weeps.

A little figuring upon the result of the League championship race, had there been no dual season, is quite interesting in results. If there had been no division and no new stars, the Clevelands would have had very little chance to beat the Bostons out. Indeed, with a continuance of games the Bostons would now be the only club "in it." That fact is what makes the Boston club so much disgusted with the double championship plan, for it is evident that the Clevelands, as the last winners, will be regarded everywhere as the real champions.

An Aluminium Yacht.

There was recently launched on the Lake of Zurich a steam yacht which is remarkable from the fact that it is built almost entirely of that remarkable metal aluminum. As her sides are guileless of paint she presents the appearance of a streak of silver as she glides hither and thither over the water. The weight of the Mignon is only 1 1/2 tons. Naturally she is constructed on very light scantlings. The keel, stem and sternposts are of forged aluminum 7 inches by 1 inch; the frames are 1 inch by 1 inch by 1-16 of an inch, except in the engine room, where they are 1 1/2 inches by 1 1/2 inches by 1/4 of an inch. The frames are spaced throughout the vessel 16 inches. The shell plating ranges from 3-32 of an inch to 4-32 of an inch in thickness, and 15,000 aluminium rivets hold the yacht together.

The Mignon's principal dimensions are: Length between perpendiculars, 45 feet; breadth molded, 6 feet; depth molded, about 3 feet; draft, 2 ft. 2 in. All of her machinery, including the propeller, is made of aluminum—excepting only the cranks and shafting. The remarkable lightness and toughness of this metal are bound to bring it into more general use for the construction of small racing yachts, now that its adaptability for the purpose has been demonstrated in the case of the Mignon.

CHILDREN ON PARADE.

This was Public School Day in the Columbus Anniversary Celebration in New York City.

Thousands of Pupils from the Public and Private Schools Marched with Flags and Banners.

Vice-President Morton, Representing the President, and Governor Flower Were on the Reviewing Stand.

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—This was public school day in the order of festivities of New York's Columbian celebration. It was the second movement in the grand symphony arranged for the occasion: 1, religious observances; 2, educational display; 3, naval procession; 4, military parade; 5, general rejoicing and banquet. The prayers and religious exercises on Saturday and Sunday—participated in by all creeds and denominations—were followed by an equally cosmopolitan demonstration of the educational forces, which have given the new world its strongest and upward impetus.

Results of more than 250 years of educational work were represented in the parade—from the first school founded by the old Dutch settlers in 1633 in that part of "New Amsterdam" now known as West Seventy-seventh street, still in existence and called the school of the Reformed church. Today New York owns two public school houses, representing an estimated value in sites and buildings of over $15,000,000 and provides education for more than 200,000 pupils.

Every boy entered into the patriotic spirit of the occasion. There were three other divisions of equal patriotic purpose. In the second division came the pupils of the parochial schools, academies and colleges of the Catholic church in New York and adjacent cities, over 5000 strong, each pupil also carrying the national flag in connection with the emblems and banners of the churches and academies to which they belong. After them followed the uniformed schools, and last the students of matter years from the different colleges of law and medicine, about 4500 strong; 1000 from Columbia college, 1200 from the University of New York, 1200 from the under graduate colleges, 250 from the college of dentists.

In the third division of the procession was a medley composed of numerous "institutes." It comprised Hebrew orphan asylums, German, Italian and French institutions of various characters, intermixed with trades schools; colleges, military institutes and mechanics societies. Altogether it is probable that there were fully 25,000 scholars and students in the "procession." The division of the different bands was at times confusing and discordant in the extreme, unavoidable so from the large number of bands and the small intervals of separation. Cappa's fine Seventh regiment band led with fifty pieces, but there were also the military bands of the Eight, Ninth, Twelfth, Fourteenth, Twenty-second, Thirty-second and Seventy-first New York regiments, all ranging from thirty-five to fifty pieces; the bands of the First New Jersey regiment; the Navy Yard band; numerous private bands and innumerable drum corps.

In the distribution of American flags to the scholars in the direction of the executive committee on schools and colleges, these flags to a large extent forming the pass key to participation in the parade, care was taken that none should be given to boys under twelve years of age. The girl scholars who were denied participation in the parade were assigned a peculiarly appropriate part in the proceedings. Artistically grouped on a stand in the reservoir square at the junction of Fifth and Twenty-second streets were nearly 1700 pretty-faced school girls, each wearing a Liberty cap and costumed in red, white and blue respectively. The tableaux had been so arranged beforehand that on the approach of the procession, almost instantaneously the children so disposed themselves and their costumes as to present the effect of the American shield with three American flags artistically bunched on each side of the shield.

The fluttering, quivering motions of the admirably arranged bands of colors, as 1700 sweet girl voices sang "The Star Spangled Banner" and other patriotic songs, while their gallant boy fellow students tramped past with a quick step and ringing cheers, must have left a lasting impression of the Columbian school day celebration on the minds of thousands of the rising generation. On the east side of Union square a like number of the First New Jersey regiment school girls of the Catholic parochial schools, and on a neighboring stand 300 tiny little waifs belonging to the Children's Aid society waved their miniature American flags as the procession passed on.

But the feature of the parade which perhaps attracted more attention than any other along the line was the march of 300 little Indian boys from the Carlisle, Pa., Indian Industrial school, accompanied by their own band of music and partly dressed in Indian costume, partly in uniform of their school. These sturdy-going warriors of different tribes, who are fighting a way to civilization for themselves and their race by means of practical education in agricultural and mechanical arts, as well as in the ordinary grammar school methods of study, had been drilled and trained for exhibition in Chicago in the Columbian opening ceremonies there. They admirably illustrated the fact that education and milder methods than those originally pursued are surely and even rapidly elevating in the scale of civilization, the race whom Columbus found in sole possession of the country he claimed by right of Christian discovery.

There was one other reflection which impressed itself upon the spectators of to-day's parade, who had witnessed the recent memorable encampment of the G. A. R. in Washington which was, that while in that wonderfully vigorous and well preserved body of men the United States had a veteran reserve force of which the greatest European military power might be proud, in these scholars and students there was a young growth of military patriotism, which promised well for the future peace and security of the country.

The route of the procession was from the neighborhood of Fifth avenue and Fifty-seventh street, near the lower entrance to Central Park, down Fifth avenue to Seventeenth street and Union square, thence around the square to Fourteenth street, to Fifth avenue again and down that street to Washington square, West Fourth street and Broadway, at which points the signal to disband was given.

The grammar school boys gathered in their respective school buildings early in the morning and marched up Fifth avenue to about Fifth street, and then turned and began their march over the allotted route. The other divisions formed chiefly in the vicinity of Fifty-ninth street. It was a perfect day for the historic marching.

Following in carriages came the committee of arrangements, the president of the board of education, Mr. Hunt, the city superintendent of public schools, John Jasper, Mayor Grant and other distinguished guests. The mayor, the grand marshal, Capt. David S. Brown, and Charles Guggenheimer, dropped out of the procession at Washington square and reviewed it from that point. The Seventh regiment band headed the first public school division of twenty regiments of grammar school boys, under command of John Robinson, principal of grammar school No. 1, at the head of the parade, surrounded by a guard of honor of twenty-four senior boys forming a hollow square with open front.

The second division of Catholic parochial schools was under the command of Gen. James R. O'Brien as marshal. The third division, the uniformed schools, was marshaled by Maj. Max Reece, and the fourth, the college division, was under the command of Maj. Franklin Bartlett. Three hundred and fifty German-American girls, handsomely costumed, marched in line with the New York Turn Bezik and sang patriotic airs as they marched. The Long Island contingent, 1000 strong, led by the mayor, came over in a body by itself and joined the parade.

As the decorations of the city approach completion they grow rapidly in effect. Expense has nowhere been spared, but better than the lavish expenditure is the general manifestation of good taste that prevails. The presidential reviewing stand in Madison Square opposite the Worth place was pleasantly shaded by pink striped awnings supplementing the fall foliage of the trees in the square, the stands stretching to right and left of the presidential dais and on the opposite side of the avenue. The entire length of the square was thronged with spectators. Governor Flower's arrival was greeted with cheers. Soon after, Vice President Morton, representing President Harrison, arrived and the cheering was renewed.

DEVASTATED BY FIRE.

A Large Stretch of Country in South Dakota Burned.

HURON, S. D., Oct. 10.—While men were burning a fire break around a tree claim eight miles northwest of here yesterday afternoon the fire got beyond control and swept over a vast stretch of country.

The wind was blowing forty miles an hour and drove the flames so rapidly that all attempts to check it proved useless. The town of Broadland narrowly escaped destruction and the people of Hitchcock, eighteen miles northwest of here, saved their town only by backing.

The section burned over is from seven to ten miles wide by twenty miles long. The loss to the settlers will be very heavy as the burned district is one of the most prosperous developed farms. The same section was devastated by fire last year.

THE WRECKED NASHUA.

None of the Bodies of the Fifteen Victims Found Yet.

PORT HURON, Mich., Oct. 10.—The wreck of the steam barge Nashua lies three miles below Bayfield. The starboard side, from fifty feet aft of amidships to the stern, is completely carried away. It is supposed the boiler went through the side of the steamer.

Saturday a large quantity of wreckage and four life jackets came ashore. It is believed the jackets had been strapped on by the imperiled crew, and after death came from exposure the bodies worked ashore.

The bodies of none of the fifteen victims on board of the steamer, when she encountered the gale on Lake Huron last Tuesday, have been found, although close watch is being kept along the shore.

A Big Deficiency.

LONDON, Oct. 10.—The accounts of the London branch of the Bank of Australia show liabilities of £980,000 in excess of the assets. This deficiency is due to large overdrafts in the directors' books which, it is alleged, have been doctored by the chairman, who is interested in certain companies which owed the bank the large sum of £600,000.

One Drowned, Three Saved.

CANANDAIGUA, N. Y., Oct. 10.—While sailing on Lake Canandaigua yesterday Allan Smith, of Clifton Springs, was drowned by the boat capsizing. His three companions clung to the boat and were rescued.

Died on a Street Car.

DURQUE, Ia., Oct. 10.—James Ryan, the Galena pork packer, well known in produce exchange circles throughout the country, died of heart failure on a street car here last night. He leaves six children.

A Prize Fighter Killed.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Oct. 10.—Dick Nolan, a lightweight prize fighter from Birmingham, Ala., died last night from the effects of a knock-out in a fight with Jack Davis, before the Young Men's Athletic club in this city Saturday night for a purse.

His Life a Failure.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Oct. 10.—At an early hour this morning John Canott, aged 22 years, a medical student from Springfield, Mo., committed suicide in a yard in front of a residence at 2702 Dayton street by firing a bullet through his heart. He left a note to the coroner stating that life was a failure.

DOCTOR AND LAWYER.

Two Representatives of Learned Professions are Rival Candidates for Congress in Michigan.

Dr. Henry F. Thomas, of Allegan, Has Already Been an Active Worker in the Republican Cause.

George L. Yapple is the "Boy from Mendon" Who Gave Julius Caesar Burrows a Surprise.

In the Fourth Michigan district a doctor and a lawyer are the contestants for congressional honors. The Republicans selected as their standard bearer Dr. Henry F. Thomas, of Allegan, and George L.

Yapple, of Mendon, is the choice of the Democrats and People's party. Both were born in Michigan—Dr. Thomas in Jackson county forty-eight years ago, and Yapple in St. Joseph county, the county in which he still lives, in 1831. Dr. Thomas was educated in the seminary at Richland, Kalamazoo county, and took a finishing course in Allegan college, and then went to the war, enlisting as a private in Company D, Seventh Michigan cavalry, and serving in the Army of the Potomac under General Custer. He returned in 1865 and studied medicine at the state university. He first practiced at Constantine, St. Joseph county, but moved to Allegan a year later, where he has since lived. He was elected to the state legislature in 1873, has been chairman of the county committee and has always been an active worker in the Republican cause.

Mr. Yapple was a student in the Northwestern university at Evanston, Ill., and upon graduating in 1871 studied law, and at the age of twenty-one was admitted to the bar. He laid aside his books to engage in farming for six years, and then resumed practice at Allegan. He was elected to the state legislature in 1873, has been chairman of the county committee and has always been an active worker in the Republican cause.

In 1884 he again ran for congress against Burrows, but was defeated. In 1886 he was the Democrat-Greenback candidate for governor, and was defeated by Cyrus E. Lane. He was the choice of the Democratic members of the legislature for United States senator in 1887, but the Democrats were greatly in the minority. In 1888 he was one of the delegates at large to the Democratic national convention, and two years later he made a fourth run for congress against Julius Caesar Burrows, but was defeated by a plurality of 300. He is now making his fifth canvass.

HE LOOKS LIKE BEECHER.

Colonel John C. Wyman, Rhode Island's World's Fair Commissioner.

There is a Rhode Island man who bears a marked facial resemblance to the late Henry Ward Beecher. He is Colonel John C. Wyman, of Valley Falls, at present the Rhode Island executive manager of the World's Columbian exposition. Though rather advanced in years, and he is old, and ten—he is as active and vigorous as he was when only half as old, and performs the duties of his office in a most enthusiastic manner. If "Little Rhody" doesn't make a big showing at the fair it will not be his fault.

Colonel John C. Wyman has had an interesting career. He went to the war in May, 1862, as captain of company A, Thirty-second regiment, Massachusetts infantry, as at that time he was a resident of the Bay State. In the September following he was appointed provost marshal of Alexandria, Va., which position he held until the spring of 1863, when he was placed in charge of the supply department of the Army of the Potomac, and later assigned to a responsible position in the United States military railway service. He was one of the military escort which accompanied the remains of President Lincoln from Washington Springs, Ill., and in May, 1865, assigned to become connected with the Rensselaer Iron and Steel company, of Troy, N. Y. He has lived in Rhode Island since 1882. Not even Chauncey M. Depew surpasses him as a story teller, and he is in great demand as an after dinner speaker.

The colonel has been a frequent visitor to New York city, where, while Mr. Beecher was living, he was often mistaken for the great preacher.

M. Puvris de Chavannes, who succeeded Melissouer as president of the Group of Artists constituting the Champ de Mars salon, is about to venture on new ground. He has accepted from the minister of fine arts a commission to design two panels for reproduction in tapestry at the Gobelins.

Miss Marie Correll writes to a friend, saying: "I shall be very glad if you will contradict the erroneous reports that circulate in the American press about me. All I want said is that I am not the daughter, but the adopted daughter, of Charles Mackay, and that my legal name is Marie Correll."

CHIPPER CHESTNUTS.

Rev. Mr. Proby—How did you like my discourse last Sunday, Mr. Proby? Proby—To tell you the truth, I was not altogether pleased with your premises, but I was delighted beyond measure at your conclusion.—Boston Transcript.

A short time ago little two-year-old Elsie was eating paucules and strup for breakfast. After eating the cakes she said: "Mamma, please give me a spoon. My fork leaks."—Youth's Companion.

"You can't get up as many revolutions a minute as I can," said the little wheel. "What do you take me for," responded the big one, "a South American republic?"—Washington Star.

"When you climb to great heights don't you sometimes dread falling and being killed?" she asked. "No," replied the adventurous spirit. "What I fear most is falling from an immense height and not getting killed."—Harper's Bazar.

Bob Stayer—"Well, I believe I must be going. Miss Weary—Perhaps you had better. The signal service predicts rain for tomorrow.—Kate Field's Washington.

"Oh, dry up!" as autumn said to the leaf. "I'm not as green as I was," replied the leaf, "so I'll take your advice."—Texas Siftings.

The mosquito bill is one of the measures which goes into effect immediately after its passage.—Union County Standard.

Mr. Toothandnail—I can't imagine what we ever got married for; we're totally different at every single point. Mrs. Toothandnail—Oh, you flatterer!—Boston Courier.

The Boy and the Brook.

The boy at babbling brook Took A look.

And cried: "Here's just the thing! String! I'll fling!"

Wherent this youth so young Swung And flung.

And then the air that blew Through He flew.

So thus he reached the shore. So With roar!—Truth.

A Striking Exception. Dashaway—They say that to lend a man money is to make an enemy of him. Do you believe it?

Travers—Not always. A fellow lent me ten dollars not long ago, and I am sure I have never tried to get even with him.—Life.

Just the Thing. Witherbly—How do you manage to keep your sidewalk so nice and fresh?

Plankington—My wife puts on her tailor made gown, and every morning she walks up and down in front of the house.—Cloak Review.

An Original Girl. Skiddle—When you proposed I suppose she said, "This is so sudden."

Spatts—No. She only remarked, "You might have had me a year ago, George."—New York Sun.

Cruel. Mrs. Crimmonbeak—I hope I make myself plain, sir?

Mr. Crimmonbeak—Nature saved you that trouble, ma'am.—Yonkers Statesman.

Her Thoughts. It was the twilight hour. They sat Down where the waves were breaking. With love his heart went plapap. With love his voice was shaking.

With love his heart went plapap. With love his voice was shaking. "Come, dear," he cried, "with heaving chest, "Tell me what thoughts you're thinking."

"Why, I was thinking, George," she said, Her eyes so full of meaning. "How much," and here she bowed her head, "Your fannel suit needs cleaning."—New York Herald.

The above is a picture of our greatest African explorer, and in it can be traced the forms of two wild animals. Any one can readily see the face of the explorer, but it is difficult to distinguish the two animals.

The proprietors of STANLEY'S PRIZE MEDICINES will give an elegant UPRIGHT PIANO, valued at $500, to the first person who can trace the two wild animals in the picture of the African explorer, and who will send the name of the person who has solved the puzzle, by mail, to the proprietors of STANLEY'S PRIZE MEDICINES, care of the publisher, STANLEY'S PRIZE MEDICINES, 308 BRUSH ST., DETROIT, MICH.

The person whose envelope is postmarked first will be awarded the first prize, and the others in order of merit. The person sending the first correct answer will be given an elegant GOLD WATCH, valued at $100, and the first correct answer to the last puzzle will be given a handsome SILVER CLOCK, valued at $50.

STANLEY'S PRIZE MEDICINES are the most valuable and reliable of any ever known. They are the only medicines that can be used externally and internally. They are the only medicines that can be used by the weak and the old, and by the young and the strong. They are the only medicines that can be used by the rich and the poor, and by the healthy and the sick. They are the only medicines that can be used by the white and the colored, and by the American and the foreigner. They are the only medicines that can be used by the living and the dead. They are the only medicines that can be used by the body and the soul. They are the only medicines that can be used by the mind and the heart. They are the only medicines that can be used by the spirit and the flesh. They are the only medicines that can be used by the blood and the bones. They are the only medicines that can be used by the nerves and the muscles. They are the only medicines that can be used by the organs and the systems. They are the only medicines that can be used by the whole and the parts. They are the only medicines that can be used by the living and the dead. They are the only medicines that can be used by the body and the soul. They are the only medicines that can be used by the mind and the heart. They are the only medicines that can be used by the spirit and the flesh. They are the only medicines that can be used by the blood and the bones. ## NOTICE

Of Sale of Bonds of the City of Duluth, Minnesota.

Notice is hereby given that the common council of the city of Duluth, Minn., will, at a regular meeting of said council, to be held at the council chamber, in the city hall, in said city, on Monday, the 31st day of October, 1892, at 7 o'clock p. m. of said day, receive and examine sealed proposals for the purchase of one hundred thousand dollars ($100,000) of the general bonds of the city of Duluth, Minnesota. Said bonds to be issued in denominations of one thousand dollars ($1000) each, with proper interest bearing coupons attached, the principal to be made payable in thirty years from the first day of November, 1892, with interest not to exceed four and one-half per cent (4 1/2 per cent) per annum, payable semi-annually, on May first and November first in each and every year, both principal and interest to be made payable at the American Exchange National Bank, in the city of New York. The sale of said bonds to be awarded to the highest responsible bidder at a sum not less than the par value thereof. The common council reserves the right to reject any or all bids.

Witness my hand and seal this 6th day of October, A. D. 1892.

FRANK BURKE, JR., City Clerk, City of Duluth, Minnesota. (Corporate Seal.)

ENGLAND'S IRON HAND

The Recently-Declared Protectorate of the Gilbert Islands Means They are Under British Rule.

An Incident in a Career of Annexation that Has Made Great Britain a Big Empire.

Now Rules One-Fourth of the Earth's Surface and One-Fifth of the Human Race.

Macaulay gives us an interesting story of the first British settlement in India—how an Englishman, oppressed by an official, traveled to the court of Aurangzeb, the last and greatest of the great moguls, and laying hold on that monarch's bridle rein as he rode out of the palace yard demanded justice in the name of the common God of the Christian and the Mussulman. Little did either party then dream, adds the historian, that in a coming time the British would rule all his vast domain and dole out a monthly pension to his heir. Yet that has come to pass.

About that time (1670-80) England was fairly launched upon her great career of annexation, which has continued with but slight interruptions to this day, and the seizure of the British islands last May was but the last of scores of such seizures. Once she voluntarily ceded away territory—the Ionian islands—to Greece, and once only has any portion of her vast empire been lost by successful revolution. These cases excepted, her march has been ever onward till she now rules about one-fourth of the earth's surface and one-fifth of the human race. The Roman empire at its greatest had not half so many people as British India, and compared with Britain's domain all the ancient empires of Asia sink into insignificance.

Her latest acquisition, the Gilbert islands, or Kingsmill group, lie just north of the equator and in longitude 172 east—that is, due north of New Zealand and about 2,500 miles by sea from the thickly settled part of Australia. They were discovered by the British Admiral Byron in 1765, and then seemed to consist mostly of coral reefs, each island a circular rock, so to speak, inclosing an inner sea bordered by sandhills. But later explorations showed several of the islands to be inhabited, and the total population is now about 25,000. The cocoanut tree is the life of the people; its fruit makes a large part of their food, and from its wood and bark are constructed their boats, clothing, utensils and habitations.

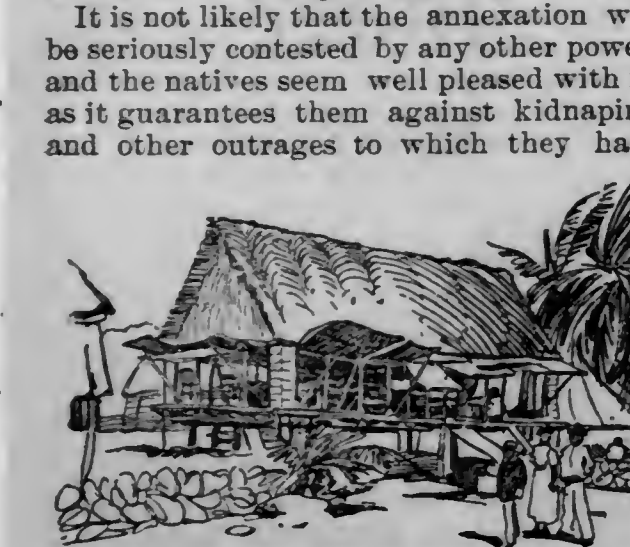

The people are simple, civil and unwarlike, and governed by hereditary kings. Apamama is the principal island, and King Paul is a boy of ten years. Tabinoko had been king for many years, when he died in 1891, and was succeeded by his brother Simmon, who soon killed himself by drinking. Both these monarchs were of immense size, weighing over 300 pounds each. King Paul succeeded as the son of Simmon, and there was a relaxation of the rule which gave occasion for interference. On the 5th of May, 1892, Captain Edward H. M. Davis, of the British ship Royalist, planted the British flag on Apamama and read this proclamation:

Her majesty, Victoria, queen of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland and empress of India, having this day assumed a protectorate over the Gilbert Islands, I remind all residents in the group, other than natives, that it is contrary to law to supply firearms, ammunition, explosive substances or intoxicating liquors to any natives of the Gilbert Islands. This is hereby made known for general information.

The flag was then run up and saluted by the marines, and the Royalist fired a salute of twenty-one guns. King Paul stood by, apparently pleased with the spectacle, holding his sword in his hand and digging up the sand with his toes. The few Americans in the island were furious and protested vehemently, but of course without avail. The captain visited all the inhabited islands and hoisted and proclaimed in each.

The islands are nominally Christian, and there are English and American missions. The missionaries and a few traders make quite a little society of whites. Many refinements have been introduced, and the "palace" of King Paul is well furnished in the European style. Most of the dwellings are quite substantial structures, raised on stone foundations and thatched with cocoanut leaves. The people speak the same language throughout the group, and the missionaries have printed testaments and hymn books in the native tongue. The principal trade is in cocoanuts and other simple tropical products.

It is not likely that the annexation will be seriously contested by any other power, and the natives seem well pleased with it, as it guarantees them against kidnapping and other outrages to which they have been subject. They are now British subjects, with all the rights and privileges thereunto belonging, and it is an old fact that one of the first acts of the new rulers was to hang a Chinaman for murdering another, both being British subjects previous to the annexation.

TALE WITH A MORAL.

Which Teaches That You Had Better Let the Races Alone.

And it came to pass at the place which men call the race track that a certain youth appeared after the third race had been run and manifested signs of great joy.

"For," said he, "I have bet $1 to win $500 if I name the winners of the first five races correctly, and lo! I have already named these three aright."

After the fourth race came that youth in a tumult of doubt and questioning. "Again they have run my way," he said, "but I am in a sore perplexity. The men who preside over the booth offer me $100 for my bet as it stands, and I fancy much that a bird in the hand is pleasant, and yet—$100!"

Now, when the fifth race had been run, we, knowing this youth to have picked the winner, approached him with congratulations upon our lips and expecting greatly that he would set 'em up. But his countenance was sorrowful, and as we did him the requested favor of kicking him all over that county, he told us the sad truth of the matter.

"As you know," so the tale ran, "I had picked the odds on the favorite, and the bookmakers had offered to compromise the bet. Then suddenly, while I yet labored with my doubts, there ran up to me a certain friend who said hastily that the favorite was not decreed by the fates and the owner's stable to win. This he knew, having recently come from the paddock. Whereupon, believing his story, I returned to the bookie and offered to settle my bet for sixty dollars for the bet. And then the favorite romped home by three lengths. Now! Kick me again!"

And the last state of this youth was worse than the first, for he staked all his sixty dollars on the horse that did not win the sixth and last race, and he was constrained to borrow a nickel to ride home with. And the moral of this true tale is not hard to find.—Chicago Tribune.

Ventilation.

Alexander Dumas, the great French novelist, had in his character much of the natural comicality of the negro race, from which he was in part sprung. His son, Alexander Dumas fils, was notably lacking in this quality, and the father was fond of making pleasant little jokes at his expense.

Once when the father was visiting the son, Alexander junior invited Alexander senior into the garden, which is said to have been somewhat larger than a good sized pocket handkerchief. They sat under the one little tree in this garden, and fanned themselves.

"I am suffocating," said Alexander senior.

"What shall I do, pere?" asked Alexander junior.

"Open your chamber window and let a little air out into your garden," said Alexander pere.—Youth's Companion.

Safe Enough.

A man rushed into the waiting room of a safety deposit company yesterday morning and said hurriedly to the custodian:

"I want to get something out of my box—No. 37,400—and I've lost my key. How will I manage it?"

"We gave you two keys, you remember, when you leased the box," returned the custodian, "so that if you lost one you could fall back on the other. They are duplicates. You will have to go and get your other key. There is no other way to get the contents of your box."

"Great Scott!" gasped the excited caller. "I put the other key inside the box for safe keeping!"—Toronto Mail.

Intercepted Letters.

DEAR NEPHEW—I write this note from my house in Whedle's Corners to tell you that the opportunity you have so long craved of seeing myself and family is about to be granted. I and Jeanie and Etta and Jim, Benjie, the two babies, our hired man and cousin Sally are coming to make you a nice long visit during the World's fair. Yours affectionately, UNCLE SAMUEL.

DEAR UNCLE—Your kind note has been received. I am very sorry to say that with red myself are going to leave town tonight to be gone three years. We are bitterly disappointed. Your affectionate nephew, JAS. J.

—Chicago News-Record.

She Hadn't Quite Understood.

It was a college town and he was a freshman calling on a young lady he had known as a boy. The servant who admitted him asked for his name.

"An old friend"—very airily—"amicus."

Bridget said, "Yes, sor," and retired, but in a moment returned to ask:

"If you please, sor, what sort of a cuss did yer say it that ye wuz?"—Detroit Free Press.

A Great Need.

Appropos of the admission of women to the medical association, Sir Spencer Wells consulted an American examiner on the subject of professional women, and received the following very smart reply: "Well, sir, in our country we have a great many female doctors, female journalists, female preachers and females in all classes of professions and trades, but what he want is more female women."—Argonaut.

Only in the Suburbs.

Passenger (on sleeper, looking between curtains)—What place is this, porter?

Porter—Chicago, sah.

Passenger—Why didn't you wake me? I get off there.

Porter—Bress you, sah, we don't get in to de station till dis afternoon.—Truth.

Too Expensive an Honor.

Day—I hear you have been made a member of the firm.

Weeks—Yes, but I find there is one drawback about that.

Day—What?

Weeks—My salary is larger than I can afford to pay.—New York Herald.

Fond of Home.

"I suppose you are glad to be home from the country, Mrs. Bronson?"

"Delighted! There is only one thing that bothers me now, and that is where we shall spend the autumn and winter. We go abroad in the spring."—Harper's Bazar.

A Pleasant Prospect.

Sister—Tom, father says you're to come home right away. He wants to speak to you.

Tom (who has been playing "hokey")—What does he want me for?

Sister—He didn't say, but he went out to cut a willow rod as I left the house.—Life.

For renovating the entire system, eliminating all poisons from the blood, whether of scrofulous or malarial origin, this preparation has no equal.

For eighteen months I had an eating sore on my tongue. I was treated by best local physicians, but obtained no relief; the sore gradually grew worse. I finally took S. S. S., and was entirely cured after using a few bottles.
